Silvermaster And Perlo Face Quiz On Spy Ring

2 Former Federal Aides Subpenaed; Budenz Partially Corroborates Bentley

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Two former Government employes, accused of heading wartime spy rings in Washington, will face congressional questioning this week, it was learned last night.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities has subpenaed N. Gregory Silvermaster, former Commerce employe, and Victor Perlo, former WPB official, to testify this week.

Each was charged by Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley, attractive self-confessed former Russian spy, with being the head of a Communist espionage ring of Government workers. She testified that the information they relayed to her was passed on to Russian secret agents and to Earl Browder, now deposed chief of the Communist Party.

Silvermaster Born In Russia

Silvermaster, she said, ran a secret photostatic studio in the basement of his former home here at 5515 30th st. nw., to copy documents filched from Government files.

Silvermaster's Civil Service file shows that as far back as 1944 he was listed as a probable agent of the NKVD—Russian Secret Police—in the official annals of this Government. He is Russian born.

The file further shows that he was maintained in his job with the aid of Lauchlin Currie, former administrative assistant to President Roosevelt.

The House Un-Ameriran Activities Committee, it is reported, has also confirmed the fact that a Cabinet officer also gave guaranties of Silvermaster's loyalty.

Luxurious Beach Home

At his luxurious beach home on millionaires' row at Long Beach Park, Pa., Silvermaster has steadfily denied to newspaper reporters that he ever had been a member of the Communist Party.

Under oath before the committee in executive session, he refused to answer the question on his possible Communist membership on the ground it would tend to incriminate him.

Living with Silvermaster at present is William Ludwig Ullman, named by Miss Bentley as official photographer for Silvermaster's espionage ring.

Representative Karl Mundt (R., S. D.), acting chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, said yesterday all those mentioned by Miss Bently will eventually receive subpenas. He said, however, that those who felt themselves wrongly charged could gain a prompt hearing by writing the committee and asking permission to testify.

Partial corroboration of Miss Bentley's amazing story of hole-in-the-corner intrigue and spying in wartime Washington came yesterday from Louis F. Budenz, former managing editor of the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, and former member of the national committee of the Communist Party. Budenz quit the party in 1945 and rejoined the Roman Catholic Church.

Testimony of Budenz

Budenz yesterday told the Senate Investigating Subcommittee, which is looking into one phase of this question, that Jacob Golos, the same agent for whom Miss Bentley worked, had first tried to get him to head up activities among Government workers for these same two rings.

The first person Golos told him

Foster Praises Wallace at Reds' Rally

Communist Predicts Support From Hosts of 'Patriotic Americans'

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—William Z. Foster, national Communist Party chairman, tonight praised Henry A. Wallace's party and said "a vote for either Truman or Dewey means a vote for eventual fascism or war."

"They are brazen liars who charge that the Communist Party is trying to dominate the new party or to claim the credit for its formation," Foster asserted in a speech prepared for a rally at Madison Square Garden.

[Among those who have charged that the Communist Party is trying to claim credit for the formation of the Progressive Party is Henry Wallace himself. At his much discussed press conference during the Philadelphia convention Wallace read reporters a statement saying that Communists were always trying to claim credit for his party and he found that "a political liability." He declined to renounce or acknowledge Communist support.—Editor's Note.]

Communist Convention

The rally opened the fourteenth national convention of the Communist Party. It will continue through Thursday. Foster's speech was broadcast over the ABC network (9:30 p. m., Eastern Standard Time).

Some 20,000 persons jammed the Garden. Messages of support of the American Communist movement were announced as received from Communist Parties in several foreign nations, such as Bulgaria, Italy and Czechoslovakia. No message was announced as coming from Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Communist movement.

The party leader said the Democratic and Republican Parties "are both dominated by Wall Street, their candidates and platforms were dictated by big business, and both are committed to American imperialism's policy of world conquest."

"The new Progressive Party offers the opportunity for the forces fighting for peace and against inflation and fascism, to organize and express their strength.

Its national ticket, Wallace that if they don't like President Truman's recommendations, they should come up with an anti-inflation program of their own.

While Porter was before the Senate group, Chairman Thomas B. McCabe and Gov. R. M. Evans of the Federal Reserve Board, were testifying before the House Banking Committee.

Proposals Face Defeat

There they were told by Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.) their plea for increasing bank reserves and restricting instalment buying faces defeat this session.

"Congress is going to hesitate putting them on unless you make out a better case than you have," Wolcott said, after a full day of testimony.

Porter clashed repeatedly with GOP Senators Homer E. Capehart (Ind.), chairman in the absence of Chairman Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.), Harry P. Cain (Wash.) and Joseph McCarthy (Wis.).

"The people are entitled to know," he declared, "whether this Congress proposes action or whether it intends to abandon all hope that any of the solutions offered to check the mounting spiral of prices and wages will be undertaken.

"I do not believe we can risk the immediate future security of

Mrs. Patterson's Daughter Considers Contesting Will

Countess Felicia Gizycka, daughter of Eleanor Medill Patterson, late owner and publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, is considering taking steps to contest the will of her mother who died July 24.

Lloyd K. Garrison, New York attorney representing Countess Gizycka, told The Washington Post that "we have been called in for preliminary discussions but no decision has been reached." He said that further talks looking toward legal action will be held shortly.

Action on admission of the will for probate was held up in District Court yesterday, at least temporarily, when Countess Gizycka failed to waive appointment of collector.

The collector takes charge of all assets pending their disposition. Ordinarily, heirs waive such an appointment and the executors automatically act as collectors.

To effect such action, a waiver signed by the heirs must accompany the petition for probate.

Not having such a waiver, the District law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, who filed the petition in behalf of the executors, asked Associate Justice Edward M. Curran to appoint a collector. The jurist named the Riggs National Bank.

The petition for probate, filed in behalf of Frank C. Waldrop, editor in chief of the newspaper; William C. Shelton, general manager, and Joseph Brooks, New York broker, placed valuation of the estate at $16,586,571.

Waldrop and Shelton were among

Senate Balks Dixie Move To Adjourn

Republicans Admit They Can't Break Filibuster; to Meet Today on Strategy

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate late yesterday slapped down a Southern move to adjourn Congress Wednesday as a Dixie filibuster against anti-poll-tax legislation rolled merrily on.

Republicans squelched the adjournment move, 58 to 13, but failed in their first effort to shut off by cloture the Southern marathon.

As a result, GOP leaders conceded publicly they can't break the filibuster, and called a party policy conference today to decide "what next?"

Seek Anti-Inflation Law

Ready to fold up the special session themselves in the next few days, Senate Republicans nonetheless opposed to a man the Southern move to cut it short now without at least some token anti-inflation legislation on the books.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.), a leader of anti-Truman Southerners, called up the motion to adjourn Congress Wednesday, saying "nothing worthwhile" can be accomplished by remaining in session.

A dozen Southerners joined him in the vote to adjourn, but five others from Dixie voted with Northern and Western Democrats and the solid Republican membership to stay in session.

Whether the special session will close Saturday or late next week meanwhile hinged mainly on how long it will take House and Senate Banking committees to work out abbreviated credit control measures.

Wolcott to File Bill

Following a huddle with House and Senate GOP leaders, House Banking Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.) said he will introduce a GOP anti-inflation bill Wednesday.

Still in the conference stage, the bill is expected to freeze out price control, rationing and materials allocations asked by the President and authorize only some tightening of bank credit through increased reserves, and just possibly consumer credit control authority.

In the housing field, all or part of Title 6 of the Housing Act may be salvaged to provide at a minimum yield insurance guaranteeing a profit for investors in large rental properties and possibly tax savings for investors in rental property through an increase in the rate of depreciation.

House Poised to Adjourn

The House actually is already going through adjournment preliminaries. A resolution permitting the leadership to push through eleventh-hour bills by suspension of the rules, traditionally adopted six days before a congressional adjournment, will be considered by the House Rules Committee today.

Virtually all chance of enactment of antipoll tax or other civil rights legislation faded meanwhile with a ruling by Senate President Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) that cloture (debate gag) cannot be invoked against a motion to call up a bill.

Vandenberg said he personally strongly favored passage of the bill and would like to see the rules

Guard Called For Strike Duty in Ohio

Gov. Herbert Asserts Union Following Communist Pattern At Univis Plant

BULLETIN

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—The Montgomery County Council of Industrial Organizations tonight cancelled plans for mass picketing before the Univis Lens Co. plant tomorrow morning.

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 2 (AP).—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert late today ordered the Ohio National Guard to move in and "maintain law and order" at the Univis Lens Co. plant, scene of strike disorders. He said "it is about time the public knows the communistic pattern followed in the conduct of this dispute."

Company officials immediately announced plans to reopen the plant tomorrow morning.

The Governor accused the CIO United Electrical Workers local at the plant of "a complete breach of good faith" in not ending a 90-day strike.

Not to send in troops, he said in a formal statement would "mean submission to the dictates of a group of men who seem determined to pursue a course of violations of our laws" and in defiance of court orders.

Plan Mass Picketing

As a showdown neared, the union appealed to all Dayton unions to mass pickets at the plant entrance at 6:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Meanwhile, five UE officials and pickets were found guilty of contempt for ignoring a court order to remain away from the plant. Common Pleas Judge Paul T. Klapp warned them they would be jailed immediately if they reappeared there.

Governor Herbert, frustrated in efforts to settle the strike which has produced picket-line fighting and use of tear gas by police, responded late today to a call for help from Mayor Louis Lohrey and Sheriff Ben Smith.

Governor Herbert said he left Dayton last night with an agreement to terminate the strike signed by officials, then "this morning I learned that this agreement was repudiated."

A group of 225 striking workers refused to ratify the settlement approved by their leaders. The vote was announced as unanimous.

The governor asserted it was "quite apparent" that a majority of Univis employes "are desperately anxious to work at their jobs without hindrance or violence." He directed Adjt. Gen. Chester W. Gobie to send in a detachment of national guardsmen.

The troops ordered in are from southwestern Ohio., under the command of Col. George Schiele of the 147th Infantry. The size of the force and its time of arrival was described by the adjutant general's office as a "military secret."

Judge Klapp, postponing sentence of the five contempt defendants until tomorrow, said he accepted "with misgivings" their assurance that they would remain away from the strike scene.

They were Louis Kaplan, international field agent for the UE, which has maintained the strike since May 5; K. M. Kirkendall, business agent of local 768; Leothard Wornstaff, chief steward of the local; Marilyn Hasselbeck, a striker, and Mrs. Julia P. Hupman, an organizer.

Mal Whitfield, Guinn Smith Win Olympic 800, Pole Vault

By Gayle Talbot

Olympic Stadium, Wembley, England, Aug. 2 (AP).—A record-breaking victory by Mal Whitfield in the 800-meter run and a magnificent flight by Guinn Smith in the pole vault gave America's track and field stars two more Olympic titles before another capacity crowd of 84,000 today.

Whitfield, an Army Air Force sergeant stationed at Lockbourne Field, Columbus, Ohio, established a new Olympic mark of 1:49.2 for two laps of the wet, heavy track in beating the greatest field ever to run in the event in the games.

Two of the human deer he defeated either beat or equalled the former Olympic record of 1:49.8 set by Britain's Tom Hampson in 1932 and all six finalists ran the 800 faster than Johnny Woodruff's winning time of 1:52.9 in the 1936 games in Berlin.

Arthur Wint, a tall Jamaican, finished second about three yards back after putting on a thrilling sprint in the stretch.

Smith, forced to make his approach along a soggy, slippery runway, soared to 14 feet, 1¼ inches to win the pole vault. He fell short of Earle Meadows' Olympic mark of 14 feet, 3½ inches, but it was a great effort under the conditions. A light but steady rain fell through the last four hours of the competition.

Erkki Kataja of Finland was second at 13 feet, 9 inches, and Bob Richards of the United States took third at the same height. He had more misses than the Finn. Erling Kaas of Norway placed fourth, Ragnar Lundberg of Sweden fifth and Richmond (Boo) Morcom of the United States sixth. All cleared 13 feet, 5 inches.

The day's most spectacular and pulse-stirring event saw Gaston Reiff, a balding little fellow from Belgium, just last to snatch victory in the 5000 meters run from Emil Zatopek, the Czech star who won the 10,000 and was trying to complete a classic double.

With only 200 meters to go, Reiff was in front by close to 40 meters, and appeared headed for an easy victory. But Zatopek took after him and failed by only two yards to nip him at the wire as the crowd went wild with excitement.

Reiff's time of 14 minutes, 17.6 seconds, as well as Zatopek's 14: 17.8, were under the former Olympic record of 14:22.2 set by Gunnar Hockert of Finland at Berlin in 1936.

Curtis Stone of State College, Pa., the only American who qualified for the event, had nothing to be ashamed of in finishing sixth against 11 of Europe's distance stars.

With two husky Italians taking turns throwing the discus out of sight, Uncle Sam could manage no better than a third in that event.

Action on Berlin Money Crisis Delayed by Stalin Conference

Berlin, Aug. 2 (AP).—A conference of western diplomats with Prime Minister Stalin in Moscow tonight caused Americans to delay dealing with the troubled currency situation in Berlin.

American occupation authorities met with German bankers to find ways of dealing with the Soviet freeze on accounts of western Berlin firms.

American sources said it had been planned to tell banks to issue loans to the firms to tide them over, but the plan was abandoned pending developments from the conference with Stalin.

The Russians froze the accounts last week in connection with the recent currency exchange.

Meanwhile, the Soviet-backed German police in the Red sector of Berlin launched an arrest-on-sight war against their counterparts in the western sectors.

Four western sector policemen were seized over the weekend when they entered the eastern sector. They still are in custody.

American sources said the Russian sector police were ordered to arrest any policeman working for Johannes Stumm, recently appointed police chief by the anti-Communist city government.

Stumm was to replace Moscow-trained Paul Markgraf, accused of complicity in the disappearance of hundreds of Berliners in the Russian sector. The Russians refused to recognize the city government's action, and Markgraf stayed in his headquarters in the Russian sector.

Stumm moved his headquarters to the American sector. Both claim to be the legal chief of police.

[The United Press reported that an angry German mob stoned Soviet-sponsored police near the border between the United States and Soviet sectors today, injuring one policeman. It quoted a Soviet-licensed ADN news agency report. Russian quarters charged the mob was "incited" by the western occupation powers, ADN said. It said police under Markgraf were carrying out a black market raid when the crowd be-

Diplomats Appear In High Spirits, However, After Momentous Parley

By Walter Cronkite

Moscow (Tuesday), Aug. 3 (U.P.). — The three western powers held a momentous two-hour meeting last night with Soviet Premier Josef Stalin, presumably over the Berlin situation and possibly over other east-west differences. It appeared likely early today the talks would continue.

No statement was issued but U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau and British Representative Frank Roberts left the meeting smiling and in high spirits.

The three western envoys went immediately to the U. S. Embassy to prepare reports to their respective governments. The embassy conference broke up shortly before 2 a. m. Moscow time (7 p. m. EST).

Meeting Requested Sunday

Early this morning lights still burned brightly in code rooms of the three embassies as the transript of the talks with Stalin, plus comments, were transmitted to the home governments.

The meeting with Stalin was requested Sunday. Early yesterday the three embassies were notified that the request had been granted, and later the time was set for 9 p. m.

The three envoys went separately to the Kremlin, meeting outside the grim fortress headquarters of the Soviet government shortly before the appointed time. They entered together at 8:55 p. m.

The three chief negotiators were accompanied by Baron Andre de Fonscolombe, first secretary of the French Embassy, and interpreters from the French and British embassies.

Molotov With Stalin

Stalin and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov received them in the Kremlin reception room, greeting each envoy in turn as he entered.

When they emerged two hours later, Smith as spokesman for the western delegation said that he could make no statement for publication except that the three westerners had met Stalin.

Observers took this statement to indicate that further conferences with Stalin, Molotov or both had been scheduled. In the past, complete silence on the progress of diplomatic conversations has been observed only until the conferences were completed.

There was no indication that any of the governments concerned was ready to issue a final communique.

After the meeting, the three western envoys went to the U. S. Embassy in Smith's Cadillac. All three seemed confident, and they joked with waiting newspapermen.

Envoys In Hurry

At the embassy, Smith left the car first and dashed into the building. He bounded up the two flights of stairs to his third floor office two steps at a time, followed by the panting Chataigneau and Roberts.

The three were joined by United States First Secretary Brewster Morris, an expert on German affairs; Embassy Counsellor Foy Kohler, British Charge d'Affaires Geoffrey Harrison, and other embassy officials.

A preliminary report on the conference was drafted by the western officials in Smith's spacious office overlooking the Kremlin. Chataigneau left the embassy shortly after 1 a. m.

Roberts, Smith and members of their staffs continued to confer for about 45 minutes.

Stalin's views on whatever was discussed must be considered by the three western powers. It appeared to be up to London, Paris and Washington to decide on the next step.

[Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore wrote that the topics discussed were east-west differences in Berlin and in all Europe.

[Gilmore wrote that even before the visit there were indications of an easing of the tense internation-

Reds Order Berlin Soviet Wives Home

Sudden Exodus 'Readjustment' to Russian Conditions

Berlin, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—A sudden mass withdrawal of Soviet wives and children from occupied Berlin is under way, DPD, the British-licensed German news agency, said today. The families are being returned to Russia for readjustment to conditions there, the agency said.

"It is estimated that between 300 and 400 houses have been returned to German owners at Marshal (V. D.) Sokolovsky's headquarters at Karlshorst," DPD stated.

The removal is being carried out, it explained, "so Soviet families, in particular growing children, shall not become estranged from Soviet ways of life." Returning families reportedly are put through an "acclimatization course" to readjust them to conditions in Russia.

Romania Orders Closing of All Foreign Schools

Bucharest, Romania, Aug. 2 (AP). All foreign schools were ordered closed today by the government.

At the same time a decree announced the state has taken over all confessional schools, this including Catholic and Jewish institutions.

Resistance will be considered sabotage.

Russian will be taught from the fifth primary grade upward. However, only the first four primary grades are compulsory.

Foreign schools closed include kindergartens, primary and secondary schools, and also university lectures no matter what language is used.

The category of foreign schools includes: Those founded or subsidized by any other country, and institutions belonging to other countries or by communities or associations.

Would Exclude Western Powers From Agency To Control Traffic

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Aug. 2 (U.P.). The Soviet Union today asked the Danube conference to exclude the United States, Britain and France from membership in the new Danube River Commission which will control traffic on the river.

The conference today ruled its decisions should be made by simple majority vote. This means the United States, Britain and France legally can be outvoted at this first postwar international conference at which the Soviet bloc outnumbers the western bloc.

Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister, Andrei Vishinsky, in the closing minutes of today's session, deposited a draft treaty which would replace the treaty of 1921, and limit membership in the new commission to Danube River states.

Russia Now on River

Russia itself is now a Danube River state by virtue of her acquisition of Romanian territory. Russia also has the decisive voice in joint Danube shipping companies formed with Romania, Hungary, Yugoslavia and a special company organized in the Soviet zone of Austria.

Both Britain and France were members of the old commission and, presumably, expected seats on the new commission. Although never a member of the old commission, the United States wanted a permanent vote on the new commission. The American view was that the United States is one of the victorious occupation powers in Germany and Austria and one of the Big Four upon whom depends world peace.

(At United Nations headquarters in Lake Success a British spokesman said Russia refused to allow a U. N. observer to attend the conference.)

West Taken by Surprise

Vishinsky's move today took the western powers by surprise. He announced he had deposited the treaty at a time when the other delegates thought the conference over for the day.

The Russian draft convention will be discussed Tuesday. It includes 42 articles and two annexes

Capital Transit Wins Hike On Joint Fares to Virginia

Joint bus fares between Washington and Government buildings in nearby Virginia will cost 19 cents within a day or two under a temporary injunction won by the Capital Transit Co.

The injunction allows the company to add 3 cents a ride to the present joint rate of $1.92 for 12 rides, which went into effect yesterday.

Receipts must be issued for the 3-cent charges, and the company must return each 3 cents in the event that the final decision on the joint fare case is not in accord with the temporary injunction.

E. C. Giddings, Capital Transit vice president, said the new rate would go into effect as soon as the receipts are ready and a required $25,000 bond is posted.

The injunction was issued after a preliminary hearing before a three-judge tribunal on the company's suit against the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The ICC on July 7 ordered continuation of the joint fare arrangement and, effective yesterday, raised the fare to 16 cents a ride from 13 1-3 cents. Capital Transit is receiving 7 cents of the total now, with the Virginia carriers receiving the remainder. Under the 13 1-3-cent rate CTC received 5.83 cents.

The company has been seeking to end the joint fare system and charge a straight 10 cents a ride on all its lines, without transfers to lines in Virginia.

The injunction was issued by a tribunal consisting of Justice Wilbur K. Miller of the United States Court of Appeals, Justice Alexan-

Dinner Talk Paved Way for Budenz's Return to Catholic Faith of Childhood

Outside, in the street, ponderous 5th ave. buses lumbered by; taxis serpentined neurotic courses through traffic; pleasure-bent pedestrians gravitated toward the enticing lights of Broadway.

Inside, in hushed St. Patrick's Cathedral, as nightfall descended on the day of October 10, 1945, a tense family of five knelt before the altar of St. Louis.

The father, mother and three daughters each placed a right hand on the golden-edged Book of the Gospels, held by the monsignor, vested in surplice and violet stole. And each made the profession of faith required of the convert.

Thus, quietly, unobserved, began a ceremony reports of which would soon be flashed around the world: When a leading Communist, and his family, "get religion," that's news.

Louis Francis Budenz, managing editor of the Daily Worker, member of the powerful Communist Central Committee, had returned to the Catholic fold. And his wife, the former Margaret Rodgers, and three daughters, Julia, Josephine and Justine, all were received into the church.

A dinner conversation had paved the way of his reconversion. Five years before, in 1940, Budenz had verbally denounced Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, philosophy professor at Catholic Jniversity, perhaps the most famous priest in America. In reply the priest extended, and the Communist accept-ed, an invitation to dinner. And the monsignor talked to him "about God, grace and our Blessed Mother."

That dinner conversation must have sounded deep chords in the Communist Budenz who could never forget his Catholic childhood and youth, in his father's house, just off a dusty road running through the south side of Indianapolis.

The boy Budenz was reared a devout Catholic, by his father, a widely-read bank teller of Germanic extraction—"a man of deep faith, acquired by conversion after a youth spent sampling everything from agnosticism to Anglicanism." His mother was of Irish extraction.

Born in Indianapolis on July 17, 1891, of ancestors who had pioneered the founding of that city, he was educated at St. John's High School; St. Xavier's College, in Cincinnati and St. Mary's College in Kansas as well as American Central Law School, in Indianapolis, where he earned a law degree.

Took Interest in Labor

The impressionable youth saw "laboring people in our very neighborhood who were too poor to live as they should;" he became interested in the turbulent, rising labor movement, and attended a convention of United Mine Workers.

He became infurated "with the slowness of reform;" his sense of justice was rankled by slum conditions and "the low degree of labor organization." He broke with the church to forward what he considered his aspostalate—forwarding the cause of social justice.

At 21, he had became editor of the Carpenter, organ of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, then the largest AFL union. He became active in civic reform movements; was named editor of Labor Age; published a treatise on the company labor spy system.

Excommunicated in 1915

And in 1915, he was excommunicated from the Catholic Church, for marrying a divorcee.

As a labor organizer he took part in many headline strikes of the late twenties and early thirties. Twenty-one times arrested, he was 21 times acquitted.

In 1924 he was campaign manager in New Jersey for the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette, sr., when he ran for President. He became a champion of the American Approach movement and when the Communist Party adopted a people's front, he joined the party, in October, 1935. He was named first labor editor of the Daily Worker, and in 1937, editor of the Midwest Daily Record. He was made president of Freedom of the Press Co., Inc., which took over publication of the Daily Worker, as anti-Communist pressure rose during the Hitler-Stalin pact, in June, 1940. He was also managing editor until October, 1945, and a member of the National Committee of the party for six years.

Since his renuniciation of Communian, Budenz has been widely publicized for his charges against many labor leaders whom he has branded as "Red Fascists."

But when the slight man with the thinning sandy hair, and a crusader's gleam in his blue eyes, denounces his former colleagues in print, or in his machine-gun, staccato voice, he is not vindictively "putting the finger" on individuals, he maintains.

Rather, his objective, he says, is to bare what he believes is a traitorous conspiracy by the Communist party to overthrow the Government here and in other non Communist lands.

This approach is emphasized in "This Is My Story," published last year, Budenz explained:

"I have no interest in pilloring them (Communists) as individuals, but in laying bare the gangrene embedded in the 'movement' to which they adhere. . . . They become twisted and crippled personalities through the doctrine of hate and the wooden soldier 'discipline' which they are compelled to follow."

Two congressional groups may investigate charges that high-level Government censorship prevented the United States Office of Education from exposing "the danagrs of communism" to American high school and college students.

The allegations were made by former Education Commissioner John W. Studebaker in a 3500-word letter to Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing. Studebaker complained that Ewing's office banned a speech he planned to make urging teachers to expose communism to their classes.

William P. Rogers, counsel to the Senate's investigating committee, said both Ewing and Studebaker may be asked to testify if a study shows an inquiry is warranted.

Chairman Frank B. Keefe (R., Wis.), said his House Appropriations Subcommittee also may investigate.

"We are considering whether there is anything the House committe could or should do," Keefe said. "There is, of course, a certain field of administrative responsibility which rests with the administrator and for which he is rsponsible.

"However, it may be that Ewing has gone beyond the broad policy laid down by Congress."

Ewing, a close friend and political adviser of President Truman's said he new of no such censorship.

Studebaker, who retired as education commissioner on July 15, said in his letter that Ewing's office killed one anti-Communist speech he planned to make to a group of teachers.

Another which he delivered at the University of California at Los Angeles was criticized by an unnamed aide of Ewing, he added. The aide, he complained, advised him to "tone down" the speech for later publication.

Studebaker said that when he protested he was told that it was up to the State Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to explain communism to American students.

"To accept (this) dictum," he wrote Ewing, "would be tantamount to not having this vitally important educational task done at all, at least so far as the Federal Government is concerned."

Hungary Holds Official, Uncle

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 2 (AP).—Two Hungarians, one of them secretary of the Ministry of Agriculture, have been arrested as leaders of a spy ring working for the "Anglo-Saxon powers," the Communist newspaper Szabadzag said today.

The paper said the arrested men, Elmer Kiss, Ministry secretary, and his uncle, Ferent Kiss, former London correspondent, were charged with delivering confidention documents to a foreign power.

Jonkman Sees State Dept. Clean of Reds

Representative Jonkman (R., Mich.) told the House yesterday the State Department has been swept clean of "known or reasonably suspected subversives, Communists and fellow travelers."

For more than two years, Jonkman has been working as a one-man subcommittee of the Foreign Affairs Committee to investigate any subversive influences in the State Department.

Jonkman said that since January 23, 1947, when John E. Peurifoy became Assistant Secretary of State for Administration, 134 State Department employes regarded as "security risks" have been fired or have quit. He said:

"The Department of State is now free from persons of whom it is known or there is reasonable cause to believe that they are security risks."

Jonkman said his efforts to obtain a housecleaning in the department were fruitless until after the Republican congressional victories in the 1946 election and the appointment of Secretary of State Marshall.

Marshall, Jonkman said, instructed Peurifoy "that if there is reasonable cause to believe that anybody in the State Department is a security risk I want the Government to have the benefit of the doubt and have such person discharged."

Jonkman said that Peurifoy, in carrying out this responsibility, "has patiently and persistently cleaned 134 security risks out of the department.

"In addition to that, many new applicants constituting security risks have been kept from getting into the department."

Silvermaster and Perlo Face Questioning on Spy Ring

to see in Washington, Budenz said, was Ullman.

Budenz said that Golos was especially interested in learning about the work of United States military agents abroad. Ullman was employed by the Air Forces.

Further confirmation of portions of Miss Bentley's story appears to be on the way today.

The House group has summoned Whittaker Chambers, associate editor of Time Magazine, to testify, and in some details his story is expected to bear out hers.

Chambers Quit Party

In the 1930s Chambers was a highly important figure in the Communist Party here. In a statement last night Chambers said he quit the Communist Party because he became convinced "it was an evil and a threat to the entire western civilization."

He said further that he had been in touch with the FBI since 1940.

Chambzers said that Victor Perlo, the second named as a spymaster by Miss Bentley, was well known to him.

He said he also knew Charles Kramer, born Kravitsky, former employe of a Senate Subcommittee on Education and Labor.

Didn't Know Miss Bentley

Much of Chambers' testimony, which will first be reviewed in executive session, is expected to be concerned with the early establishment of the Ogpu—Russian secret police outfit which preceded the NKVD.

Chambers said he did not know Miss Bentley. He was out of the Communist Party and in hiding in Connecticut long before the time Miss Bentley was ordered to Washington.

Data not only from Miss Bentley but from Chambers is said to have been among that presented to the New York grand jury that recently indicted 12 top Communist leaders in the United States on charges of a plot to overthrow this Government by force and violence.

Budenz Identifies Woman

Chambers is the third former Communist to give testimony during less than a weeek before congressional committees on the conspiratorial nature of the Communist Party.

Budenz yesterday made a public appeal on Capitol Hill for other disillusioned Communists to come forward now an dhelp their Government unravel the Soviet Union's spy network in the United States.

The short, slightly balding former managing editor of the Daily Worker rose from the witness chair before Senate investigators yesterday to identify Miss Bentley as "a former courier for espionage purposes" of the Communist Party.

Golos introduced her to him as, he said, right outside Communist Party headquarters in New York.

Tells of Meetings

Golos, who was head of the control commission of the Communist Party at the time, Budenz said, described Miss Bentley as "a thoroughly trustworthy" and very experienced underground agent.

Budenz said he had about 30 meetings with Miss Bentley—introduced as Helen Johns—at a little tavern near Communist Party headquarters. His instructions were, he said, never to recognize her elsewhere although he met her face to face many times on the hush-hush ninth floor of Communist Party hadquarters in New York, reserved for top party big-wigs and Russian agents. Budenze said the Russian agents, most of them secret police, were really bossing the show.

Sitting near Miss Bentley in the hearing room was William W. Remington, Commerce Department employe, who has held many responsible Government positions and was named by Miss Bentley as a Communist Party member who gave her secret information.

Remington Poses Willingly

Remington has denied the charge. He was to testify again yesterday before the Senate investigators but because Budenz is leaving the country for a short time the committee put him on first.

After the hearing photographers circled around to take pictures of Miss Bentley. Voluntarily Remington joined his accuser and smiling, posed with her.

Remington will again be given an opportunity to testify in his own defense today before the Senate group.

Chairman Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) has been promised an answer today as to whether or not President Truman will permit the Commerce Department to release Remington's employment record to the Senate group.

Employment Record Refused

Acting Secretary of Commerce Charles W. Sawyer declined last week to give the committee the employment record of Remington until he receives White House permission.

Sawyer said in a letter to Ferguson that he wanted to be sure release of the information would not violate the memorandum written by the President March 1 with respect to loyalty reports of Government employes.

The Presidents' order was issued after the House Committee tried in vain to obtain loyalty records of Dr. Herbert O. Condon, atomic scientist and head of the Bureau of Standards. Condon has been fully cleared by the loyalty board for the handling of all atomic secrets.

House investigators nevertheless will ask Silvermaster to detail the extent of his acquaintance with Condon, it was reported.

McMahon Mentioned

The Senate group has not asked for any loyalty report on Remington but only for the employment record.

Remington volunteered the information last Saturday that one of those who recommended him for a highly secret job with the Atomic Energy Commission is Arthur MacMahon, a member of the President's Loyalty Board.

He said McMahon was thoroughly familiar with the activities of his mother-in-law, Elizabeth Moos, whom he described as a member of the Communist Party. MacMahon, he declared, as a director of a school in which his mother-in-law taught, curbed her activities when she tried to encourage 6-year-olds to read Communist literature.

Remington May Have Counsel

Sawyer said he was instructed by the White House to refer the request of the Senate group for information on Remington's employment record to President Truman for decision on whether the committee could have it.

The Senate committee has given Remington the right to be represented by counsel, to submit questions to witnesses against him through the chair, to introduce evidence and call witnesses in his own defense, and obtain rephrasing of any question he considers unfair.

Ferguson has several times explained the committee is attempting only to get information on how efficiently the President's loyalty is functioning and not attempting to try the loyalty of any government employe.

Party Movement Outlined

Budenz gave the Senate group a general review of the Communist Party movement and how it operated in his testimony yesterday.

"The Communist Party is a fifth column of Soviet Russia," he said, "committed to destruction by violence of the American Republic."

He likened its organization to that of a tree with the underground movement as its roots, the legal functioning party as the trunk, and the front movements as the branches.

In order to cut down the effectiveness of this party, he declared, "the brand of outlaw must be put upon it." Without endorsing a specific bill, he said the party definitely should be outlawed and he added that such action would not drive it underground since 75 per cent of it is underground anyway.

Testifies on Dennis

Budenz told the committee that Eugene Dennis, secretary of the Communist Party, recently indicted in New York, at one time had charge of all Communist activities in Washington.

Dennis, said Budenz, was also active during the war in trying to find out about activities of the Office of Strategic Services.

The main job of the big lumbering secretary of the Communist Party in this connection, Budenz said, was trying to place Communists in the OSS.

At one time when their paths apparently crossed in connection with OSS, Budenz declared, Dennis warned him off his territory.

Senators asked the former Communist Party official how many Communists had held Government jobs to his knowledge.

Total May Be in Thousands

Counting minor ones, Budenz said, the number he knew about ran into hundreds. If secretaries and minor clerks ran in the same proportion, Budenz declared, it was conceivable that the numbers who had had Government service might well be in thousands.

He said there was no need for hysteria. The Federal Bureau of Investigation, he said, already has much information on all important Communists. What is needed, he declared, is for a correlation of all the known facts by this Government.

He said that he personally knew of three spy rings and he was sure there must be many more.

The numbers of Communists in the Government, Budenz told the committee, was not nearly so important. What counted he said, is the strategic spots into which many have wormed themselves so they can get information for Russia.

Redmont Tells Of Marines Service

One of the former Government officials from whom Elizabeth T. Bentley, confessed former Russian spy, called a Communist last week, said yesterday he was fighting as a sergeant with the United States Marines during most of the period she described.

Bernard S. Redmont, formerly a news editor in the press section of the Office of Inter-American Affairs and now on the staff of the United States News, said that a young woman had interviewed him "three or four times about our news broadcasts and programs" about six years ago while he was in the Federal post.

"She said her name was Helen Johnson and that she did articles and research for PM and other publications," Mr. Redmont said in a statement. "We discussed only material that was available and given to hundreds of other reporters and agencies, and that could have been gotten by listening to the radio any day of the week. I never handled any other kind of material, and would not have divulged any secret material even if I had. I suppose this alleged Miss Johnson is Miss Bentley, but as she herself says, she never got anything from me.

"During most of the time Miss Johnson-Bentley says she was working in an espionage ring, I was a sergeant in the United States Marine Corps. I fought overseas in the Pacific and was wounded in action in defense of my country, my home and my family. I fought for the principles of democracy which this Nation represents and which I cherish, and I am ready to defend them once again, if ever the call comes . . . I am not now, and never have been a Communist, as everyone who knows me will attest."

U. S. Charges Soviet Obstructs Arms Cut

Lake Success, N. Y., (AP).—The United States accused Russia today of obstructing United Nations attempts to reduce and regulate world arms. Russia heatedly replied that the United States and Britain had sabotaged the arms-cutting program.

The flare-up between Frederick H. Osborn, United States delegate, and Jakob A. Malik, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, came at an open meeting of the U. N. Commission for Conventional Armaments.

The commission decided to meet at 10 a. m. (EST), next Monday as a working committee. Malik promised he will reply to Osborn in full at that time.

Today Osborn said:

"The work of this commission has continued to be hampered by demagogic appeals and irresponsible propaganda. We cannot but note regretfully that the Soviet system of obstructionism in this commission is the same as that employed by them in the Atomic Energy Commission (which has already given up attempts to agree on world atomic control because of the East-West conflict). Nevertheless, the United States believes that the commission must proceed with its work."

Malik and Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, Foreign Minister of the Soviet Ukraine, demanded the floor promptly.

Manuilsky said those who have wrecked the work of the Atomic Commission must bear the responsibility for the situation in the Arms Commission. Russia has often charged the United States with wrecking the atomic discussions.

"I consider the statement made by the delegate of the United States to be a masterpiece of demagogy . . . I categorically reject everything said in this statement about the Soviet Union, and I will take it up at the next meeting."

At Oak Ridge

Loyalty Test Clears Atom Scientists

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Two atomic scientists who were suspended during a loyalty check here last May have been "cleared" and are back at work, it was learned today.

B. W. Menke, chief of security for the Atomic Energy Commission, said the scientists returned to work "some weeks ago." He added there have been no other suspensions although loyalty hearings have continued.

Suspension of the two unidentified scientists brought indignant protests by the Association of Oak Ridge Engineers and Scientists that their constitutional rights were being violated.

The association complained particularly that accused scientists were not allowed to face their accusers or to learn the nature of the charges against them.

Menke said today hearings of the same type given the two accused scientists are continuing.

and Taylor, will rally hosts of workers, Negroes, farmers, veterans, women, youth, intellectuals and other patriotic Americans who are determined that our people shall not be butchered for the profit and glory of Wall Street."

Foster declared "the Progressive Party is in no sense a Communist Party."

The Communists have many points of difference with the Wallace group, he said, explaining:

"The most important is that while many leaders in the Progressive Party believe that the badly crippled world capitalist system can be saved and transformed into 'progressive capitalism,' we Marxist-Leninists do not. Capitalism historically is on its way off the world stage."

Foster said "the Trumans, Deweys, Dulleses, Hoovers, and Marshalls, Vandenbergs and other men of the trusts who are running our government could readily secure democratic agreement with the U. S. S. R., as Roosevelt did. But they don't want it. They are fighting for Wall Street's world control."

Americans are "paying through the nose for Wall Street's insane imperialistic adventures," Foster said.

"A decisive factor in the soaring cost of living is the government's squandering of 25 billions per year building up a war economy in the United States and Europe."

Foster was one of 12 top Communist Party officials indicted by a Federal grand jury two weeks ago on charges of seeking to overthrow the United States Government by violence. He is free on $5000 bail.

Eugene Dennis, the party's general secretary, said in a prepared speech that "despite all fables and falsehoods, we Communists do not advocate force and violence. As Marxists, we are opposed in principle to adventurism, terror, assassination, conspiracies and coup d'etat."

He brought up the name of Elizabeth Bentley, self-styled former Communist agent who testified before Congressional committees last week about an alleged spy ring in Government departments.

"No matter how many . . . Elizabeth Bentleys reaction digs up from the dregs of capitalist society," Dennis said, "no matter what 'espionage' provocations and other new frameups the bipartisan monopolists invent to bolster their miserable defense, we intend to press our indictment against the men of the trusts."

Another speaker, John Williamson, member of the Communist national board, also referred to the spy case.

Republicans and Democrats "and the powerful monopoly interests they represent," he said in a prepared speech, "are trying to keep the people from thinking about their troubles by feeding them thriller-dillers about 'beautiful blondes' who turn out to be homely brunettes, and 'spy rings' that never happened at all."

Dennis and Williamson also were indicted by the grand jury.

al situation. Authoritative sources said progress already has been made among the four great powers. In London, British diplomatic writers speculated that the meeting with Stalin soon might lead to a conference of Stalin, President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and French Preimer Andre Marie.

The meeting was the longest Stalin had had with any foreign representative since last year, when Czechoslovak Premier (now President) Klement Gottwald and Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk were closeted with the Soviet premier for a long session about the Marshall Plan.

It was Smith's first interview with Stalin in more than two years, and his second since coming here as Ambassador in the spring of 1946.

The 1725-mile Danube, Europe's most important commercial artery, flows through or borders on Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania and Russia.

The old commission, established after World War I, consisted of Austria, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Yugoslavia, Germany, Britain, France and Italy.

Russia's proposal would establish a new commission consisting of one representative from each Danube state except Austria, which would be permitted to join the commission after the Austria peace treaty is signed. Decisions would be by majority vote and five members would comprise a quorum. The commission's members would enjoy diplomatic immunity.

Vishinsky charged the Austrian delegate, Orsini Rosenberg, with trying to sabotage the conference by seeking full voting rights.

"The question was raised Saturday and its raising again today would mean an attempt to prolong the proceedings of the conference —in other words—sabotage of the conference," Vishinsky declared.

American cargo planes logged 4,827,940 miles, flying on instruments 68 per cent of the month because of bad weather.

The American Military Government said the 40 million Germans in the combined American and British zones are getting the highest food rations since the occupation began.

South Acts To Build New School System

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 2 (AP).—Dr. John E. Ivey of the University of North Carolina today was chosen to prepare a detailed plan on which the South can build its regional educational system.

The 30-year-old specialist on Southern resources was named by a committee of educators to direct an 18-month study of the region's needs and opportunities for interstate cooperation in training of youth in technical and professional fields.

He will have headquarters in Atlanta. He has resigned from the University of North Carolina faculty and will begin his new duties immediately.

Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida, chairman of the 14-State regional council for education, said Dr. Ivey will have two major jobs:

1. To draft plans for setting up regional courses and research facilities quickly in fields where there is an immediate need.

2. To prepare a long-range study on which the South can build a system of cooperative institutions designed to give Southern youths the technical training they need without leaving the South for educations and never bringing their talents home again.

The governorsaid Dr. Ivey and a research staff he will set up under a $100,000 budget also will prepare factual information on regional education which may be made available to State legislatures when they are asked to ratify the 14-State pact next year.

For six years, Dr. Ivey has been executive secretary of the committee on southern regional studies and education of the American Council on Education.

Buffalo Bill's Grave Guarded To Hold Body

Lookout Mountain, Colo., Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Armed and helmeted guards patroled the steel-fenced grave of Buffalo Bill today to forestall any attempt to cash in on a $10,000 offer for the frontier scout's body.

The American Legion post at Cody, Wyo., offered $10,000 to anyone who could return the body of Col. William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody from its tomb on Lookout Mountain near Denver.

The Leyden-Chiles-Wickersham post of the American Legion in Denver rallied to defend the pioneer American's grave and marched post around it.

Caretakers pointed out that attempts had been made before to claim Buffalo Bill's body. Since then 20 tons of concrete have been poured over the colonel's resting place.

Truman Greets Townspeople, Dines With Republican Friend

Independence, Mo., Aug. 2 (AP).—President Truman, like most Americans, kept his fingers crossed today as diplomats reportedly moved to ease the tense international picture.

Neither he nor his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, had any comment to make on reports from abroad of progress toward getting Prime Minister Stalin to talk things over with American, British and French spokesmen.

When Ross was informed of the meeting in the Kremlin of envoys of the United States, Britain and France with Premier Stalin, he still had a "no comment," neither was there a statement from Truman.

The President was silent, too, on home town politics as he strolled through the streets of Independence to greet friends and neighbors who addressed him familiarly as "Harry."

He and Mrs. Truman drove into near-by Kansas City tonight to have dinner with a Republican friend of many years, Harry C. Jobes.

To Vote at 6 A. M.

Jobes, assistant manager of the RFC regional office, was, like the President, a captain and battery commander of the 129th Field Artillery, Thirty-fifth Division, in the First World War.

It was the Chief Executive's first trip into Kansas City since he flew to Missouri Saturday night to vote in the State Democratic primary.

The President brought groans from Washington correspondents by disclosing he will vote at 6:30 a. m. (Independence time) 30 minutes after the polls open.

He previously planned to vote an hour later, but decided to cast his ballot at the memorial building blue township precinct and return home for breakfast with his wife and daughter, Margaret.

Immediately after breakfast, he will drive to the Fairfax airport in Kansas City, Kans., to board his DC-6 plane, the Independence, for a 9 a. m. (EST) take-off for the three-hour flight to Washington.

Press Secretary Ross said Mr. Truman will work Tuesday afternoon at the White House. He did not disclose whom the President will see at that time.

Mr. Truman's own explanation for his early return to Washington is that "I've got a Congress on my hands."

His decision to have dinner with his old Republican friend in Kansas City was in line with his reported "hands-off" attitude on the Fourth District congressional primary. He hasn't indicated his choice.

Two years ago, he drew national attention to the Fifth (Kansas City) District when he backed Enos Axtell against Democratic incumbent Roger Slaughter. Slaughter lost, but Axtell was defeated by Albert Reeves, a Republican, in the general election.

Navy Planning Permanent Wave Recruiting Drive

Philadelphia, Aug. 2 (AP).—A recruiting campaign for Waves will be launched by the Navy September 15.

Announcement of the drive was made by Capt. Joy B. Hancock, national director of the Waves, at ceremonies Saturday commemorating the sixth anniversary of the Navy women's service.

Captain Hancock said enlistments will be open to high school graduates, age 20 or over. Recruits will be assigned to the Great Lakes Training Station.

The Waves were made part of the Regular Navy in legislation signed by President Truman July 12.

Said Captain Hancock: "Making the Waves a part of the Regular Navy means that we are going to keep a nucleus of women in all fields of training so that in the event of war, they can train other women."

Texas Bars Whites at Negro College

Austin, Tex., Aug. 2 (AP).—A white student may not legally be admitted to the Texas State University for Negroes, Attorney General Price Daniel ruled today. He gave two reasons:

1. Texas' constitution and laws provide white and Negro students shall be educated separately;

2. "Substantially equal courses of study and physical facilities are offered for white students at the University of Texas and other State colleges."

Citing U. S. Supreme Court decisions in the Gaines case from Missouri and the Sipuel case from Oklahoma, Daniel's opinion said:

"Under these decisions, it is unquestionably now the law that the States may constitutionally provide separate facilities for the education of Negro and white students so long as the facilities offered both groups are substantially equal."

Jack Coffman, a white citizen of Houston, had applied for admission as a student to the school for Negroes.

Oklahoma Court Bars Negroes From University

Norman, Okla., Aug. 2 (AP).—A State Court today denied admission to the University of Oklahoma to three Negro women. Negro leaders announced they would carry the fight against Oklahoma's racial segregation laws again to the United States Supreme Court.

One of the three rejected was Mrs. Ada Fisher of Chickasha who for more than two years has waged a court fight to enter the university law school.

The others were Mauderie Hancock-Wilson, and Helen Maxine Holmes, both of Oklahoma City.

District Judge T. Justin Hinshaw denied court orders sought by the three women to compel the university to enroll them for graduate studies.

Amos T. Hall, Tulsa Negro attorney, gave notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Simultaneously, Hall announced he would begin another attack on Oklahoma's segregation statutes in United States District Court in Oklahoma City within a few days. That suit also will seek to compel admission of Negroes to white schools when equal facilities for the two races are not provided.

The attorney indicated both cases would be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Truman Appoints 3 DP Commissioners

President Truman yesterday named a three-man Displaced Persons Commission to start the flow of 202,000 European refugees into the United States during the next two years.

The three appointees, Ugo Carusi, Edward M. O'Connor and Harry N. Rosenfield, will supervise immigration under the law enacted in June. Mr. Truman sent their names to the Senate for confirmation.

Carusi, former Commissioner of Immigration in the Justice Department, for the past 11 months has been on special assignment with the State Department, working on the problems of displaced persons.

He recently completed a three-month tour of refugee camps in Europe.

Executive of NCWC

O'Connor currently is an executive of the war relief services in the National Catholic Welfare Conference. A graduate of Notre Dame University in 1932, he has been engaged in social welfare work for the past 15 years and once worked with the New York State Department of Social Welfare.

The 37-year-old Rosenfeld is an assistant to Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing. Currently he is in Geneva, Switzerland, as a member of the American delegation to the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

At the same time, the President sent to Congress a request for two million dollars for use of the Displaced Persons Commission.

The amount would enable that body to start the immigration of 100,000 refugees annually, but Mr. Truman said an initial appropriation of two million dollars is insufficient to permit the movement of displaced persons at the rate fixed by Congress.

Sees Cut In Number

"Unless additional funds are made available there will be a material reduction in the number of displaced persons who can be brought to the United States in the fiscal year 1949," Mr. Truman said.

In signing the present DP law Mr. Truman charged that it discriminated against Jews and Catholics. He has asked Congress to eliminate this alleged discrimination and to enlarge the program by permitting 400,000 persons to enter.

State Department officials said jobs are waiting for all those who can possibly be brought in during the next 12 months. Most of the jobs offers thus far are for farm workers, domestics, bakers, tailors, mechanics and lumberjacks.

Patterson Will Contest Brews

Seven Times-Herald employes named to share equally in ownership of the newspaper. Countess Gizycka had been left $25,000 a year for life, most of Mrs. Patterson's personal effects and a substantial amount of real estate.

According to the petition, Mrs. Patterson left real property in the District including her town house at 15 Dupont Circle totaling $1,230,427 assessed valuation.

Properties in New York State, North Dakota, Wyoming, Sarasota, Fla., and Prince Georges, Md., were valued at an additional $356,144. Her personal property including the Times-Herald, cash, stocks and bonds, furniture, jewelry and personal effects was set at about 15 million dollars.

Miscellaneous debts were listed at $353,000 and funeral expenses estimated at $2500.

Greek Army's Top Command Has Shakeup

Athens, Aug. 2 (AP).—Premier Themistokles Sophoulis announced tonight a shakeup in the Greek army high command in line with recent American suggestions for speeding up the war against the Communist-led guerillas of Markos Vafiades.

Sophoulis disclosed the deputy chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Stylianos Kitrilakis, is going to the northern front to take full command of the Grammos Mountains offensive.

He also said Lt. Gen. Panos Kalogeropoulos, commander of the second corps in that area, has been granted a "month's leave."

The main phase of the Grammos operation originally was slated to end within two weeks. It has now stretched into six.

It was said the U. S. military mission headed by Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet had asked that Kalogeropoulos be replaced and asked for a shakeup in the air ministry.

In today's fighting, Greek troops occupied half of the Smolika Range in a new advance into guerilla territory near the Albanian frontier, a staff announcement said.

Czech Officials Resign

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Four Czechoslovak consular officials in Sydney announced today that they have resigned because they do not want to work for a totalitarian regime.

Griswold Returning

Athens, Aug. 2 (AP).—Dwight W. Griswold, retiring chief of the American Aid Mission to Greece, left by plane for Germany today en route to the United States. He also will stop in Paris.

5 Venezuelans Held

Caracas, Venezuela, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Five persons suspected of subversive activity were arrested and held in weekend raids. Arms and uniforms were seized.

10,000 Join In Rites for Farben Dead

Ludwigshafen, Germany, Aug. 2 (AP).—Victims of the Farben Chemical plant explosion were mourned here today by 10,000 relatives and friends gathered around a 12-foot cross in the main square at a memorial ceremony.

The count of known dead rose to 184. Rescue operations continued.

A Farben director denied again rumors the plant had been making war material.

A chemist attached to the German group investigating the disaster said escaping ether or ethyl chloride might have damaged a tank car filled with "fluid gas," permitting it to escape, explode and touch off other chemicals.

Alaskan Paper Mill Planned by U. S. Firm

The Forest Service yesterday accepted the bid of the Ketchikan Pulp & Paper Co. to establish a paper industry in Alaska.

The company agreed to buy 1,500,000 cubic feet of pulp timber near Ketchikan.

The action will result in establishment of a pulp mill costing 20 to 30 million dollars, 6 miles north of Ketchikan.

Efforts have been made for 30 years to establish paper mills in Alaska.

The company said it will employ 1200 workers when the mill is completed.

Chiang Chiefs Talk Strategy As Reds Press

Nanking, Aug. 2—The government's top commanders from most of China's civil war areas gathered in Nanking tonight for secret conferences.

The official military spokesman declined to acknowledge that a meeting was being held, but the official Central News Agency said the generals had been summoned by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to decide overall strategy in fighting the Communists.

The subject was made urgent by presence of an estimated 400,000 Communist troops south of the Yellow River.

Hottest war front of the moment was at Sinan. Pro-government dispatches said the Communists had mustered 180,000 to 200,000 men around the isolated Shantung provincial capital. The city's only link with other government areas is by air.

Dispatches from Manchuria said the Communists were destroying the railroad leading south from Anshan to Russian-held Dairen.

Austerity Taxes Eased By Canada

Ottawa, Aug. 2 (AP).—Canada's program of economic austerity was softened today by orders which, among other things, abolished or lightened excise taxes on a host of consumer goods.

There are indications it will be some time before the public finds price levels changing. Current supplies must be exhausted before replacements are made bearing taxless price tags.

The durable consumer goods range from electric grills and radios to cameras and motor cars.

Three other announcements Saturday placed a subsidy on bread, wiped out a two-million-dollar-a-month subsidy on oils and fats, and lifted export controls on sheep and lambs.

A 45-cent-a-bushel subsidy will be paid to millers to cover the 45-cent increase which now is effective in the price of wheat sold to Britain. This will insure that domestic bread prices do not increase.

The excise taxes repealed were imposed last November 18 as part of the government's United States dollar conservation program. Embargoes placed on United States imports then still are in effect.

Jews Threaten War In Truce Breaches

Cairo, Aug. 2 (AP).—Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok threatened today to reopen the Palestine war if Arab armies continue to break the United Nations-ordered truce.

Shertok said in Tel Aviv that the "presence of invading armies on the borders of Israel is a continuation of a state of war and is quite intolerable."

He said he had learned the Egyptians had opened a full-scale offensive in the south today with air and ground attacks in the Negeb Desert area.

"We have informed the United Nations mediator," he said, "that unless normalcy is restored in the south and elsewhere, we shall take determined action."

Shertok assailed Britain as "encouraging the Arabs to continue hostilities." He also attacked the British detention of 11,000 visaless Jews on Cyprus.

Shertok

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator, lunched with Brig. John Baggot Glubb Pasha, British commander of the Trans-Jordan Arab Legion.

Jewish snipers' bullets sped past nearby Herod's gate while they ate, and frequent exchanges of small arms fire across no-man's-land during the afternoon gave Bernadotte auditory evidence of Jerusalem's truce jitters.

Earlier in Amman he had expressed satisfaction over his interviews this morning with Trans-Jordan officials and King Abdullah. He said he is hopeful of achieving agreement on the demilitarization of Jerusalem before leaving for Sweden August 9. He added that "as usual King Abdullah has been very helpful. I repeat, very helpful."

Britain Asks U. N. to Curb Refugee Flow

Lake Success, N. Y., Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Britain today asked the United Nations Security Council to consider steps to choke off the flow of Jews from Europe to Israeli.

The British also asked U. N. aid for 300,000 Arab refugees from Israeli-occupied territory to return to their homes.

Israel, with Ukrainian support, countered by requesting the council to investigate why 10,000 Jewish refugees were being kept in British detention camps on Cyprus.

Sir Alexander Cadogan asked the council to instruct the U. N. Economic and Social Council and other concerned agencies to speed their efforts to find homes for the 200,000 Jewish displaced persons in Europe.

Cadogan argued that Palestine "has absorbed more Jewish refugees than any other country and far more in proportion to its total population," and that the "continued failure" to find homes for the DPs "has aggravated the Palestine difficulties and will continue to do so."

Local Youths Jam Short-Hitch Quotas

To beat the 21-month draft by signing up for one-year hitches, nearly 100 18-year-olds yesterday visited Army and Air Force recruiting headquarters here to get in under limited new enlistment quotas.

Most of the 25 youths who will be taken under the August 1 through August 11 quota were signed up yesterday, Lieut. Col. Raymond Kenny, recruiting station commanding officer, reported. The rest will be enlisted today, he said.

The one-year volunteers were taken from the Army and Air Force joint waiting list. Colonel Kenny said 100 men, of a possible 146, were already on the roster. Only 48 more Greater Washington 18-year-olds will be enlisted the rest of August, as follows:

From August 12 through 21, 25 youths will be enlisted. Another 23 will be taken from August 22 through the end of the month.

Colonel Kenny said applications still are being accepted for the August quotas. The present waiting list will be set aside and a new one set up at the end of this month when September quotas are known.

Last month, the colonel reported, 259 men joined the Army and Air Force under two, three, four and five "regular enlistments," which are open to all comers.

At Navy recruiting headquarters, Lieut. Comdr. Richard T. Fahy said 14 youths had been enlisted toward the quota of 19 which extends to August 20. The remaining five 18-year-olds, he said will be signed up shortly.

The Navy recruiters are still accepting applications, Commander Fahy said. Approximately 70 men already are on the waiting list. Between August 21 and the end of the month, six youths will be signed up. The September quota is 19.

The Marine Corps has already filled its quota of four volunteers for August, Capt. G. S. Plantier said.

U.S. Flies Arms To Free Yanks In Malay

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, Aug. 2 (U.P.)—United States arms and ammunition are being used against Communist-led guerilla bands in strife-torn Malaya, an American source said today.

The first shipment of automatic weapons and rifles was flown to Singapore Wednesday from Manila aboard a Pan-American Airways plane in a "survey flight."

The weapons were distributed to personnel of Malayan tin companies who have been fighting off guerilla attacks for a month.

The order was placed for the tin mining companies by Norman Cleavland, manager of Pacific Tin Consolidated—Malaya's only American-owned tin property.

Cleavland said more guns are en route.

Alexandrian Takes Killen Post in Tokyo

Tokyo, Aug. 2 (U.P.)—James S. Killen said today he resigned as chief of Allied Headquarters' labor division because collective bargaining was denied to Japanese government employes.

Killen said the cabinet's decree on labor, a result of recommendations by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, would not "strengthen the belief in democratic processes" on the part of 2,500,000 civil servants, who comprise 40 per cent of Japan's organized labor.

Earlier today, headquarters announced the appointment of Chester W. Hepler, Alexandria, Va., to succeed Killen. Hepler, on loan from the U. S. Employment Service, has been chief of the labor division's manpower branch since September, 1947. He has had no union experience.

Wilkes to Relieve Schuirmann in Germany

Rear Admiral John Wilkes has been ordered to take over command of U. S. naval forces in Germany, with additional duty as naval adviser to the military government, it was announced yesterday.

Wilkes, now a member of the Joint Strategic Survey Committee, Office of Chief of Naval Operations, will relieve Rear Admiral Roscoe E. Schuirmann in Germany. Schuirmann will report here for duty.

Boy Students of Government Question Capital Newsmen

An intent group of 90 boys from all parts of the Nation last night fired questions covering the realm of politics, economics, warfare and sociology at three Washington newspapermen in a discussion forum at the National Press Club.

The lads, selected by American Legion posts in their localities to participate in a Boys Forum of National Government, arrived in Washington July 30. Their sojourn here will end Thursday with a visit to the White House.

Answering questions by the youthful students of government, Elmer Davis, American Broadcasting Co. news commentator, predicted that the special session of Congress would do nothing but pass some "innocuous" credit controls.

Proctor Hug, jr., 17, of Sparks, Nev., received a book as an award for asking the most intelligent question. His query was "What could we have done to prevent the present perilous world situation?"

Besides Davis, others who addressed the youngsters and answered queries were Jack Bell, Associated Press reporter, and James G. Lucas, Scripps-Howard writer.

Earlier in the day a delegate who was an Air Corps sergeant in World War II got a thrill when he received a salute from the Chief of Staff of the Army.

The incident occurred when 19-year-old William Ray Clark of Jonesboro, Ark., was greeted by General Omar Bradley with the other delegates on a tour of the Pentagon.

Clark, who had been chosen "Secretary of War" in the boys' "government," was introduced to respond to the general's greetings.

"General," said Clark, "I got quite a promotion from sergeant in the Air Corps to Secretary of War, and I would appreciate a salute from you."

General Bradley smilingly saluted, saying he would also show Clark his office. He then escorted him into the offices of Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall.

Later, the forum delegates met Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan and Admiral Lewis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations, at the Navy Department.

Before starting their tour, the delegates drew up platforms for the two political parties in their "government."

Report Made On D. C. Guard Supply Lack

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

An oral report on equipment shortages at Camp Pendleton, Va., training site for the District National Guard's 260th Antiaircraft Artillery Group, has been made to Maj. Gen. Harold Bull, chief of the Army Department's organization and training division, it was learned yesterday.

The report was made by Col. Merle Thompson, general staff officer, who said he would follow it with a written report.

The Army said yesterday that no action has been taken as a result of the first report and it was indicated that the findings were to the effect that the shortages had not seriously hampered training.

Army Department spokesmen emphasized that the Regular Army, insofar as the Guard is concerned, is responsible solely for the training and is not involved in supply problems. Only if the supply situation hamstrings training would action be taken, it was said.

Approximately 200 of the 900-odd officers and men were short of messgear, boots and proper uniforms when they first arrived at the camp July 26.

Since then, additional supplies have been received from Army depots and, officers say, elementary needs, at least have been met.

Lieut. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commanding officer of the Second Army, will inspect both District and Virginia guard units at Pendleton today.

The general will leave Fort Meade by plane at 8:30 a. m. and is expected to arrive at the camp about an hour later.

Rains slowed down training somewhat yesterday, but artillerymen practiced moving their batteries into position.

Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding officer of the District Guard, will leave Andrews Field Wednesday by plane for Pendleton where he will inspect the troops and confer with top officers on the supply situation.

Among these are Col. LeRoy S. Mann, encampment commander, and Col. Charles M. Myers, second Army officer in charge of training. The latter two had severely criticized District Guard leadership, terming the shortages an "utter failure of supply."

Adjournment Move Beaten

anmended to make cloture effective but he could not as presiding officer otherwise interpret Senate rules and precedents.

Taft Appeals Ruling

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) appealed Vandenberg's ruling to the Senate, in an effort to get a vote upsetting the precedents, but his motion was ruled "debatable."

In other words, the Southerners, led by Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.), could and did continue to filibuster Taft's appeal, just as they had previously the motion to call up the bill.

Taft later told the newsmen he saw no prospect of breaking the filibuster "unless we are prepared to stay here for a month."

He suggested the Senate instead amend the cloture rule to make it possible to close debate on a motion to call up a bill as well as on a pending bill.

Taft said the cloture amendment could be called up this session in which case it would only be a "gesture." He said it would encounter the same delaying tactics now holding up the anti-poll-tax vote.

The GOP steering chairman said he personally favored making the move at the outset of the next regular session, when there would be ample time to sit out a filibuster and break it.

Taft called a meeting of his Senate Republican policy committee today to consider alternatives.

One plan that will get at least another look is the previously sidetracked "compromise" proposal to substitute a Constitutional amendment repealing poll taxes for the current bill to do it by law. Southern leaders have said there would be no prolonged opposition to a Constitutional amendment move.

Housing Bill Move Fails

With the special session drifting toward adjournment by August 14 at the latest, the House meanwhile met for 85 minutes, heard a few speeches, and recessed until Wednesday noon. There were these House developments:

1. Representatives Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.) and Frank Buchanan (D., Pa.) tried without success to force a House vote on the Senate-passed Taft-Ellender-Wagner long-range housing bill. They moved to suspend the rules, a procedure requiring a two-thirds House majority to pass a bill. Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.) said he would not recognize such a motion unless it was first cleared with House Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.) He said there is a 50-year tradition requiring prior approval by the majority leadership of all rules-suspension motions. Halleck said no such approval will be granted today.

Consider U. N. Loan Today

2. The House Foreign Affairs committee called a meeting today to consider Senate-passed legislation granting a 65-million-dollar loan to the United Nations to complete New York headquarters. The loan already has been approved by the House Foreign Affairs Committee but it is incorporated in a measure embodying the Senate-passed Vandenberg resolution giving support and encouragement to a western Europe defense alliance. In one usually well-informed quarter it was said the House leadership wants the U. N. loan separated from the Vandenberg resolution which presumably would be left unpassed.

The Senate cloture petition, carrying 22 signature, was filed by Acting Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.) shortly after the Senate convened. He had previously tried without success to get the Southerners to agree to vote on the motion to call up the antipoll tax measure at 5 p. m.

Almost apologetically, Wherry told Russell he was pressing for cloture "in a spirit of justice and fair play." Russell, who promptly raised a point of order, complained that Southern Senators had debated the motion less than two full days. Taft said little business could be concluded by the Senate if there was two days of debate on every motion to call up a bill.

Decides in 2000 Words

Vandenberg announced he was ready to rule but arguments on the point of order continued for some time. Knowland, Barkley and Pepper contended the Senate in drawing the cloture rule in 1917 meant to apply it against all forms of protracted debates, whether on motions to call up a bill or the bill itself. Russell and Hayden (D., Ariz.) argued the Senate never has and can't under the rule shut off debate on the motion to call up.

In ruling the cloture motion out of order, Vandenberg made it plain in a 2000-word decision that he favored antipoll tax action "now" but wasn't permitted to consider his own predilections.

As Senate President pro-tem, he said he could not arbitrarily override Senate rules. Under these rules, he said, cloture may be invoked only against a "pending measure," and not against pending motions.

Wants Rules Amended

The Michigan Republican said the Senate lacks any "conclusive" cloture procedure and he would like to see the rules amended.

"They still leave the Senate, rightly or wrongly, at the mercy of unlimited debate, ad infinitum," he said.

When Wherry moved an overnight recess, however, Senator Morse "protested" that the Senate should remain in session at least until 11 p. m. He said he would like to see 24-hour sessions of the Senate if necessary to force a vote. Senator William Langer (R., N. Dak.) agreed with Morse.

Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) meanwhile kept the filbuster going with a speech declaring antipoll tax legislation unconstitutional, unnecessary and undesirable.

Special Session Scorecard

Following is the congressional score sheet on the President's 11-point program after the fifth day of the special session:

1. Control inflation. Administration bill introduced last week. House and Senate hearings under way.
2. Low-cost housing. No House committee action on Senate-passed bill. Petition drive jeopardized by proposed quick adjournment.
3. Federal aid to education. No House committee action on Senate-passed bill.
4. Increase social security benefits. No action.
5. Amend Displaced Persons Act. Senate bills introduced last week. No action.
6. Loan to build United Nations headquarters. No House action on bill passed by the Senate and approved by House Foreign Affairs Committee.
7. Ratify international wheat agreement. Hearings Wednesday.
8. Funds for TVA steam plant. Bills introduced last week. No action.
9. Raise Federal pay. No action.
10. Civil rights program. Senate motion of last week to call up House-passed antipoll tax bill still under filibuster. Cloture move fails.
11. Increase minimum wage level. No action.

Meeting Fails to Settle Hiring Hall Dispute

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Shipowners and the CIO National Maritime Union ended a meeting today without announcing settlement of their hiring hall dispute, though a union official had predicted it.

Joseph Curran, union president, had said earlier that the question of the union hiring hall, major dispute in the negotiations, was practically settled. He said settlement might be reached later in the day.

However, Curran and Frank J. Taylor, the shipping companies' negotiator, said talks would go on again tomorrow.

Danaher to Direct GOP Senate Drive

Republican Campaign Manager Herbert Brownell, jr., yesterday announced appointment of former Senator John A. Danaher of Connecticut as executive director of the senatorial campaign "to hold the present Republican majority in the Senate and to increase it wherever possible."

Danaher was congressional aide to the Republican National Committee chairman during the 1946 campaign when the Republicans obtained their majority in the Senate and the House.

Brownell said the committee was "very fortunate" to obtain the services of Danaher and that his record in the 1946 campaign demonstrates his capability.

"It is highly important that the new President and Vice President, who will take office next January, shall not be handicapped by a hostile Senate," Brownell said. "We plan an all-out drive to hold the present Republican majority in the Senate and to increase it wherever possible."

Murder With Truck Is Laid to Prisoner

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 2 (AP).—A Wilmington man is accused of driving his small truck across a sidewalk today and crushing another man to death against a building.

Police Chief James C. Riley said the driver, George R. Watts, was charged with murder in the death of Clarence E. Unrow, 29, also of Wilmington.

New Truck Too High, So Another Firehouse

Harmony, Pa., Aug. 2 (AP).—Firemen laboriously raised $17,000 and waited two years for their big fire truck to be delivered. Finally it arrived—and proved eight inches higher than the firehouse entrance.

Now the 500 undaunted volunteers are digging up money for a new firehouse.

Appeals Court Rejects TWA Plea For Back Mail Pay

By The Associated Press

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday rejected TWA claims for back mail pay, estimated by officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board to involve 11 million dollars.

The three-judge court unanimously ruled against retroactive extra compensation for a mail-carrying airline for which CAB has fixed a final mail rate.

Asserting that the mail statute contains nothing "which indicates that Congress intended to guarantee a profit to every carrier" the court said:

"If the board could redetermine the rate for a past period when the carrier has made less than an adequate profit, or no profit at all, it could do so when the carrier has made more than an adequate profit.

"The financial confusion which would follow from the latter conclusion seems obvious. No rate order would be final. No dividend declaration would be secure."

Congress Applauded By Truman

A letter from President Truman, then a Senator from Missouri, defending the "integrity and intelligence" of Congress, was placed in the record yesterday by Senator Kem (R., Mo.).

The letter, written in 1944 to the St. Louis Star-Times, commented on the veto of a tax bill by President Roosevelt. The veto was overridden.

Mr. Truman said that when the President "attacked the integrity and the intelligence of the Senate and House of Representatives, he got just what was coming to him."

"A little more common sense in the administrative approach to things that have to be done, and a little less demagoguery for the purpose of appealing to tne ignorant and uninformed would make it much easier to carry on the war effort and to win the war that much more quickly."

He referred to the elective legislative branch as "the bulwark of free government," and added:

"I honestly think the founding fathers believed the Congress to be the most important branch of the Government, or they would not have outlined its organization and its power first in the Constitution."

The letter also said that "he (referring to the President) must merit our respect just as we merit his."

70 Attack Plan To Boost Rent At Naylor Apts.

A public hearing which may result in rent increases of 15 per cent for tenants of 748 units in Naylor Gardens got underway yesterday in the board room of the District Building.

Approximately 70 tenants, most of them represented by Scott P. Crampton, appeared to protest the rent boost, which has been requested by members of the Veterans Cooperative Housing Association, owners of the apartment development.

The rent hike is being asked on the grounds of cost of improvements to the properties, increases in taxes, and increased maintenance costs.

Crampton stated that the petitioners had not shown how any of these costs had materially increased during the current year, during which VCHA has owned the property. Rent Control Examiner James G. Tyson heard the case, which he predicted might extend for two more days.

When the petition for the rent increase was filed with the Rent Control Administration, 15 per cent hikes were asked on only 532 units of the development. However, since that time, attorneys for the petitioners pointed out yesterday, the veteran-owners who are members of the cooperative and now live in Naylor Gardens have signed a petition agreeing to accept any rent increase imposed on the Gardens development by a rent administration order.

Attorneys for the cooperative, William A. Roberts, former people's counsel, and Francis J. Ortman, said that at the present time only about 30 per cent of the residents of the apartment are members of the cooperative.

The apartment development contains 350 one-bedroom units at $59.50; 348 two-bedroom units at $68.50 and $70.00 monthly rentals, and 50 three-bedroom units at $78.50.

Heat Studies Show No Absolute Death

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—There probably is no such thing as absolute death, according to studies of heat published today in the scientific journal, Physics.

The possibility of absolute death has been a scientific concept of what must happen when all heat vanishes. This occurs at absolute zero, which is 499 below zero Fahrenheit and 273 below centigrade.

At that point all motion was supposed to cease completely, even in the movement of atoms in molecules.

Helium studies recently made have upset this concept. They indicate that even after all heat is gone at absolute zero there still will be some motion.

Although motion is not of itself life, motion is part of anything that is alive.

The helium studies are described by Dr. Lazlo Tisza, a physicist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They were made at Yale University, in Moscow and in other laboratories.

Helium has been cooled to within four thousandths of one degree of absolute zero. Even at this incredibly low temperature helium doesn't freeze.

The helium molecules slow down but not enough to indicate that they will stop moving.

Scientists don't know for sure that the molecules won't die.

But Dr. Tisza, after applying the mathematics of quantum mechanics, which predict what to expect, writes:

"It turns out that molecular activity slows down with decreasing temperature, but it can never come to a complete standstill."

7 Indicted In Outdoor Gaming Raid

Seven men arrested in a mass raid at Thomas Circle July 15 were indicted yesterday on charges of operating a lottery, possession of numbers slips and setting up a gaming table.

They are Webster Stewart, 29, of 411 L st. se.; William Sacks, 54, of 718 Rittenhouse st. nw.; Joe Marks, 48, of 501 Longfellow st. nw.; Irving B. Summers, 55, of 1620 Fuller st. nw.; Alex London, 52, of 1146 15th st. nw.; Samuel Teitelbaum, 57, of 1228 3rd st. nw., and Harry A. Brown, 48, of 1422 Irving st. nw.

More than $6000 and a quantity of numbers slips was seized in the raid by the Police Vice Squad.

Afternoon Meeting

Police said they had been investigating the case for more than two weeks after learning the men involved were congregating at Thomas Circle every afternoon. According to Police, Stewart, driving a Veterans' Administration truck, daily passed over a small packet to Summers.

This was the signal to start the raid. When police converged on the group, Summers ran and attempted to dispose of the packet by throwing it in a trash can, it was said. The packet contained numbers and horse bet slips.

When arrested Marks had more than $5000, and London $2650.

Summers was arrested on June 28, also at which time it was said he had several thousand dollars with him. But gambling charges at that time were dropped, the United States Attorney's office explaining they preferred to take the case directly to the grand jury.

Police announced that the raid broke up a central transfer point where runners from all of the city turned in their slips and money daily to agents of their backers.

In another indictment, James Y. Cathcart, 39, of 522 Butternut st. nw., was charged with taking indecent liberties with a 9-year-old girl in his automobile at 4:30 p. m. July 24 in the 4700 block of Arkansas ave. nw. Police said he confessed.

Two young men were charged with a series of crimes beginning ou May 14.

The defendants are Robert E. Walton, jr., 22, of 430 11st st. se., and Walter M. Kendall, 19, of 106 8th st. se. They are charged with robbery, housebreaking, theft of an automobile, forgery and uttering of checks.

Their first victim, according to the charges, was George R. Saint-Pol of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. A young woman, who pretended she was having trouble with her car, induced Saint-Pol to ride with her from the 1200 block of Connecticut ave. nw., to the Klingle st. bridge. There, according to police, Kendall and Walton courteously insisted that Saint-Pol ride home with them, but en route they took his wallet, car keys, money and personal papers valued at more than $120.

Some time later, Saint-Pol received a telephone call in which the caller said he was a detective and asked for the location of Saint-Pol's automobile. Using the stolen keys, the defendants took the car.

On June 9, according to charges, the defendants looted Austin's Service Station at 4866 Massachusetts ave. nw., of more than $150 and several blank checks. That same night the Palace Laundry at 4859 Massachusetts ave. nw., was burglarized of more than $1650 in clothing, with which crime Kendall and Welton also are charged. They made out the blank checks, using Saint-Pol as payee, and cashed them for more than $100, it was charged.

Both defendants have criminal records.

Major Indicted In Beating of 10-Yr.-Old Son

Maj. Franklin Hoffman, of the Army Medical Corps, was indicted here yesterday on charges of cruelty and beating his 10-year-old son with an electric cord.

The District grand jury which returned the indictment was told by physicians and police that the boy, Rene A. Hoffman was so badly beaten on July 27 in the basement of his home, 217 Gallantin st. ne., that he suffered two black eyes, a bruised blood vessel on his forehead and nose, deep abrasions and contusions to his abdomen, back, arms and legs. He required 300,000 units of penicillin in treatment.

This is the version of police

On May 5, Rene ran away and was found at Union Station. He was turned over to Major Hoffman and his wife, Gabrielle. They were advised to consult a psychiatrist

On July 28, neighbors complained that the boy had been screaming. Police found no one at home in the Hoffman apartment, but peered into the basement to see the boy lying on the floor with a pillow.

They forced the basement and the boy told them, it was related, "I am being punished because I was a bad boy."

The boy bore marks of a severe beating and on his mouth were the marks of adhesive tape and rope burns were on his wrists.

Rene related to police that on July 26, he had run off with three other youths and was found at their residence at 138 Hamilton st. nw. He said he was taken to the basement, gagged and tied, and his arms raised over his head and tied with a rope looped around a nail in the wall. He said he was then whipped with the electric cord.

The next day, said the boy, his father brought him a pillow and a piece of bread.

Two Bound Over In Knife Killings; One Yet at Large

Two persons, one of whom has not yet been apprehended, were ordered held for grand jury action at coroner's inquests yesterday in two recent fatal stabbings.

The coroner's jury ordered Marion Brown, alias Marion Jeffries, of 224 D st. nw., held for the grand jury in the death of James E. Jeffries, 35, of the D st. address, who was fatally stabbed in the chest in an alley in the rear of 117 F st. nw. last Friday night. The woman has not yet been located, police said.

Alex Ferguson, 31, of 1636 14th st. nw., was ordered held for grand jury action in the death of John Pollard, 28, of 824 24th st. nw. Pollard was stabbed during a card game argument at the 14th st. address early Saturday and died 24 hours later at Freedmen's Hospital.

GOOD AND "THRIFTY" EATING!

For downright good eating at a thrifty price, plan a meal around barbecued spareribs this week. Your Safeway meat department is featuring small, lean, meaty spareribs at a typical low Safeway price. Dad will love 'em and so will you and the kiddies.

HERE'S HOW TO FIX IT . . .

BARBECUED SPARERIBS

2 lbs. spareribs
1 lge. onion
½ cup water
½ cup catsup
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon paprica
½ teaspoon chili powder
salt and pepper

Place spareribs in a roasting pan. Add onion sliced and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Combine and mix well the remainder ingredients and pour over spareribs. Cover pan and roast in moderate oven about one hour, basting frequently. Remove cover and continue roasting to brown the spareribs.

Pedestrian Hazard

Miss Mattie Josephine Gillison, an employe of the State Department, met sudden death Saturday night when the limb of a tree fell and struck the back of her head. That is the kind of accident that cannot be regarded as an unavoidable result of a storm that allegedly had weakened the limb and caused it to fall. For Saturday's storm was not accompanied by winds of such violence as to damage sound trees.

As a matter of fact, the streets are littered with tree branches after storms that are comparatively minor disturbances, doing little or no other property damage. The reason for this excessive tree damage is no mystery; it is due to the failure to remove trees that have become weakened by disease, insects and age, and to cut off dead or rotted branches of trees that are otherwise sound.

Any observant pedestrian can spot many trees in the course of a stroll about town that are a potential menace to every passer-by. Miss Gillison's death should be warning to the city authorities of the need for prompt action to make sure that the trees that line our city streets are firmly rooted, and that they are properly pruned to reduce the menace to life and limb of falling branches.

Exposing Spies

Commenting on our editorial of yesterday, Senator Ferguson, chairman of the Senate Investigating committee, informs us that though a request for a court order asking for release of the grand jury testimony into the Bentley case was considered, no such request was, in fact, made, and further, the committee has not had access to or information about such testimony. Every witness at the current hearing is instructed not to divulge what was said during the New York proceedings.

The sensational story of twin Soviet spy rings in Washington, narrated by Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley under the auspices of two congressional committees, has been widely likened to the disclosure of Soviet espionage activities in Canada by a royal commission just a little more than two years ago. Perhaps, therefore, it would be useful to compare the procedures followed in the two cases. Some of the differences between them are enlightening.

The Canadian disclosures, like those currently emanating from Capitol Hill, were based in the first instance on the testimony of an apostate Soviet agent—a Russian citizen named Igor Gouzenko employed by the Soviet Embassy in the one case, a disillusioned American citizen working for the American Communist Party in the other. Gouzenko's testimony, however, was supported by voluminous documents which he took with him from the Soviet Embassy's files, the authenticity of which was carefully ascertained. Miss Bentley's testimony, on the other hand, has thus far had no documentary corroboration whatsoever.

In Canada, before the names of any persons involved in the spy ring were made public, there was established, through an Order in Council, a Royal Commission to make a complete inquiry and to report on all the circumstances of the case. The commission heard 116 witnesses and studied about 1000 exhibits, developing in connection with each person it denounced as implicated in espionage a detailed interlocking network of evidence. At the same time it took great pains to avoid divulging the names of persons mentioned in the course of testimony but innocent of any wrongdoing. After listing those actively involved in one way or another with the spy ring, the commission report declared:

> The names of certain other persons were mentioned in such a context that it was considered advisable to examine them and to investigate their activities. In each case we were satisfied that their conduct has been entirely proper and that while the Russians designed to draw some of them into the net in future, having in anticipation of doing so actually given them covernames, such hopes were in our opinion completely without foundation and the objects of those hopes were unaware that they were being considered . . . The names of a number of persons, in government service and otherwise, who were members of secret Communist cells have been disclosed by this inquiry. These names appear in the volume of evidence. As there is no evidence that these persons were implicated in, or aware of, the espionage networks, we do not consider it necessary to mention these names in this report.

The procedure on Capitol Hill, by contrast, has been first to publish the names of those alleged by Miss Bentley's unsupported testimony to be involved in espionage and later on, presumably, to inquire into the validity of her allegations. This seems the more remarkable since there is a firmly fixed American tradition to the contrary. It must be supposed that no congressional committee would carelessly make public an unsupported allegation that Government officials, or former Government officials, of high repute had embezzled funds or committed arson. Yet there appears to be no hesitation at all in letting such public servants be denounced as traitors to their country—on the mere affirmation of a turncoat Commie. Perhaps the Canadians benefited somewhat from the fact that their Royal Commission was thoroughly nonpartisan—and was not obliged to conduct its inquiry in the course of an election year.

Reply To A Communist

In the right-hand column of our editorial page of Sunday appeared a communication from Mr. Richard O. Boyer protesting against the indictment of 12 leaders of the Communist Party on charges of conspiracy against the United States. Mr. Boyer, who identified himself as a member of the party, asserted that these indictments were themselves subversive of American principles and traditions. They represent, he said, a nullification of constitutional principles, and a first step toward a tyranny which would presently be extended beyond the Communists and employed in the suppression of all dissident minorities.

That such a danger does exist, we do not deny. However, the portion of Mr. Boyer's letter which seems to us to be most deserving of comment is his assertion that the American Communists place loyalty to the principles of American democracy above their devotion to the Leninist ideology. The Communists, he wrote, > —believe that such a great and fundamental social change as the transformation of a nation from capitalism to socialism cannot be made unless the decisive majority of the people favor such a change. We believe that revolution by conspiracy is fairy tale and impossibility. The great mass of the people must openly act together before there can be revolution . . . We believe that those who advocate force and violence are the enemies of the people and that they retard social advancement and lay the basis for repression and fascism.

Now here it seems to us that Mr. Boyer was either disingenuous or naive. What he is asking us to believe is that the Communist Party is virtually indistinguishable in either methods and purposes from, say, the Socialist Party of Mr. Norman Thomas. Mr. Thomas and his followers also believe that socialism would offer better opportunities for a good life to a larger number of persons than capitalism; they, too, are opposed to war, violence and racial segregation; they, too, are convinced that their aims must be realized, if they are to be realized at all, through processes which will in no way jepoardize the freedom guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

It seems pertinent, therefore, to ask why, in view of this identity of methods and purposes, the Communist rather than the Socialist Party has been chosen as the primary object of persecution and repression. The answer of course is that a very large number of Americans, who a few years ago were persuaded that American communism was pretty much as Mr. Boyer described it, are now persuaded that it does represent a conspiracy directed against the interests of the American people by persons outside the United States, and that it has no other interest in the preservation of political freedom than to facilitate the activities of its agents in countries where conspirators are not yet capable of seizing plenary power.

What has caused this change in attitude of Americans toward the Communist Party? It comes, we believe, from an increasing familiarity with the subject, which makes it no longer possible to confuse or deceive them by the sort of reasoning employed by Mr. Boyer. If Mr. Boyer's letter was written in good faith, as we are obliged to assume, he has put himself in serious heresy for which, we suppose, he is answerable to the party.

He has, for one thing, repudiated the teachings of Lenin, who again and again emphasized the conspiratorial character of the Communist revolution and the revolutionary role of the minority. Mr. Boyer has repudiated the Russian Communist Revolution of October, 1917, which was a forcible seizure of power by a very small minority of highly trained professional revolutionists, and was sustained by methods of violence and terror almost unknown since the days of Jenghiz Khan. He has repudiated the statutes formally adopted by the Third International, which set forth the necessity of combining open political action with covert conspiracy. He has repudiated the actions of the Communist Party in almost every country of eastern and central Europe, and has been guilty of that sin of national particularism which brought the sentence of excommunication on the head of Marshal Tito.

Virginia Spirit

Virginia's congressional primary elections to be held today have given rise to some healthy competition that has been all too rare in the tradition of one-party government in the Old Dominion. The usually perfunctory Democratic-Republican rivalry has been enlivened this year because of the split within the Democratic Party and the possibility that Virginia might join in a national Republican sweep. This in turn has placed a greater emphasis on issues and less on habit in the selection of candidates.

Irrespective of the strength of the Republican challenge in November, the fight of broadest implications is in the Democratic primary. This is true because the liberal forces in Virginia have found it most expedient to challenge the entrenched conservatives by working within the Democratic Party itself rather than by attacking them from the outside. Thus the primary election in Virginia in a sense contains the same conflicts that are usually decided between Republicans and Democrats in States where the political forces are more evenly balanced.

One of the most interesting contests in this respect is that between Senator A. Willis Robertson and James P. Hart for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Mr. Hart has barnstormed the State attacking Mr. Robertson's votes against housing and Federal aid to education. Apparently these have had some effect, for just last week Mr. Robertson introduced his own substitute aid to education bill. Moreover, while maintaining his hostility to the Truman civil rights program, he has found it necessary to repudiate his earlier bolt from the Democratic Party.

The Eighth District stronghold of Representative Howard W. Smith is likely to prove more secure than that of Senator Robertson. Mr. Smith previously has conquered more formidable opposition than is apparent in his present foe, Arthur F. Souther—though the presence of a Republican congressional primary this year may indicate an upsurge of GOP strength in northern Virginia that may give Mr. Smith more of a run in November. Even though Representative Smith's case may prove an exception, however, the grassroots campaigning in Virginia this year is forcing an encouraging trend away from prefabricated politics.

James E. Watson

Any day up till recently Jim Watson of Indiana, last Republican majority leader in the Senate before the Roosevelt era, could be found at lunchtime in one of the downtown restaurants. He would probably be holding forth to his cronies about the good old days on Capitol Hill. And he would be well worth listening to. Few men had his salty wit, fewer had such an appropriately devastating comment for the occasion. He had the vitality and the gallantry of a man half his age. Now he is dead, at 84; and the corridors on the Hill have been echoing to Jim Watson stories, for, though the man had been forgotten, his wisecracks are part of the congressional folklore. No fewer than 56 years ago, according to Senator Capehart, his name first appeared on a ballot. He failed, but later, in 1895, he entered Congress, and came under the spell of Uncle Joe Cannon. Uncle Joe took the young legislator under his wing, taught him all the tricks of the trade, and built him up as a parliamentarian. What Jim Watson imbibed mainly from Speaker Cannon was a devotion to party regularity. It was a religion with him, for he felt that without it the American system would fall to pieces, and the people become prey to that spirit of faction against which George Washington warned his fellow countrymen.

In this connection Senator Watson used to tell a story of Uncle Joe which shall be our contribution to the stock of reminiscences about Jim Watson. One day in the House the Speaker spoke about a party man as a deserving appointee for some vacant post. "But you couldn't recommend him," said young Watson. "He's a so-and-so." "Yes, he may be," said Uncle Joe, "but, my boy, he's our so-and-so, isn't he?" Watson in his maturity didn't forget this lesson in extreme partisanship. But the Senator is remembered today not for this political narrowness, but for the way he combined loyalty to party with friendship for party opponents. It is the personal rather than the political Watson that will live. Senator Barkley's tribute showed how this broadmindedness was appreciated on the Democratic side. What he said underlined the comment of Senator Lodge, recalling the tie between his grandfather and Watson, that "he had friends in every corner of the United States." What better memory could Jim Watson's family cherish than this—that he was a man of many friends? He kept them in constant repair in the town's eating places, and in the process added to them by the earthy flavor he retained to the end.

Oratorical Slash

Senator Byrd has made his annual demand for a cut in the number of Federal employes, this time by a reduction of 30 per cent. No one with any knowledge of the workings of Government would deny that the estimated average employment figure of 2,112,000 for the current fiscal year is swollen and could be pared without curtailing efficiency. But it is foolish to compare this figure with prewar employment, as Senator Byrd does, for obligations have increased materially over strictly peacetime standards. And it is poppycock to talk of wading through with a scythe and eliminating 630,000 workers from the total.

If Senator Byrd's penchant for cutting public payrolls is consistent, he could well afford to press for a little economy in his own back yard. His home State of Virginia ranks near the top in the number of State employes per capita. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Virginia now has 19,200 workers on its rolls. On the basis of 1945 civilian population estimates, that means 1 State employe for each 141 residents, compared to 1 for each 170 residents in the more populous State of New York and 1 to 251 in Ohio. If Senator Byrd's political control of Virginia is as tight as reputed, certainly he could do something about this situation if he wished. Or is he wearing blinders that permit him to scrutinize only Federal employes on whom he is not dependent for support?

Schniewind's Record

In your issue of May 1 appears the following by Mr. Marquis Child about Messrs. Hermann Abs and myself.

"We read that the German board of directors of the Trizonal Bank of the German states have named as president and chairman of the board two financiers who were among the most useful servants of the Nazis. Hermann J. Abs and August Schniewind put their skill at the service of top Nazis, the former particularly in pillaging the occupied countries of their economic resources . . .

"Schniewind was recently made liaison officer for the European Recovery Program and the Bizonal Economic Administration. This could be a position of paramount influence in shaping the direction of the German economy."

Permit me to make the following observation: My name is not August, but Dr. Otto Schniewind. On account of my strong fight against the Nazis from the very start I was driven out of every position that I had managed to create for myself during a 12-year period. And finally, as an active participant in the Beck-Goerdeler conspiracy, and as a result of this conspiracy, I was in prison from July, 1944, to the early part of 1945, and only escaped with my life as a result of quite improbable good luck.

The military regime has recognized me through an official statement as a victim of Nazi brutality. I was not affected in the least by the denazification law and have earned credit in the fight against national socialism. Such is the life experience of a man of whom it is asserted in your newspaper that he has been a highly useful servant of the Nazi, and has placed his brains and ability in that service.

I am not writing this to you in order to obtain a correction, but in order that you may form a judgment as to whether it is right that a newspaper of as high a reputation as yours should injure and besmirch the honor of a man by incorrect assertions.

Hitler's Automobile

I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to say a personal word about the Hitler automobile which I have acquired.

It seems to me that Hitler's armored automobile is more than the form of property of one of time's most wicked and infamous dictators. The fact that an ordinary business man acquired the car and that it has ended up in the greatest free country of the world should make it a symbolic reminder that in the long run free men win out; and gangsters whether in the form of dictators or hoodlums cannot shield themselves forever behind armored plate, bullet proof glass, or iron curtains.

I sincerely hope that the car may remind people that Hitler had the mistaken idea that just because you can make the individual groggy with propaganda you can also knock him out. We in free democracies know that the individual is incorrigible and that at the count of nine he always gets up—maybe swinging wildly but swinging hard.

Hitler forgot that. Stalin should remember it.

Talking Motormen

The testimony of the driver's wife concerning the tragedy of a young man falling out of a streetcar door points up a common situation that should be remedied.

Most conveyances bear the legend "not to engage the driver in conversation while the car is in motion." Yet it is the transit company employes and their friends who constantly violate this rule. Their wives or sweethearts sit directly behind the driver and keep up a steady flow of talk which, in some instances, becomes argumentative, obviously distracting the driver's attention to duty.

There is no implication intended in this tragedy, but I see so much of this distraction going on continually on the cars and buses that I feel this is a good time for us all to realize what a dangerous habit it is. A. H.

Wallace Convention

I happened to get around quite a bit at the Wallace convention and I must say that I didn't see Rebecca West's "horrible people." And I didn't have to ply my hatpin to ward off the aggressive or use extra doses of cologne to smother the offensive.

The Rebecca Wests and Alsops may have learned to eat properly with the knife and fork a la Emily Post, but figuratively speaking they still gnaw their intellectual bones and throw them contemptuously over their shoulder to the "dogs" (the "horrible, unintelligent people" according to Miss West, and the "ghoulish, ludicrous and politically unsophisticated village idiots," according to the Alsops). These and other critics have the temerity to pass off this cheap kind of smear as responsible journalism!

Strange how an assemblage of United States citizens, bent on a program of peace, goodwill and economic improvement, can roil the minds of intelligent reporters to the point that they can answer only with despicable smears, failing lamentably to rebut the Progressive Party's platform and aims.

True, I didn't see shiny, lustrous Clare Luce satins nor many orchids. Many appeared to be simple folk who evidently had had to pinch pennies to make that trip, and doubtless will have to pinch a lot more in weeks to come. But there were enough of the well-dressed. And let the sophisticated sneer at this—I didn't smell any beery breaths!

Doubtless some of the Wallaceites are politically naive, but they know enough to know that the main issue today is war or peace. They mean to see to it that this country's present policymakers who are more interested in facesaving, prestige and power than in peace and progress are not going to succeed in steering this country into another war.

Miss Bentley's Testimony

There is something unclear about this spy ring inquiry. So far, at least, it deals entirely with alleged betrayals while we were putting every ounce of energy into winning the war.

At that time the writer, though in a second string position, had little time for gossip. But none of my associates dreamed that we were to withhold information from the USSR. Some were mystified that our bombers were not allowed to use Russian bases. But it was all one war.

In short, our top leadership was then honestly and devotedly and wholeheartedly fighting fascism—or assuredly we should have had cautionary orders respecting Russia. And that leadership did not change its policy until later. So most of this furor over Miss Bentley's testimony appears to be exploiting the obvious. And while we can see why the Government wants to divert us from other and important subjects, we can't see why the local papers play it up with such cock-a-hoop cruelty.

For about the whole thing there is a good deal of humbug, of tragedy, and injustice.

FRANCIS GOODELL.

Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley is getting a good deal of publicity. It is implied that she is no longer a Communist. If she was exposing the Communists and getting all this publicity her life would not be worth a nickel. She is evidently working to undermine public confidence in people employed in the United States Government.

M. A. FURMAN.

No official in any wartime Government agency can excuse himself for meeting anybody on a street corner so as to hand that person documents and typed material of the kind available to "any reporter or research worker." In every Government agency there is an information division, the personnel of which is responsible for meeting all requests of bona fide reporters and research workers.

What Miss Bentley has been telling the House Committee on Un-American Activities should prove to Mr. Taber and others that information divisions in Government departments need strengthening.

A balanced mental ration promotes a sound and healthy mind.

In time the Bentley story will shake down, as similar incidents have done, and the facts thereof will emerge from the fiction and fantasy that for the moment enhance it.

Readers of The Washington Post, mercifully spared the impact of hydrophobia that characterizes much current commentary, are enabled to use their reasoning faculties and draw their own conclusions.

Just possibly one conclusion that might be reached is that today's press release is admirably timed to draw attention away from the international chess game at Berlin, which appears to be going not so good for our side.

Perilous Interlude

By Mark Sullivan

Divided Nation

WE ENTER a period of five months, from now until next January, when a new Congress will take over and a President be inaugurated, whether the present one or another. A survey of the state of the Nation as it enters this period would say we are likely to see exceptional strain, going so far as danger.

The Government is divided, the Congress Republican, the President a Democrat, and the two in acute disagreement. During the first three months, until November, we shall not know who is to be the next President, and will be in a bitterly partisan campaign to determine. The campaign will be given complexity and added bitterness by the existence of a third party which does not support the Government's foreign policy, and by a bitter cleavage within the Democratic Party. After the election—assuming, as is most probable, that the Republican candidate will be elected—will be two months of suspense and interregnum. For any foreign enemy, or any domestic enemy of our form of government, these five months are a period of ideal opportunity.

In this condition we face two dangers—the foreign one, our relation to Russia; the domestic one, inflation. Contrary to common assumption, the two are not separable. The good intention which says we can fight a political campaign on domestic issues and be united on the foreign one may not be fully tenable in the present condition.

FOR THE basic purpose of Russia which we combat is to communize the world. And that purpose would be as well served by calamitous inflation in the United States, ending in economic collapse, as by any military or other action by Russia. How our two dangers are mingled is expressed in the report of the official Council of Economic Advisers, transmitted to the President and by him to Congress on July 30. In order to combat extension of communism in Europe, we are sending billions of dollars to the nations of western Europe, through the European Recovery Program. But the Economic Council frankly admits:

"We are deliberately subjecting ourselves to inflationary pressures on the domestic economy in the short run, in order to contribute to international security . . . in the long run."

HERE we face this double danger, foreign threat intermingled with domestic inflation, at a time when our form of government prescribes an election; at a time also when our two-party system has brought it about that the legislative branch of Government is controlled by one party, the executive by another. It is a supreme test of the capacity of our form of government and our political system to endure.

The holding of an election is inevitable; the Constitution prescribes it. But the conflict inherent between a President of one party and a Congress of the other could have been ameliorated, perhaps still might be, President Truman's course, instead of ameliorating, provoked and intensified it.

THE MERE calling of a special session to sit during a campaign was novel and provocative. No other President had done it since Franklin Pierce, 92 years ago; we passed through the Civil War and the first and second World Wars without a special session of Congress during a campaign.

However Mr. Truman may have felt this special session to be desirable, the manner of his calling it was either unthinkingly reckless or deliberately provocative. He first toured the country denouncing the Congress as the worst or second worst in our history, a statement historically grotesque. Then he made his announcement of the call in a violently partisan political speech of acceptance to the Democratic National Convention.

Mere competence in the administration of the Presidency would have suggested a procedure about calling a special session. It would have been to consult the leaders of Congress, those of the President's own party and those of the Republican majority. Probably they would not have assented, but Mr. Truman would have practiced order and decorum in the relations between the two branches of Government. Instead, the course he took, including raucous attacks, at once intensified division in a time of danger and advertised the division to those who would take advantage of it.

The coming five months are a period during which we shall have special need of the reliance expressed in the saying that God looks after children, drunken men and the United States.

Congress' Job

. . . If this Congress does not enact legislation to curb inflation and insure adequate housing, every working man and woman in the Nation should not fail to express his sentiment at the polls this coming November, and the Eightieth Congress will be recorded as the worst in the history of our country.

Pedestrian Hazard

Miss Mattie Josephine Gillison, an employe of the State Department, met sudden death Saturday night when the limb of a tree fell and struck the back of her head. That is the kind of accident that cannot be regarded as an unavoidable result of a storm that allegedly had weakened the limb and caused it to fall. For Saturday's storm was not accompanied by winds of such violence as to damage sound trees.

As a matter of fact, the streets are littered with tree branches after storms that are comparatively minor disturbances, doing little or no other property damage. The reason for this excessive tree damage is no mystery; it is due to the failure to remove trees that have become weakened by disease, insects and age, and to cut off dead or rotted branches of trees that are otherwise sound.

Any observant pedestrian can spot many trees in the course of a stroll about town that are a potential menace to every passerby. Miss Gillison's death should be warning to the city authorities of the need for prompt action to make sure that the trees that line our city streets are firmly rooted, and that they are properly pruned to reduce the menace to life and limb of falling branches.

Exposing Spies

Commenting on our editorial of yesterday, Senator Ferguson, chairman of the Senate Investigating committee, informs us that though a request for a court order asking for release of the grand jury testimony into the Bentley case was considered, no such request was, in fact, made, and further, the committee has not had access to or information about such testimony. Every witness at the current hearing is instructed not to divulge what was said during the New York proceedings.

The sensational story of twin Soviet spy rings in Washington, narrated by Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley under the auspices of two congressional committees, has been widely likened to the disclosure of Soviet espionage activities in Canada by a royal commission just a little more than two years ago. Perhaps, therefore, it would be useful to compare the procedures followed in the two cases. Some of the differences between them are enlightening.

The Canadian disclosures, like those currently emanating from Capitol Hill, were based in the first instance on the testimony of an apostate Soviet agent—a Russian citizen named Igor Gouzenko employed by the Soviet Embassy in the one case, a disillusioned American citizen working for the American Communist Party in the other. Gouzenko's testimony, however, was supported by voluminous documents which he took with him from the Soviet Embassy's files, the authenticity of which was carefully ascertained. Miss Bentley's testimony, on the other hand, has thus far had no documentary corroboration whatsoever.

In Canada, before the names of any persons involved in the spy ring were made public, there was established, through an Order in Council, a Royal Commission to make a complete inquiry and to report on all the circumstances of the case. The commission heard 116 witnesses and studied about 1000 exhibits, developing in connection with each person it denounced as implicated in espionage a detailed interlocking network of evidence. At the same time it took great pains to avoid divulging the names of persons mentioned in the course of testimony but innocent of any wrongdoing. After listing those actively involved in one way or another with the spy ring, the commission report declared:

> The names of certain other persons were mentioned in such a context that it was considered advisable to examine them and to investigate their activities. In each case we were satisfied that their conduct has been entirely proper and that while the Russians designed to draw some of them into the net in future, having in anticipation of doing so actually given them covernames, such hopes were in our opinion completely without foundation and the objects of those hopes were unaware that they were being considered . . . The names of a number of persons, in government service and otherwise, who were members of secret Communist cells have been disclosed by this inquiry. These names appear in the volume of evidence. As there is no evidence that these persons were implicated in, or aware of, the espionage networks, we do not consider it necessary to mention these names in this report.

The procedure on Capitol Hill, by contrast, has been first to publish the names of those alleged by Miss Bentley's unsupported testimony to be involved in espionage and later on, presumably, to inquire into the validity of her allegations. This seems the more remarkable since there is a firmly fixed American tradition to the contrary. It must be supposed that no congressional committee would carelessly make public an unsupported allegation that Government officials, or former Government officials, of high repute had embezzled funds or committed arson. Yet there appears to be no hesitation at all in letting such public servants be denounced as traitors to their country—on the mere affirmation of a turncoat Commie. Perhaps the Canadians benefited somewhat from the fact that their Royal Commission was thoroughly nonpartisan—and was not obliged to conduct its inquiry in the course of an election year.

Reply To A Communist

In the right-hand column of our editorial page of Sunday appeared a communication from Mr. Richard O. Boyer protesting against the indictment of 12 leaders of the Communist Party on charges of conspiracy against the United States. Mr. Boyer, who identified himself as a member of the party, asserted that these indictments were themselves subversive of American principles and traditions. They represent, he said, a nullification of constitutional principles, and a first step toward a tyranny which would presently be extended beyond the Communists and employed in the suppression of all dissident minorities.

That such a danger does exist, we do not deny. However, the portion of Mr. Boyer's letter which seems to us to be most deserving of comment is his assertion that the American Communists place loyalty to the principles of American democracy above their devotion to the Leninist ideology. The Communists, he wrote, > —believe that such a great and fundamental social change as the transformation of a nation from capitalism to socialism cannot be made unless the decisive majority of the people favor such a change. We believe that revolution by conspiracy is fairy tale and impossibility. The great mass of the people must openly act together before there can be revolution . . . We believe that those who advocate force and violence are the enemies of the people and that they retard social advancement and lay the basis for repression and fascism.

Now here it seems to us that Mr. Boyer was either disingenuous or naive. What he is asking us to believe is that the Communist Party is virtually indistinguishable in either methods and purposes from, say, the Socialist Party of Mr. Norman Thomas. Mr. Thomas and his followers also believe that socialism would offer better opportunities for a good life to a larger number of persons than capitalism; they, too, are opposed to war, violence and racial segregation; they, too, are convinced that their aims must be realized, if they are to be realized at all, through processes which will in no way jepoardize the freedom guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

It seems pertinent, therefore, to ask why, in view of this identity of methods and purposes, the Communist rather than the Socialist Party has been chosen as the primary object of persecution and repression. The answer of course is that a very large number of Americans, who a few years ago were persuaded that American communism was pretty much as Mr. Boyer described it, are now persuaded that it does represent a conspiracy directed against the interests of the American people by persons outside the United States, and that it has no other interest in the preservation of political freedom than to facilitate the activities of its agents in countries where conspirators are not yet capable of seizing plenary power.

What has caused this change in attitude of Americans toward the Communist Party? It comes, we believe, from an increasing familiarity with the subject, which makes it no longer possible to confuse or deceive them by the sort of reasoning employed by Mr. Boyer. If Mr. Boyer's letter was written in good faith, as we are obliged to assume, he has put himself in serious heresy for which, we suppose, he is answerable to the party.

He has, for one thing, repudiated the teachings of Lenin, who again and again emphasized the conspiratorial character of the Communist revolution and the revolutionary role of the minority. Mr. Boyer has repudiated the Russian Communist Revolution of October, 1917, which was a forcible seizure of power by a very small minority of highly trained professional revolutionists, and was sustained by methods of violence and terror almost unknown since the days of Jenghiz Khan. He has repudiated the statutes formally adopted by the Third International, which set forth the necessity of combining open political action with covert conspiracy. He has repudiated the actions of the Communist Party in almost every country of eastern and central Europe, and has been guilty of that sin of national particularism which brought the sentence of excommunication on the head of Marshal Tito.

Virginia Spirit

Virginia's congressional primary elections to be held today have given rise to some healthy competition that has been all too rare in the tradition of one-party government in the Old Dominion. The usually perfunctory Democratic-Republican rivalry has been enlivened this year because of the split within the Democratic Party and the possibility that Virginia might join in a national Republican sweep. This in turn has placed a greater emphasis on issues and less on habit in the selection of candidates.

James E. Watson

Any day up till recently Jim Watson of Indiana, last Republican majority leader in the Senate before the Roosevelt era, could be found at lunchtime in one of the downtown restaurants. He would probably be holding forth to his cronies about the good old days on Capitol Hill. And he would be well worth listening to. Few men had his salty wit, fewer had such an appropriately devastating comment for the occasion. He had the vitality and the gallantry of a man half his age. It was a religion with him, for he felt that without it the American system would fall to pieces, and the people become prey to that spirit of faction against which George Washington warned his fellow countrymen.

In this connection Senator Watson used to tell a story of Uncle Joe which shall be our contribution to the stock of reminiscences about Jim Watson. One day in the House the Speaker spoke about a party man as a deserving appointee for some vacant post. "But you couldn't recommend him," said young Watson. "He's a so-and-so." "Yes, he may be," said Uncle Joe, "but, my boy, he's our so-and-so, isn't he?" Watson in his maturity didn't forget this lesson in extreme partisanship. But the Senator is remembered today not for this political narrowness, but for the way he combined loyalty to party with friendship for party opponents. It is the personal rather than the political Watson that will live. Senator Barkley's tribute showed how this broadmindedness was appreciated on the Democratic side. What he said underlined the comment of Senator Lodge, recalling the tie between his grandfather and Watson, that "he had friends in every corner of the United States." What better memory could Jim Watson's family cherish than this—that he was a man of many friends? He kept them in constant repair in the town's eating places, and in the process added to them by the earthy flavor he retained to the end.

Oratorical Slash

Senator Byrd has made his annual demand for a cut in the number of Federal employes, this time by a reduction of 30 per cent. No one with any knowledge of the workings of Government would deny that the estimated average employment figure of 2,112,000 for the current fiscal year is swollen and could be pared without curtailing efficiency. But it is foolish to compare this figure with prewar employment, as Senator Byrd does, for obligations have increased materially over strictly peacetime standards. And it is poppycock to talk of wading through with a scythe and eliminating 630,000 workers from the total.

If Senator Byrd's penchant for cutting public payrolls is consistent, he could well afford to press for a little economy in his own back yard. His home State of Virginia ranks near the top in the number of State employes per capita. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Virginia now has 19,200 workers on its rolls. On the basis of 1945 civilian population estimates, that means 1 State employe for each 141 residents, compared to 1 for each 170 residents in the more populous State of New York and 1 to 251 in Ohio. If Senator Byrd's political control of Virginia is as tight as reputed, certainly he could do something about this situation if he wished. Or is he wearing blinders that permit him to scrutinize only Federal employes on whom he is not dependent for support?

Schniewind's Record

In your issue of May 1 appears the following by Mr. Marquis Child about Messrs. Hermann Abs and myself.

"We read that the German board of directors of the Trizonal Bank of the German states have named as president and chairman of the board two financiers who were among the most useful servants of the Nazis. Hermann J. Abs and August Schniewind put their skill at the service of top Nazis, the former particularly in pillaging the occupied countries of their economic resources . . .

"Schniewind was recently made liaison officer for the European Recovery Program and the Bizonal Economic Administration. This could be a position of paramount influence in shaping the direction of the German economy."

Permit me to make the following observation: My name is not August, but Dr. Otto Schniewind. On account of my strong fight against the Nazis from the very start I was driven out of every position that I had managed to create for myself during a 12-year period. And finally, as an active participant in the Beck-Goerdeler conspiracy, and as a result of this conspiracy, I was in prison from July, 1944, to the early part of 1945, and only escaped with my life as a result of quite improbable good luck.

The military regime has recognized me through an official statement as a victim of Nazi brutality. I was not affected in the least by the denazification law and have earned credit in the fight against national socialism. Such is the life experience of a man of whom it is asserted in your newspaper that he has been a highly useful servant of the Nazi, and has placed his brains and ability in that service.

I am not writing this to you in order to obtain a correction, but in order that you may form a judgment as to whether it is right that a newspaper of as high a reputation as yours should injure and besmirch the honor of a man by incorrect assertions.

Hitler's Automobile

I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to say a personal word about the Hitler automobile which I have acquired.

It seems to me that Hitler's armored automobile is more than the form of property of one of time's most wicked and infamous dictators. The fact that an ordinary business man acquired the car and that it has ended up in the greatest free country of the world should make it a symbolic reminder that in the long run free men win out; and gangsters whether in the form of dictators or hoodlums cannot shield themselves forever behind armored plate, bullet proof glass, or iron curtains.

I sincerely hope that the car may remind people that Hitler had the mistaken idea that just because you can make the individual groggy with propaganda you can also knock him out. We in free democracies know that the individual is incorrigible and that at the count of nine he always gets up—maybe swinging wildly but swinging hard.

Hitler forgot that. Stalin should remember it.

Talking Motormen

The testimony of the driver's wife concerning the tragedy of a young man falling out of a streetcar door points up a common situation that should be remedied.

Most conveyances bear the legend "not to engage the driver in conversation while the car is in motion." Yet it is the transit company employes and their friends who constantly violate this rule. Their wives or sweethearts sit directly behind the driver and keep up a steady flow of talk which, in some instances, becomes argumentative, obviously distracting the driver's attention to duty.

There is no implication intended in this tragedy, but I see so much of this distraction going on continually on the cars and buses that I feel this is a good time for us all to realize what a dangerous habit it is. A. H.

Wallace Convention

I happened to get around quite a bit at the Wallace convention and I must say that I didn't see Rebecca West's "horrible people." And I didn't have to ply my hatpin to ward off the aggressive or use extra doses of cologne to smother the offensive.

The Rebecca Wests and Alsops may have learned to eat properly with the knife and fork a la Emily Post, but figuratively speaking they still gnaw their intellectual bones and throw them contemptuously over their shoulder to the "dogs" (the "horrible, unintelligent people" according to Miss West, and the "ghoulish, ludicrous and politically unsophisticated village idiots," according to the Alsops). These and other critics have the temerity to pass off this cheap kind of smear as responsible journalism!

Strange how an assemblage of United States citizens, bent on a program of peace, goodwill and economic improvement, can roil the minds of intelligent reporters to the point that they can answer only with despicable smears, failing lamentably to rebut the Progressive Party's platform and aims.

True, I didn't see shiny, lustrous Clare Luce satins nor many orchids. Many appeared to be simple folk who evidently had had to pinch pennies to make that trip, and doubtless will have to pinch a lot more in weeks to come. But there were enough of the well-dressed. And let the sophisticated sneer at this—I didn't smell any beery breaths!

Doubtless some of the Wallaceites are politically naive, but they know enough to know that the main issue today is war or peace. They mean to see to it that this country's present policymakers who are more interested in facesaving, prestige and power than in peace and progress are not going to succeed in steering this country into another war.

Miss Bentley's Testimony

There is something unclear about this spy ring inquiry. So far, at least, it deals entirely with alleged betrayals while we were putting every ounce of energy into winning the war.

At that time the writer, though in a second string position, had little time for gossip. But none of my associates dreamed that we were to withhold information from the USSR. Some were mystified that our bombers were not allowed to use Russian bases. But it was all one war.

In short, our top leadership was then honestly and devotedly and wholeheartedly fighting fascism—or assuredly we should have had cautionary orders respecting Russia. And that leadership did not change its policy until later. So most of this furor over Miss Bentley's testimony appears to be exploiting the obvious. And while we can see why the Government wants to divert us from other and important subjects, we can't see why the local papers play it up with such cock-a-hoop cruelty.

For about the whole thing there is a good deal of humbug, of tragedy, and injustice.

FRANCIS GOODELL.
Bethesda.

Miss Elizabeth T. Bentley is getting a good deal of publicity. It is implied that she is no longer a Communist. If she was exposing the Communists and getting all this publicity her life would not be worth a nickel. She is evidently working to undermine public confidence in people employed in the United States Government.

M. A. FURMAN.

No official in any wartime Government agency can excuse himself for meeting anybody on a street corner so as to hand that person documents and typed material of the kind available to "any reporter or research worker." In every Government agency there is an information division, the personnel of which is responsible for meeting all requests of bona fide reporters and research workers.

What Miss Bentley has been telling the House Committee on Un-American Activities should prove to Mr. Taber and others that information divisions in Government departments need strengthening.

A balanced mental ration promotes a sound and healthy mind.

In time the Bentley story will shake down, as similar incidents have done, and the facts thereof will emerge from the fiction and fantasy that for the moment enhance it.

Readers of The Washington Post, mercifully spared the impact of hydrophobia that characterizes much current commentary, are enabled to use their reasoning faculties and draw their own conclusions.

Just possibly one conclusion that might be reached is that today's press release is admirably timed to draw attention away from the international chess game at Berlin, which appears to be going not so good for our side.

Perilous Interlude

By Mark Sullivan

Divided Nation

WE ENTER a period of five months, from now until next January, when a new Congress will take over and a President be inaugurated, whether the present one or another. A survey of the state of the Nation as it enters this period would say we are likely to see exceptional strain, going so far as danger.

The Government is divided, the Congress Republican, the President a Democrat, and the two in acute disagreement. During the first three months, until November, we shall not know who is to be the next President, and will be in a bitterly partisan campaign to determine. The campaign will be given complexity and added bitterness by the existence of a third party which does not support the Government's foreign policy, and by a bitter cleavage within the Democratic Party. After the election—assuming, as is most probable, that the Republican candidate will be elected—will be two months of suspense and interregnum. For any foreign enemy, or any domestic enemy of our form of government, these five months are a period of ideal opportunity.

In this condition we face two dangers—the foreign one, our relation to Russia; the domestic one, inflation. Contrary to common assumption, the two are not separable. The good intention which says we can fight a political campaign on domestic issues and be united on the foreign one may not be fully tenable in the present condition.

FOR THE basic purpose of Russia which we combat is to communize the world. And that purpose would be as well served by calamitous inflation in the United States, ending in economic collapse, as by any military or other action by Russia. How our two dangers are mingled is expressed in the report of the official Council of Economic Advisers, transmitted to the President and by him to Congress on July 30. In order to combat extension of communism in Europe, we are sending billions of dollars to the nations of western Europe, through the European Recovery Program. But the Economic Council frankly admits:

"We are deliberately subjecting ourselves to inflationary pressures on the domestic economy in the short run, in order to contribute to international security . . . in the long run."

HERE we face this double danger, foreign threat intermingled with domestic inflation, at a time when our form of government prescribes an election; at a time also when our two-party system has brought it about that the legislative branch of Government is controlled by one party, the executive by another. It is a supreme test of the capacity of our form of government and our political system to endure.

The holding of an election is inevitable; the Constitution prescribes it. But the conflict inherent between a President of one party and a Congress of the other could have been ameliorated, perhaps still might be, President Truman's course, instead of ameliorating, provoked and intensified it.

THE MERE calling of a special session to sit during a campaign was novel and provocative. No other President had done it since Franklin Pierce, 92 years ago; we passed through the Civil War and the first and second World Wars without a special session of Congress during a campaign.

However Mr. Truman may have felt this special session to be desirable, the manner of his calling it was either unthinkingly reckless or deliberately provocative. He first toured the country denouncing the Congress as the worst or second worst in our history, a statement historically grotesque. Then he made his announcement of the call in a violently partisan political speech of acceptance to the Democratic National Convention.

Mere competence in the administration of the Presidency would have suggested a procedure about calling a special session. It would have been to consult the leaders of Congress, those of the President's own party and those of the Republican majority. Probably they would not have assented, but Mr. Truman would have practiced order and decorum in the relations between the two branches of Government. Instead, the course he took, including raucous attacks, at once intensified division in a time of danger and advertised the division to those who would take advantage of it.

The coming five months are a period during which we shall have special need of the reliance expressed in the saying that God looks after children, drunken men and the United States.

Congress' Job

If this Congress does not enact legislation to curb inflation and insure adequate housing, every working man and woman in the Nation should not fail to express his sentiment at the polls this coming November, and the Eightieth Congress will be recorded as the worst in the history of our country.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The Bargaining Position

IN A leading article entitled "The Bitter Choice," the London Economist says that "the Western countries have blundered into this crisis and are only just beginning to realize the intensity of the dilemma with which they are faced.

LIPPMANN

They have every right to be furiously angry with the so-called leaders who put them there. But anger will not get them out. Only hard thought and high courage will do that. And it is fortunate that the air lift gives them time to think."

A dilemma is a necessary choice between two undesirable alternatives. One horn of the dilemma is to present Moscow with an ultimatum that they must raise the Berlin blockade. An ultimatum, as the Economist says will not work if it is a bluff, that is unless the Allies show that they "intend war seriously" by a "mobilization in western Europe and the United States, the concentration of aircraft and armor in western Germany, preparations for civil defense and at least the first steps toward a war economy." The other horn of the dilemma is to negotiate —if not exactly under duress, then at any rate—under unfavorable conditions for bargaining. For even if the blockade is raised to permit negotiations the fact that it can be reimposed gives the Russians a powerful instrument for bargaining.

WE SHALL, it seems to me, be misunderstanding the situation if we think that the issue is whether or not we shall stay in Berlin. The issue is how far the Russians can exploit for their larger diplomatic objectives in Germany and in Europe the precarious position of the Allies in Berlin. They have not asked us to withdraw. They have not presented us with any such clear-cut choice, nor allowed themselves to get into the quandary where they must make the fateful decision to start a war or stand before the world, having made a demand which has been rejected. They know that we cannot withdraw and that we must refuse to withdraw, and that, therefore, if they make the demand, they will have to start a war to enforce it.

It is not at all certain that they now want us to withdraw. For as they are playing their cards, the fact that we have to stay in Berlin but are in grave difficulties in Berlin, enables them to negotiate with the Allies while we are in a necessitous bargaining position.

The difference between the first notes protesting the blockade and the representations which are now being made to Stalin in Moscow registers the hard reality of the bargaining position.

THERE IS little doubt, I think, that a controlling consideration, in the last analysis the paramount consideration on both sides in this conflict, is the realization that the nation which starts a war is likely to lose it. No one can say for sure whether the great conflict can be settled without war, or how far the conviction exists that war is unavoidable. But what can be said, I think, is that one lesson has at least been learned from the last war: It is that to strike the first blow is the supreme military mistake, that no military advantage that can be gained by it at the outset can make up for the consequences that the aggressor must suffer in the long run.

For in the long run more nations and more people within each nation will rally to a war of defense and resistance than to a war of conquest and adventure. They will fight longer at home than abroad. They will bear the sacrifices more readily for their own homes, their own cities and villages, than for any foreign interest. The outlawry of aggressive war which is written into the United Nations Charter, which was sanctioned by the Nuernburg judgments, rests also on the military realities which statesmen and soldiers will, henceforth, ignore only at the risk of military disaster. Therefore, even though they think war inevitable, or desirable, they will not, if they know what they are doing, allow themselves to get into the position where they must give the order that precipiates the fighting.

THIS consideration, which moral commitments and military wisdom unite in supporting, plays a decisive part in the present conflict. It restrains both sides from making a demand that is an ultimatum which has to be enforced—restrains us from threatening to go to war to raise the blockade, restrains the Russians from demanding that we leave Berlin or that we accept the conditions they choose to enforce for a German settlement. For the side which delivered the ultimatum would have to start the shooting.

As long as the statesmen do not cross the line to an ultimatum, as long as they keep their soldiers from precipitating an irreparable incident, the issues of the conflict remain negotiable.

OUR problem is, however, not only to keep them negotiable. It is to retrieve the diplomatic position so unfavorable.

That will be as delicate and difficult a thing to do as our diplomacy has ever had to undertake. If it is to be done successfully, the public will have to understand the gravity of our diplomatic position, and the extreme necessity of supporting the Allied diplomacy by allowing it great freedom and flexibility of maneuver in the confidential discussions which must now take place. It would help greatly if while the Allied diplomacy is engaged in these discussions, there were no more press conferences and public declarations by General Clay, or by visitors who emerge from talks with General Clay, announcing his policies about a German settlement.

1948 Lamb Crop Is Smallest In 24-Year Records of U. S.

By The Associated Press

The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that this year's lamb crop was the smallest since it started keeping records in 1924.

The number was estimated at 20,467,000 head or nearly two million less than last year.

Sheep raising has been declining several years. Shortage of labor, and the fact that other types of farming now are more profitable were said to be major causes.

Unfavorable feed conditions resulting from dry weather also were said to have been factors in reducing this year's crop in Texas, the No. 1 lamb producing State.

Prices dropped in the major commodity markets yesterday.

At New York, cotton futures were 75 cents to $1.60 a bale lower and wool tops were unchanged to a cent a pound below previous quotations.

At the Chicago grain pits, wheat was one-half cent to three-quarters of a cent a bushel lower and oats were three-quarter of a cent a bushel below the previous close.

Porter Urges Price Controls

this Nation because of the demands of political expediency or the obvious reluctance to face up to unpleasant realities."

Porter listed, under questioning, the following items the Administration would put under price control: meat, butter, milk, dairy products, steel, nonferrous metals, building materials, and some clothing.

Capehart called attention to the absence of any Democratic members of the committee as Porter began his statement. Shortly afterward Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) came in late.

Capehart last December introduced a price-freezing bill. It would have frozen all prices, manufacturers, wholesale and retail, at the levels of December 13. He later changed the effective date to July 31, 1948. He now proposes to give the President power, whenever he declares "a national emergency exists" to freeze prices for as long as 90 days.

Porter said such a measure was unnecessary. Capehart then declared that the Administration showed insincerity in calling the present situation serious enough to call Congress back and then recommend only selective controls.

The price of meat, Capehart said, could not be controlled "without controlling the prices of everything that goes into it."

"You come here with a statement that the situation is serious. You used all the language in the dictionary to describe the seriousness of it."

"And I believe it," Porter insisted.

"Then why don't you recommend freezing all prices?" Capehart shot back.

Porter then referred to the cool reception his program got last week before the House Banking Committee.

"Much precious time has been wasted," he declared. "At least on the House side, committee consideration was confined principally to abstract economic seminars, and attempts to fix blame which he termed "sheer politics."

Porter called upon Congress to "face up to the challenge of inflation in the same spirit and on the same basis which it measured up to its responsibilities in coming to the aid of western Europe."

The fall campaign, he said, should give all the opportunity needed to call names and fix the blame for high prices. Mr. Truman's efforts, he said, had been "met with hostility, indifference and bickering, principally by those who opposed any rational approach to the problem of inflation even during the war."

Porter argued for the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. He said such a long-range housing program would not be inflationary if accompanied by anti-inflation controls.

Calling for a moratorium on politics, he declared the basic question is "Are we going to act or not?"

McCabe's appearance before the House group quickly showed that he has joined forces with his predecessor as Federal Reserve chairman, Marriner S. Eccles. Eccles last week said the White House proposal to increase reserves behind time and demand deposits for Federal Reserve member banks and leave nonmember banks free of such restrictions, "worse than no bill at all."

The entire board met early yesterday, McCabe said, and unanimously agreed that limiting the demand for higher reserves to member banks would seriously affect the entire Federal Reserve system.

Evans Presents Case

Evans pleaded for restoration of controls over installment buying—such as higher down payments and shorter periods to pay the balance—for consumer durable goods, refrigerators, washing machines, automobiles, air-conditioners, radios, etc.

In the three years since V-J Day, Evans said, "the public has gone in debt more rapidly than in any other period in our history.

"At the same time," he added, "consumers in general have been fully employed, have received a record amount of income, and have continued to increase their exceptionally large holdings of liquid assets.

"The large volume of consumer spending from current incomes, rapid turnover of accumulated savings, and increased borrowing, accompanied by limits on output of goods and services, have contributed to the upward spiral of prices."

More credit, he said, cannot produce more goods—it "can only add to the upward pressure on prices."

Views Held Discriminatory

Chairman Wolcott took a dim view of Evans' proposal. It was discriminatory, he declared.

The rich man, Wolcott said, with the cash on hand, could buy an automobile for pleasure, while a poor man, who needed a small truck for his business but without ready cash, would be unable to buy.

Wolcott also said such a measure would discriminate against war veterans. The country promised the veterans a home when he got back from the war. He can buy a home without any cash, but he has to have cash or he will be unable to buy furniture and household utensils under the Reserve Board's proposal, Wolcott said.

"It was pressure from the veterans that caused us to knock out this restriction on installment buying before," he charged.

During the hearing Representative Brent Spence (D., Ky.) urged a congressional investigation of recent price boosts by big corporations, particularly the United States Steel Corp. Wolcott said steel officials may be asked to testify—probably later this week.

Swank Butcher Shop Shows Precious Cuts Like Jewelry

Hollywood, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Meat costing what it does these days, a swank butcher shop in Beverly Hills has been remodeled to look like a jewelry store.

The hand-carved filets and precious T-bones are arranged carefully in gleaming showcases out in front, so couples can dreamily window shop as if for diamond rings. Some of the finely cut steaks repose on velvet pillows, like gold watches. The price tags remind you of jewelry, too.

This chop salon is called Elgee Meats, and it advertises itself as the Tiffany of the meat world. The store's $10,000 front was patterned after a New York jewelry shop. Soft music mingles with the whirr of knives custom cutting little gems of beef.

The package is almost as pretty as the meat. Each turkey, for instance, is delicately arranged in a little tub. Sprigs of parsley are tucked under each wing; paper lace frills grace each drumstick.

This policy has paid off for owners Al Levie and Ben Gutterman. They make a half-million dollars a year off the celebrities and society folks in town.

Soviet Influence

By Sumner Welles

Seduction Of Our Thinking

WE CANNOT afford to ignore the significance of the support given by many Americans to the Progressive Party in spite of their knowledge that the Communists dictated its platform and control the party machinery.

It is an alarming fact that a great number of these Americans sincerely believe that peace and a free world will be secured by the adoption of policies laid down by Moscow's agents in this country.

The third party convention proved that Soviet indoctrination has had far-reaching effects in the United States.

The influence that Communist propaganda has had in the realm of semantics is not serious. The meaning of so vitally important a word as "democracy" has already been obscured. Its true meaning of "rule by the people" has been perverted by its consistent use as a term applicable to the Soviet type of dictatorship. Some Americans are confused. They daily hear from Soviet-inspired sources that the autocracy which the men in the Kremlin are imposing upon the Russian people is genuine democracy and that the freely elected governments of the West represent a form of semifascism.

As this confusion grows, the distinction between liberty and tyranny, which was once clear-cut in the minds of the English-speaking peoples, is correspondingly dulled.

Outside of our largest racial minority, the results of Soviet indoctrination are chiefly to be seen among the more soggy-minded of the peace-seekers, and among those groups of liberals who concentrate exclusively upon materialist objectives. These men and women have been so influenced by the Communist line that they minimize the worth of those fundamental guaranties of human liberty established by the Bill of Rights.

TWO TYPICAL cases of the hypnotism produced by the Soviet juke box have only today come to my attention.

I have read an advance copy of the book of an American professor who writes of his experiences in eastern Europe, where he was recently sent to expound our national culture to the people of a satellite country. He cites with relish the criticism of American policy that he heard. These he evidently considered unanswerable. Among them were such threadbare examples of Communist propaganda as "Why has the United States intervened by force in Greece?" and "Why has the United States refused to oppose the Fascists in Argentina?"

This supposed evangelist of American democracy refrained from pointing out that the United States has not intervened by force in Greece, and that without American help the Greek people could not maintain their freedom in the face of Communist aggression. He was unwilling to explain that the Argentine government was freely elected by the Argentine people, and that, while we may deplore some of that government's domestic policies, under the democratic principles which govern inter-American relations no American republic can interfere in Argentina's internal concerns unless the American states jointly decide that her policies endanger hemispheric peace.

There is no reason to suppose that the professor is not a patriotic citizen and an honest liberal. He is probably now busily promoting civil rights in the United States. Yet to him neither the liberty of the Greeks nor the sovereign right of the Argentine people to choose their own government seemed to involve principles whose observance is essential to a free world. His criterion was the Communist Party line.

THE SECOND case is that of a correspondent who writes he is a member of "a group of honest citizenry in Los Angeles." He upbraids me for my disapproval of the dictatorship that has recently forced itself upon Costa Rica. He insists that the abrogation of Costa Rica's liberal and democratic constitution; government by decree; the subordination, without appeal, of life and property to the decisions of tribunals installed by the dictatorship; and the imposition of capital levies and the nationalization of banks, railroads and utilities without any prior expression of the will of the Costa Rican people, are all measures to be applauded on the ground that "radical surgical steps are necessary to cut out cancerous sores from the body of a republic." He believes that through such measures "we can expect the creation of a more liberal social democratic constitution than even the previous one."

Here is an American citizen asserting that, in a country where democratic processes and respect for individual liberties are traditional, a totalitarian dictatorship is to be welcomed as a means of securing an even "more liberal social democratic" system. The thesis is, of course, similar to that so recently proclaimed by the Communist Party in Czechoslovakia.

We have heard much of the desirability of combating communism by convincing other peoples of the superior advantages of the superior democracy. When Americans such as those I have quoted and those who support the third party hold in such low esteem the safeguards for individual freedom upon which our institutions are founded, we have reason to wonder whether our democracy is carrying out its proper obligation of teaching its own citizens the value of those human liberties that have made of it the hope of the oppressed for more than a century and a half.

May it be perhaps that some of the enlightenment required is needed here at home?

Near-Record Wheat Exports Forecast; Some Fear Surplus

By The Associated Press

The Agriculture Department said yesterday the United States may be able to sell at least 450 million bushels of wheat abroad from this year's crop.

This is only 35 million bushels short of last year's record shipments of 485 million. It is 75 million bushels more than the Government had expected this country would be able to spare.

This favorable export outlook for 1948 was somewhat offset in the department's view by prospects for a sharp drop in exports and prices within another year or so.

Some Concern

This concern over future foreign markets was expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan before a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday. He said world production is rapidly recovering from effects of the war.

The committee took up an Administration-backed international wheat agreement designed to stabilize future world markets by means of a system of export quotas and of maximum and minimum prices.

At the regular session of Congress the Senate group pigeonholed the agreement.

The question whether it is too late to ratify the document came before the Senate committee today. The deadline for ratification by the 35 nations which had signed it was last July 1. When the United States failed to ratify it by that date, Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand withdrew.

Brannan said he felt sure these countries could be persuaded to reenter the agreement if this country approved it right away.

The committee asked Brannan to go over the document with it again tomorrow.

Department officials say that the treaty does not mean very much for American wheat farmers this year. That is because they have a ready market for their grain.

But officials said there is a possibility of a world surplus in another year or so. Without the agreement, they argued, that could cause a disastrous drop in prices and possibly a disappearance of markets abroad for this country's grain.

The agreement would assure the United States an annual export market for at least 185 million bushels and an average farm price of not less than about $1.10 a bushel during the next five years.

In the thirties, exports dropped as low as 16 million bushels a year and farm prices to 38 cents a bushel.

Senator Capper Grave

Senator Capper (R., Kans.), Agriculture Committee chairman, agreed with the department arguments.

He said the country may face a wheat surplus in "a few years—perhaps not too many months."

He said also it would be better to have "guaranteed markets" for 185,000,000 bushels of export wheat, as provided in the agreement, even though sold at some loss, than for the Government to have to take over the entire surplus.

Difficult Shaw Play Well Done

By Richard L. Coe

THE NATIONAL THEATER'S closing emphasizes the community role of Catholic University's speech and drama department. After a season devoted solely to student manuscript productions, a well-intended experiment, Father Hartke's group now turns to Bernard Shaw, whose "Heartbreak House" is being played in the campus theater through Saturday evening.

This "fantasia in the Russian manner on English themes," as Shaw describes it, is being performed with real competence under the imaginative guidance of Basil Langton, the English actor-manager now studying the university theaters of this country. What lies ahead next season for the university group it is too early to say, but the promising level set by this production gives one hope that our dramaless Capital can at least look forward to a half dozen worthwhile evenings in the theater—nonsegregated, at that.

It has been said that among his disciples, Shaw's "Heartbreak House" comes either first or nowhere. Asked of its meaning, Shaw replied: "How should I know? I am only the author." But this, of course, is what Shaw always says when asked that question about anything he wrote.

It is, in the first place, a comedy and, being by Shaw, a comedy of ideas. He wrote it at 57, at the outbreak of World War I, but put off its production until the war was over. In his preface he explains:

"You cannot make war on war and on your neighbor at the same time. War cannot bear the terrible castigation of comedy, the ruthless light of laughter that glares on the stage. When men are heroically dying for their country, it is not the time to show their lovers and wives and fathers and mothers how they are being sacrificed to the blunders of boobies, the cupidity of capitalists, the ambition of conquerors, the electioneering of demagogues . . . the lusts and lies and rancors and bloodthirsts that love war because it opens their prison doors and sets them in the thrones of power and popularity. For unless these things are mercilessly exposed, they will hide under the mantle of the ideals on the stage just as they do in real life."

Captain Shotover's Escape

What is "Heartbreak House"? Again, Shaw's own description is the best answer:

"It is cultured, leisured Europe before the war. When the play was begun not a shot had been fired; and only the professional diplomatists and the very few amateurs whose hobby is foreign policy even knew that the guns were loaded."

In the comfortable country home of 88-year-old Captain Shotover are gathered the personifications of concepts that Shaw is discussing. Shotover is the all-knowing Shavian hero who has taken refuge from the world's insanity in eccentricity. One of his daughters undertakes to protect a young girl from marrying a capitalist, whose uselessness is exposed by the playwright as the three acts pass. Another daughter is the aristocracy, which Shaw calls "Horseback Hall," the alternative to "Heartbreak House." A son-in-law lives in a world only half real; a burglar practices a curious switch of his trade by working on his victims' sympathies, and a diplomat is completely in effectual.

Miss Hurley Scores

From the skies come the first bombs of a great war; the thief and the capitalist, the "smart boys," play safe in a refuge and are the only ones killed. The curtain goes down with the realization that the good must believe in themselves, enjoying, however, the excitement of something they don't understand.

To compress the rushing verbiage and allusions of this long play into a few paragraphs is impossible. Shaw's avowed purpose in playwrighting is to express ideas, but still one must regret his exuberance in throwing so many of them at us at once. Arnold Bennett's diary describes the play as "3 hours and 50 minutes of the most intense tedium," but it strikes me more as unbridled exuberance.

The university's cast is exceptionally polished for a group of young players who have rehearsed this immensely discursive play only three weeks. Marilyn Hurley is giving a particularly fine performance as the most resourceful of the ladies and J. Robert Dietz speaks Shotover's wisdom with understanding.

James D. Waring's impression of the ship-like setting Shaw described gives a decided style to the whole, and someone has hit on the idea of playing the cantabile from Chopin's funeral march at the beginning and end of each act, a device which is highly theatric although somewhat too explicit for Shaw's undisciplined genius.

NEW FACES: Comparatively new to this country, at any rate, are Valli and Louis Jourdan, who appear in "The Paradine Case," the Alfred Hitchcock film which arrives Thursday at the Palace. Valli appeared here first in "The Miracle of the Bells," Jourdan in "Letter From an Unknown Woman." Others in the Selznick production are Gregory Peck and Ethel Barrymore

Mother Held On Charge of Abandonment

A five day-old infant, apparently left to die in rain-soaked woods near Rockville, Md., Sunday was reported in good condition last night at Montgomery County General Hospital, Olney, Md.

The unwed mother, Thelma Tibbs, daughter of a Germantown, (Md.) laborer, was charged by county police with deserting a minor child. Bond was placed at $500. No trial date has been set.

Maximum penalty is a year in jail and a $100 fine, police said.

Detective Corpl. Jesse B. Day said the mother was seen entering the woods near Rockville Union Cemetery carrying the infant about 10:30 a. m. Sunday. She had been discharged from the Montgomery County General Hospital about 10 a. m.

She emerged a short time later, the policeman said, without the child. When questioned by police, who were tipped off anonymously, the mother reportedly said she had given the child to its father.

Police could not confirm the story. A hastily organized searching party, which included relatives, located the child wrapped in a rain-soaked blanket and hidden in the underbrush.

Second Job for Grady

President Truman sent to the Senate yesterday the nomination of Henry F. Grady, Ambassador to Greece, to serve also as chief of the United States Mission for Aid to Greece.

3 Falls Church Boys Accused In Robbery

Three Falls Church juveniles, accused by police of stealing $40 worth of building supplies, are tentatively scheduled to go before Fairfax Trial Justice Harry Carrico August 9.

The trio, aged 14, 15, and 17, were picked up by town police Saturday after an automobile chase of several blocks at high speeds.

Falls Church police believe the three youths were among teenagers involved in vandalism last New Year's Eve, when sand was put in automobile gas tanks in the Ravenwood subdivision.

The vandalism, which touched off civic protest and several public meetings, also prompted the town's drive for the recently completed Teen Canteen, a youth recreation center.

The three juveniles were arrested several blocks from Falls Church's new Oak Street School, near George Mason rd., after a school caretaker reported seeing them cache the building supplies in some shrubbery.

When Police Lieut. Edward Simpson drove up to the school in a socut car, the trio fled in their automobile, but were apprehended by Simpson a few blocks away.

Earlier that day, the scrap metal, pipe and copper tubing had been reported missing from the Tyler Gardens apartment development on West Broad st.

Truman Asks Supplemental Funds for Federal Agencies

Congress was asked by President Truman yesterday to approve supplemental appropriations of six million dollars for the Federal Security Agency, $3,075,800 for the Civil Service Commission, $100,000 for the Motor Carrier Claims Commission, and $130,000 for the Bureau of Mines.

Mr. Truman also submitted administrative cost estimates of $470,000 for the War Claims Commission and $100,000 for the Federal Security Agency, to be made from the war claims fund.

This fund is built up by the sale of seized German and Japanese property, but the new commission has no cash and therefore cannot start operations as required by law.

The six million dollars for the Security Agency will provide higher injury and death benefits for employes of war contractors engaged on defense work in the Pacific. It also will extend injury, disability and death benefits of civilians who suffered "unusual hardships" during the Pacific fighting. The benefits are authorized by the new War Claims Act and ultimately will be reimbursed from the war claims fund.

The Civil Service Commission appropriation is for the Panama Canal construction annuity fund. Amendments to the Canal Zone Construction Act increased annuity payments and provided them for a larger number of persons than heretofore.

The appropriation for the Motor Carrier Claims Commission is to be used in handling claims arising from the Federal seizure of 103 highway transport systems during the war.

The $130,000 requested for the Bureau of Mines, is to repair the experiment station at Rolla, Mo., damaged by fire on June 27.

Baltimore Detectives Guard Wounded Strangler Suspect

Baltimore police yesterday posted two detectives to guard Duncan Livingstone at Harford Memoiral Hospital where he was taken Saturday after he was found wounded in his car beside the body of his 19-year-old girl friend.

Livingstone had been shot once in the chest with a .38 caliber pistol. A weapon of the same caliber and a necktie were found in the front seat of the car, which had been ditched just outside of Aberdeen, Md., about 35 miles from Baltimore. Hospital authorities yesterday reported his condition was "very much improved."

Harford County police, who previously posted a detail to guard Livingstone, announced Sunday that they were withdrawing from the case.

An Aberdeen policeman who discovered the couple in the car early Saturday reported that Livingstone had admitted strangling the girl, Shirley Will, of Baltimore.

Chief Inspector M. Joseph Wallace of the Baltimore Police, said the youth would be returned to Baltimore with detectives as soon as he is able to travel.

Senate Unit to Probe 'Budgetary Abuses'

Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said last night he will appoint a subcommittee to investigate "budgetary abuses" in the Federal Government.

He said there had been widespread indications of over-expenditures and of the transfer of funds from one department to another without authorization.

The committee "will check several leads" that indicate Federal agencies deliberately are requesting funds for one purpose while intending that they be spent for another, he said.

Oil Profits In First Half To Top Billion

New York, Aug. 2 (U.P.)—Net profits of the oil industry for the first half of the 1948 will top one billion dollars, highest half-year earnings in the industry's history and approximately 82 per cent higher than in the first half of last year, a study by the United Press of the semiannual reports of the Nation's leading oil companies revealed today.

Twenty-seven leading oil companies already have reported net earnings of $776,307,740 for the initial half of this year, an increase of $348,203,219, or 82 per cent, over the $428,104,521 reported for the first half of 1947.

Seven other oil firms, including the Texas company whose earnings in the first half of 1947 were second only to those of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), earned a net of $130,831,807 in the open-six months of 1947 but have not yet reported 1948 half year income. If the rate of improvement shown by the 27 reporting companies carries through to the other seven, their net income for the half year will approximate $238,-112,000.

Percentage improvements ranged all the way from 206 per cent for Superior Oil Co. (California) to 28 per cent for Deep Rock Oil Corp. Eleven of the 27 reporting firms more than doubled their earnings of the 1947 half while 15 showed improvements of 90 per cent or more.

Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), the largest industrial organization in the country, maintained its position of preeminence in the opening half, topping not only all the oil companies in earnings but every other industrial organization as well.

Charles Wins 2d Delay Despite Okay by Doctors

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

JAKE MINTZ was suspecting the worst as the three good men and true of the District Boxing Commission's medical staff inquired into the health of his heavyweight tiger, Ezzard Charles, with a prodding finger here, a thump on the chest there and three professional looks at his throat, teeth and reflexes.

POVICH

It was all the result of what you might call a Mintz beef, which the District Boxing Commission suspected was also a show of Mintz ham. He was squawking that his fighter couldn't go through with the Jimmy Bivins show at Griffith Stadium on Monday. "Oh, his aching back," Manager Jake had said.

The worst that Mintz was fearing was not Charles' aching back, if any, but the doctors' decision that his tiger was o.k. He was only remotely hopeful that the medics would discover something awfully wrong with Charles and permit him to call the fight off.

Would Charles go through with the fight if the doctors pronounced him fit, Mintz was asked. "If they say fight, we'll fight," said Mintz. "I respect these Washington doctors. They're all honest men."

THE DOCTOR'S decision was reserved for the hearing at the Boxing Commission offices an hour later. Mintz's worst fears were realized—his man was o.k. Jake back-tracked neatly, made a complete pivot, moved into position with both feet on the floor and from an upright stance led with his tonsils. "Gentlemen, we're not going to fight on August 9," he said.

They couldn't do this to his tiger, Mintz declaimed. He knew all about doctors, he said. Some cases were hard to diagnose. "They can't tell my fighter he's feeling well when he's not. You can't make us fight a bad fight. My man ain't in shape. He can't go three rounds with Bivins. I'm going to protect the public and my fighter from a bad fight."

In the face of Commission Chairman Heinie Miller, dedicated to backing up his doctors, there was the unmistakable look of suspension for Charles in the nearly 40 States of the N. B. A. and England. Mintz recognized it and said, "My man has done a lot for boxing and Uncle Sam. We don't want to be suspended. "Miller looked toward Attorney Charles Ford, representing the Variety Club and Promoter Florence Turner. They succored Mintz with the announcement they would confer among themselves.

THE VARIETY CLUB came back with certain conditions. A $10,000 bond that Charles would agree to show up for a Bivins fight on the new date of September 13. "That's out," countered Mintz, "we don't have that kind of money." A $2500 bond was plenty, he suggested. Ford suggested it wasn't He countered with the idea of a $5000 bond. Mintz buzzed his comanager, Gene Elkus, and said that was all right.

"And a $2500 reimbursement for Bivins for the training expenses he has undergone," said Ford. At that mention of Bivins' name plus $2500, Mintz rebelled loudly. "Nothing for Bivins. Not a nickel. We won't give him a dime. We don't owe him a cent," screamed Jake, overlooking the quarter and half-dollar coinages. "Bivins owes us money."

Anyway, they finally came to terms. Charles to fight Bivins on September 13, and post a $5000 forfeit, agreeing to accept no other match until that one was fulfilled. The commission was happy, the Variety Club was happy, the doctors' reactions are uncertain, and Mintz said he was happy even if it cost him the big fight with Joe Walcott in New York on September 22.

"THINGS LIKE this happen," said Mintz with a show of easy philosophy, and then he groaned, "but why do they always happen to me." Just for trying to do the right thing, he gets into trouble, he said. "I'm trying to protect my fighter and save it from being a bad show and I get blamed for trying to take a run-out. Like the time we fought in Chicago for nothing."

He was talking about the Chicago fight he put Charles in for after the death of Sam Baroudi who was carried out unconscious during a fight with Charles. "We can make plenty of money after that fight, but I want to do a nice thing and fight a benefit for Baroudi's folks. We've just turned down a $17,500 guarantee to fight Elmer Ray, to fight this benefit in Chicago.

"We tell the Chicago people we'll fight anybody they dig up for us, and who do they pick but Elmer Ray. So for nothing we're fighting the guy we said we wouldn't fight because a $17,500 guarantee is too small. We win, but why does it always have to happen to us?" asked Mr. Mintz appealingly.

Grut Holds Pentathlon Lead By Taking Fifth in Pistols

Bisley, England, Aug. 2 (AP).—Capt. W. O. G. Grut of the Swedish army, extended his lead over competitors from 17 nations today in the Olympics' modern pentathlon by finishing fifth in pistol shooting—third of the five-sport event.

Grut, who won first in riding and tied for first in fencing, has seven points at the conclusion of the three events. Tomorrow the competitors must run 4000 meters cross country.

Maj. G. B. Moore of the United States Army, and who lives at 209 Elm St., Chevy Chase, Md. is second to Grut with 26 points. The contestant with the low score wins, as in golf.

Thomas' Term Extended

Lewis (Knocky) Thomas' term as general manager of the Touchdown Club, slated to expire October 1, has been extended to October 1, 1950, Club President Les Arries announced yesterday.

Peruvian Wins Shoot; Arlington Entry 13th

Bisley, England, Aug. 2 (AP).—Peruvian sharpshooter, E. Vasquez Cam, scored 545 points out of a possible 600 today to win the Olympics 50 meter (54.68 yards) free pistol event.

Second among the American entries and thirteenth in the field was Walter R. Walsh of Arlington, Va., with 525 points.

Whitfield, Guinn Smith Take Titles

shattered the Olympic record with a toss of 173 feet 2 inches, and so did his teammate, Giuseppe Tosi, with 169 feet 10½ inches.

Fortune Gordien of the University of Minnesota grabbed third place at 166 feet 7 inches, which also bettered the Olympic mark of 165 feet 7½ inches set by Ken Carpenter of the United States at Berlin. The two other American entries, Victor Frank and Bill Burton, fell far short of their best and failed even to qualify for the final throw-off.

Uncle Sam's aquatic forces also suffered a couple of setbacks, one of them as the result of an accident.

Miller Anderson of Ohio State was injured in an exhibition dive, dimming American chances for a sweep in the men's diving championships.

Anderson finished second to Bruce Harlan as the United States took the top three places in the springboard diving Saturday, but no such sweep will be possible in the tower diving starting Wednesday unless he recovers by that time.

Ann Curtis of San Francisco could place no better than second in the women's 100-meter freestyle swimming final, won by Greta Anderson of Denmark in 1:06.3.

America's trio of women divers were leading the parade at the halfway mark in the springboard competition.

U. S. Swimming Coach Bob Kiphuth pulled a sleeper by using his second-stringers to qualify for the finals of the men's 800-meter relay tomorrow night, while the top quartet rested.

The U. S. basketball team racked up its second triumph, beating Czechoslovakia, the best in Europe, 53-28.

Our Sprinters Qualify

Three American sprinters, Mel Patton, Barney Ewell and Cliff Bourland, packed themselves into the field of 12 qualifiers for the semifinal of the 200 meters. One of them should win tomorrow's final, though Herb McKenley, the noted collegian running for Jamaica, will be a threat.

Bourland raced his two heats in 21.3 seconds, as did McKenley, who beat Ewell rather handily in their second-round meeting. Patton loafed to an easy win in 21.6 in his opening heat, and then sped a fast 21.4 in the second round.

Whitfield's fine victory in the 800 gave him the first leg on what he hopes to turn into a classic double by winning the 400., which begins on Wednesday. No athlete ever has won the two Olympic events, and Mel Sheppard, 1908, was the only previous American even to qualify for both.

The sergeant's time on today's sloppy track bettered the record of 1:49.8 that had stood since Hampson set it in the Los Angeles games. Wint's 1:49.5 also was under the old mark, and Marcel Hansenne of France equalled it in taking third place.

Whitfield ran a beautifully timed race. He laid back for the first of the two laps while Hansenne, Wint and John Parlett of Britain set the pace.

Lowly Cincy Turns Back Braves, 3-1

Boston, Aug. 2 (AP).—The lowly Cincinnati Reds made the most of their opportunities tonight and imposed a 3-1 defeat on the National League leading Boston Braves who flubbed most of their opportunities against the veteran lefthanded Johnny Vander Meer. The Tribe stranded a dozen base runers.

Schmitz Beats Bums 5th Time, 4-2, in 11th

Brooklyn, Aug. 2 (AP).—Chicago's Johnny Schmitz maintained his jinx over Brooklyn today as he whipped the Dodgers for the fifth time this year, 4-2, in 11 innings.

Usually all the Windy City flinger has to do is throw in his glove and the Brooks play dead. Today they made him work, but Eddie Waitkus took care of things in the eleventh with a double that drove in Schmitz himself with what proved to be the winning run. Andy Pafko drove in the insurance run with a fly out.

Browns Knock Out Hudson to Beat Nats, 7-5

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

St. Louis, Aug. 2.—The Nats took another step in the wrong direction tonight.

By losing to the Browns, 7-5, the Griffs find themselves only three games out of seventh place, currently occupied by the Browns.

Sid Hudson was the victim of the Browns' triumph, being tagged with his eleventh defeat. After retiring the first six men in order, Hudson was jolted for a run in the third inning and was batted out in the next inning when the Browns scored three more times.

The Missourians got their final three runs off Dick Welteroth in the fifth inning to present Bill Kennedy, their wild lefthander, a 7-0 lead.

Kennedy, who walked eight, tossed away four runs in the sixth on three walks and two hits and was yanked in favor of Joe Ostrowski who yielded the final Nat tally in the seventh.

Kennedy helped his own cause by singling with the bases loaded to drive in two of the Browns' three runs in the fourth.

In the fifth, it was Pellagrini who came through with another two-run single in the Browns' other three-run splurge.

The Nats had one big inning, the sixth, when they scored four runs. Christman, Vernon and Yost walked. Okrie's single scored Christman. Ostrewski replaced Kennedy and Gillenwater, batting for Walteroth, popped out. Kozar singled Vernon and Yost home. Okrie taking third. Wooten's fly scored Okrie.

Redskins Sign Eddie Saenz

Los Angeles, Aug. 2.—Washington's stock rose sharply on the moleskin market today when Eddie Saenz, holdout halfback, came to terms.

Hogan's 64 Beats Oliver, Sets Record

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., set a course record of 33-31—64, eight under par, to defeat Ed Oliver of Seattle by 9 strokes in their 18-hole playoff for the forty-fifth Western Open golf championship at Brookfield Country Club today.

Hogan, who tied at 281 with Oliver over the regular 72 hole test, thus became the first man in history to win the National Open, the USGA, and the Western open championships the same year.

In tearing two strokes off the former course record of 66, Hogan had six birdies and an eagle and missed par only once as he handed Oliver one of the most one-sided defeats ever recorded in a big-time tournament.

Oliver was only one over par for the 18 holes and at the end of three holes was a stroke ahead. But after that, he never had a chance against bantam Ben.

Hogan was four-up at the end of the front nine and didn't give Oliver a breather from there in.

Navy Netmen Win Leech Title

Navy's tennis team captured the Leech Cup and the Armed Forces championship yesterday by defeating defending champion Army, 6—1, on the Army-Navy Country Club courts.

Army Singles Champion Lieut. Frank Mehner gave the losers their only point when he whipped Navy Singles Champion Lieut. K. K. Jones, 6—2, 6—3.

Most exciting match of the day was the Navy doubles victory of Lieut. Elston Wyatt and Ensign J.H. Doyle over Mehner and Lieut. Warren Drake, 2—6, 8—6, 6—0.

He Agrees To Oppose Bivins Here On Sept. 13

Heavyweight Ezzard Charles lost an early-afternoon decision to the three examining doctors of the District Boxing Commission yesterday but carried the battle to the Commission offices and won a point. He was granted postponement until September 13 of his Jimmy Bivins fight at Griffith Stadium.

In hectic proceedings before the Commission, high lighted by the shouted denials of Jake Mintz, Charles' manager, that they were trying to run out of the fight, the new date was agreed on by the Commission, Mintz and the Variety Club, sponsor of the bout.

For 10 minutes, Charles was a suspended fighter, barred from bouts in nearly 40 States affiliated with the National Boxing Association, after Mintz declared he would not go through with the fight next Monday despite the doctors' report he was physically fit.

Must Fight Here First

He was restored to good standing when Mintz agreed to a new contract for the Bivins fight and accepted conditions demanded by Charles Ford, attorney for the Variety Club.

The conditions are (1) the posting of a $5000 forfeit by Mintz which will accrue to the Variety Club if Charles does not go through with the September 13 fight and (2) agreement by Mintz that Charles will accept no other fight until the Bivins contract is fulfilled.

An original demand of a $10,000 forfeit by Ford was loudly vetoed by Mintz who declared "we don't have that kind of money." The figure of $5000 was a compromise on Mintz's original plea for a $2500 forfeit.

Ford attempted also to force Charles' manager to reimburse Bivins for training expenses incurred to the amount of $2500, but Mintz flatly refused to consider that item.

Don't Owe Bivins a Dime

"We won't pay Bivins a dime for training expenses or anything else," shouted Mintz. "He ran out on a fight with us in Pittsburgh in 1946 and we didn't ask anything. I don't owe Bivins a cent. He owes me money. We'll give him nothing."

Mintz insisted that Bivins also post a $5000 forfeit. This was agreed to by Leonard Shane, manager of Bivins.

Only an hour after he had told newsmen he would abide by the doctors' report, Mintz leaped from his chair at the Commission hearing to declare "We won't go through with the fight on August 9."

Mintz declared that other doctors had found Charles' ailment difficult to diagnose and pointed out that he was protecting "both my fighter, the public and the Commission, which would not want to be party to a bad fight."

Mintz admitted that he had received contracts from the Twentieth Century Sporting Club of New York asking him to sign for a fight with Joe Walcott on September 22. He pointed out that he was risking the loss of a chance at the heavyweight title by accepting the fight here on September 13.

Thackara Loses

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP). Jim Thackara, former Washington, D. C., tennis champion, was eliminated in the first round of the Meadow Club's fifty-eighth annual Grass Court Tournament. Sam Match of San Francisco, doled out the defeat, 6—2, 6—4.

Specialists Differ on Alpine Boy

Baltimore, Aug. 2 (AP).—The State Racing Commission found at a hearing today that 12-year-old Alpine Boy is too blind to race in Maryland but assessed no blame for an accident in which he killed a jockey.

The three-man commission said there is "a reasonable difference of opinion" on whether the gelding was too blind to run in the fourth race at Fairgo Racetrack near Cumberland, Md., July 24.

Alpine Boy bolted through the fence about 40 yards out of the gate and pitched Jockey Benny Leggett over his head.

Veterinarians Testify

The 22-year-old rider from Gaithersburg, Md., was on his feet in half an hour but collapsed again and died in a Cumberland Hospital the next day.

The veterinarians at the hearing acknowledged Alpine Boy is totally blind in the right eye and has a small cataract and "periodic ophthalmalia" in the left but agreed he was fit to run.

Dr. Mason Weadon, Washington veterinarian who has specialized on eye troubles for at least 10 years, said Alpine Boy has only 10 to 20 per cent vision in the left eye.

"By this scientific data," he said, "it is amazing that Alpine Boy gets around.

"He has none of the symptoms, none of the actions of a blind horse. You know how a blind horse keeps his head out, kind of sniffing his way along? Alpine Boy doesn't do that."

After he was barred by the veterinarian at Charles Town, W. Va., in 1947, Alpine Boy ran in 11 races at Laurel, Timonium, Bel Air, Delaware Park and Atlantic City. He won three times, was second five times, and third once—out of the money only twice.

Bogley Takes Junior Match

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 2 (AP).—Gil Bogley former National Boys tennis champion from Washington, D. C., breezed to a 6—1, 6—0, victory over James Bentley of Toronto in the second round of the National junior tournament today. Bogley drew a first round bye.

Two other Washingtonians advanced. Ed Wesley, runner-up to Bogley for the Washington schoolboy title, defeated Don Ewald of Louisville, 6—3, 6—0.

And Jerry Thomas, former Woodrow Wilson High star, now a member of Princeton University's team, downed Charles Atherton of Columbus, Ohio, 9—7, 6—0.

Ray Lewis, a teammate of Bogley's at Landon school in Bethesda, Md., was eliminated in the second round, 6—1 6—1, by Herbert Karren of San Antonio. Lewis drew a first round bye.

Later results:

Juniors' second round—Jack Yates, Washington, D. C., defeated James Foster, Hamden, Conn., 6—3, 6—2; Edwin Wesely, Washington, D. C., defeated Benny Sobieraj, St. Louis, 6—3, 6—2; Gerry Thomas, Washington, D. C., defeated Keith Self, Samesa, Calif., 6—2, 6—3.

Boys' first round—Ted Rogers, Washington, D. C., defeated Bill Bowen, Cincinnati, 6—0, 6—2; Tim Coss, Washington, D. C., defeated Ken Angyal, Hamtramck, Mich., 6—2, 6—1; Tony Bradford, Washington, D. C., defeated Alharum, Jr., Coral Gables, Fla., 6—3, 7—5.

Torrid July Here Was Just 'Normal'

Even as sweltering Washingtonians panted through last month's heat, the weatherman was calmly compiling his day-by-day records. Yesterday that gentleman coolly reported:

"Nothing unusual about July." And then he hauled out that old standby—"Normal."

When the thermometer bubbles up to and over 90 degrees on 12 days, as it did last month, it is only what you can expect in any July, he observed. Ditto for the 17 nights when it got no cooler than the 70's.

He did admit that the average high temperature for the month—78.4 degrees—was fairly cool when stacked up against the hottest July on record. That was in 1872, when the daily high averaged 81.1 degrees.

Warmest day last month was the 5th, with 95; nothing to write home about when compared with the record 106 on July 20, 1930, the weatherman said. Last month's low was 58 degrees on the 9th.

He pointed out that July of 1947 had almost the same extremes of temperature: 95 degrees hot on the 30th; 56 degrees cool on the 24th.

Rainfall came to a total of 3.63 inches, which is 1.08 inches below a typical July's 4.71. While more than an inch fell on only one day (1.79 on July 14), there were 16 days in the month when at least a trace was recorded.

Washington weather was also undistinguished in the matter of wind. As with most Julys, the prevailing direction was southwest and the average was 5.9 miles an hour. It blew the hardest on July 6, when observers clocked it at 24 miles an hour out of the north.

Accompanying the heat was 334 hours of sunshine. That means, reported the weatherman, that the sun shone 74 per cent of the possible sunshine hours. "Just about as expected," he said.

AFL Wins Store Election After CIO Is Disqualified

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Employes of the Oppenheim Collins Department store voted today for the AFL Retail Clerk's Association as their bargaining agent. But a CIO union will dispute the election in federal court tomorrow.

The court action centers on a show cause order issued by Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today to the National Relations Board.

The court order directs the NLRB to show cause why it should not be restrained from issuing certification of the collective bargaining election conducted by the NLRB. The AFL union was the only bargaining agent listed on the ballots.

The NLRB ruled the CIO local from the election because its officers have refused to sign non-Communist affidavits required by the Taft-Hartley law.

Heat-Humidity Get-Off-Work Policy Decided

District Government workers who've been wondering how hot you have to get before you can get off work got their answer yesterday.

According to a new policy now adopted both by the District Commissioners and the Federal Government, it has to get to 90 degrees Fahrenheit or more with a humidity of 70 per cent or more before it's hot enough to quit work for the Government.

Even then, it is up to the supervisor in such cases to check with other supervisors to be sure that they agree that the weather warrants dismissals.

That 90-degree temperature and the 70 per cent humidity work out to an "effective temperature"—of 85 per cent—the point at which most people become uncomfortable, according to the Weather Bureau.

An 85-per-cent effective temperature is also reached in the following combinations: 92 degrees and 65 per cent humidity; 93 and 60; 94 and 55; 95 and 50; 96 and 45; 97 and 45; 98 and 40; 99 and 40; and 100 and 35.

These cut-off points for work stoppages in heat waves do not apply to workers, either Federal or District, in air conditioned buildings, who have to go on about their duties regardless of how the thermometer goes.

The policy also does not apply to "employes in quarters reasonably well adapted to hot weather" who should remain at work "even though they are experiencing discomfort."

United Air Lines Files Reduced Freight Rates

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP).—United Air Lines today filed new commodity air freight rates, reducing charges in some instances in line with a recent Civil Aeronautics Board decision.

The new tariffs, effective August 7, reduce rates on drugs and biologicals, fresh fruits and fresh sea food by 25 per cent and on cosmetics and toilet preparations, nursery stock and fresh vegetables by about 30 per cent.

The rates affect goods moved from Los Angeles and San Francisco to Chicago and seven other Midwestern and Eastern points.

Glen Taylor's Brother Offers for Congress

San Mateo, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP).—The brother of Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, Henry Wallace's Third Party running mate, also expects to get on the Progressive Party ticket in California this fall.

Paul Taylor, a railroad engineer of San Jose, announced he would oppose Representative John Z. (Jack) Anderson, Republican incumbent in the Eighth California District.

Anderson won nomination on both Republican and Democratic tickets under California's primary cross-filing law.

Bathless Tenants Sue Tub-Sleeping Landlady

Los Angeles, Aug. 2 (AP).—Nine rooming house tenants who claim they need a bath, filed suit today because, they alleged, their landlady insisted on sleeping in the tub.

The Superior Court complaint, asking $50,000 damages, charged also the landlady, Mrs. June Gilbert, levied rents in excess of OPA ceilings in addition to sleeping in the porcelain bedstead when they wanted to perform their ablutions.

52 Feared Lost On Giant Plane

Dakar, French West Africa, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—There was little hope tonight of finding alive any of the 52 persons aboard a gigantic Air France flying boat missing since early Sunday in the South Atlantic.

An intensive all-day air and surface search 800 to 900 miles northwest of the Cape Verde Islands, from where the plane last was heard, ended in failure.

(In Paris, an Air France spokesman reported there was no news from the vast search fleet. The company still refused to disclose the names of the 40 passengers and 12 crew members.)

The plane, a six-engined Latecoere 631 with a wingspread of 186 feet and cabins on two decks, was on a flight from Fort de France, Martinique, to Port Etienne, north of Dakar.

Air France tonight grounded all planes of the type which is missing.

Bolivia Rail Strike

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 2 (AP).—Railway workers throughout Bolivia struck today for higher pay. Trains are not running.

OFFICIAL PIANO OF THE METROPOLITAN OPERA
an honored name the world over
The music of the Knabe is as outstanding as the music of the Metropolitan Opera, where it is the official piano. Metropolitan artists are enthusiastic about the rare beauty of the Knabe's tone, which makes an ideal accompaniment for their own rich voices. You will enthuse, too, when you hear the Knabe and recognize the unmistakable superiority of its performance. In lovely homes, as on the concert stage, the quality of the Knabe is a constant delight.

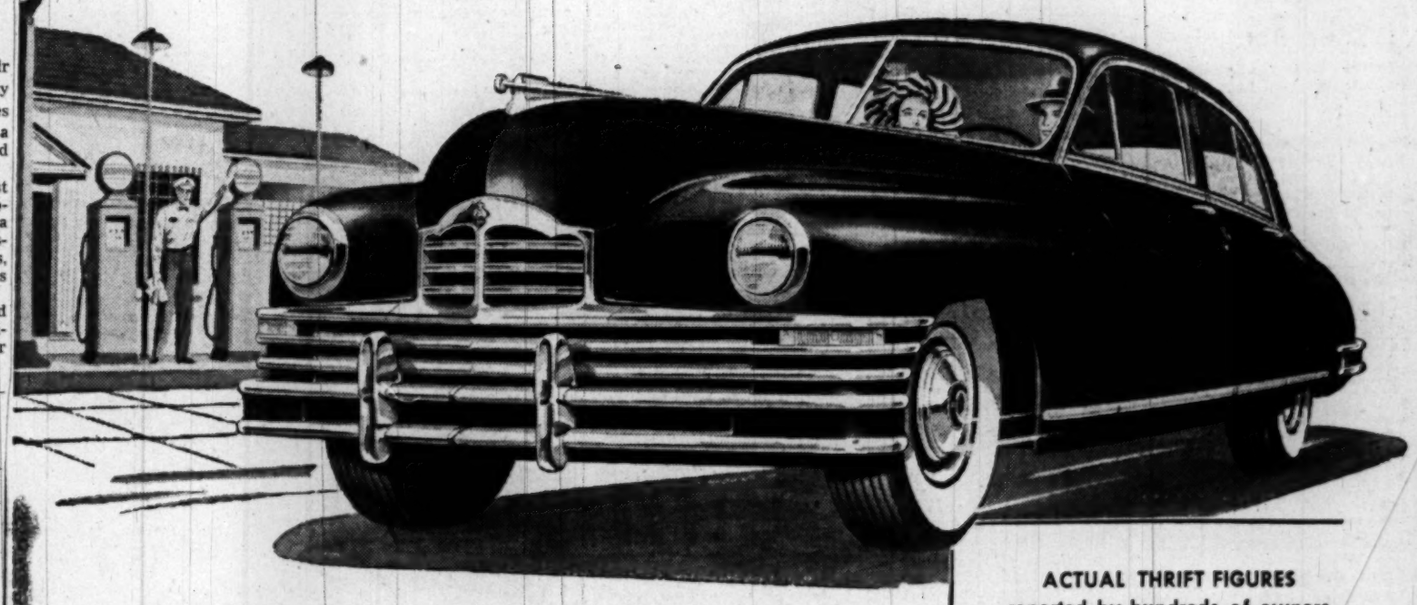
"Free-breathing" gas miser!


Come in . . . learn the secret of Packard's spectacular new economy!
The power story you'll hear, in a Packard showroom, is something that wasn't developed in just a matter of months . . .
It started 'way back, during wartime—when Packard powered all the famed PT boats . . . and America's fastest, highest-flying planes.
Out of this exacting, precision power experience came new concepts of "free-breathing" engine design for modern motor cars. New ideas about valve design, improved carburetion and manifolding, higher compression ratios.
Today, in the husky new Packard Eights, "free-breathing" design delights you with extra smoothness at all speeds . . . thrills you with a new kind of instant-responsive reserve power for "safety-sprint" acceleration.
Most important of all—"free-breathing" design is the secret of Packard's amazing new gains in gasoline economy.
It all adds up to the power story of the year—well worth an early hearing at your nearest Packard showroom!

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Kluttz

Hoover Board, Other Groups to Urge Federal Decentralization

Decentralization is a word you'll be hearing a lot about for the next year. And it's something that could affect the lives of a lot of people in this Capital city. Here's why:

Several important groups are sure to recommend that additional Federal agencies in this city be transferred elsewhere—that they be decentralized.

It's supposed to be a secret, but it's reported on good authority that the Hoover Commission will soon get a preliminary report which will strongly urge a widespread decentralization of Federal activities.

Also, former President Herbert Hoover, who is chairman of the commission which is studying Government reorganization, has placed himself on record in favor of greater dispersion of Government agencies. In other words, it seems certain his commission will support the plan in reports to the President and the Congress.

In addition, the National Security Resources Board and the military agencies are studying decentralization as possible defense measures.

Any large-scale decentralization plan would take months to complete. Office space and housing simply isn't available in any city of moderate size. So, everyone would have plenty of advance notice of any move that is ordered.

AF: Clarence Osthagen, assistant personnel director of Federal Works, is joining Air Forces as special assistant on personnel . . . NAVY: It has refused to give its civilian teachers at the Naval Academy the $330 pay raise most other employes have received. The department has full power to order the increase . . . AGRICULTURE: A small lay-off is to be made soon in its Production and Marketing Administration.

LABOR: Insiders say that the President is waiting on A. F. Whitney to recommend, or approve, a man to be Labor Secretary. Whitney is head of the railway trainmen and the one big labor leader who has come out for Truman's reelection. It's also reported that the Administration has asked Whitney to be chairman of the labor committee of the Democratic National Committee, a post which Dan Tobin has occupied for years. Yes, Whitney is the same person who once threatened to spend millions to defeat Truman.

CLERKS: Civil Service has an exam open for CAF-5 and 6 clerks for appointments in nearby-by States. The test has 17 different options. It closes on August 5. It will be used to fill middle-grade jobs in Federal agencies in Virginia (except Arlington and Alexandria), Maryland (except Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties), North Carolina and West Virginia. Persons from those States can get full details at the Fourth Civil Service Regional Office here.

NOTES: The Administration has just about decided not to fill the post of Civil Service commissioner which Arthur S. Flemming will vacate on September 1 . . . Milton Murray will speak at an open meeting of CIO's new Government Workers Union tomorrow night in Room 105 of the Archives Building. A former president of the Newspaper Guild, Murray is an outspoken anti-Communist . . . Census employes who have been given cash awards for worthy suggestions are: Katherine M. Carroll, Jack Seymour, Betty Barrett, William H. Bennett, Bertha Circey, William S. Feery, Edda Dale Kinney, Bella Sanders, Gartha Fay Thornhill and Joseph Wheeler.

RECORD: Government payrolls in this country have reached an all-time high.

The Civil Service Assembly reports that the monthly payroll of Federal, State, and local governments was $1,228,500,000 in April, well above the previous high of $1,139,800,000 of three years ago. In 1945, incidentally, there were 800,000 more public employes than there were in April. However, increased salaries have shot up payroll costs.

The assembly estimates there are 5,948,000 public employes in this country, a drop of 12 per cent below the wartime high, but 16 per cent above the postwar low of 5,132,000 recorded just a year ago.

Localities employ over 50 per cent, or 3,002,000 of the public employes. The Federal Government is now down to 46.6 per cent.

But payroll costs will continue to raise to new high peaks. Uncle Sam and many States and cities have recently given their employes another round of pay raises to offset part of the soaring living costs.

D. C. Boosts Of $500, $330 Urged

Bill Senator Plans To Submit Today Gives Teachers Higher Increase

District teachers would be given a $500 raise and other municipal employes a $330 hike, in the latest of the Capitol Hill moves to boost the salaries of some 17,000 Government employes.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) disclosed yesterday he has written the new pay-raise bill for introduction in the Senate today. Johnston said the bill would be backed by Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.).

It was Johnston who killed off a $330 pay raise for District municipal workers with a filibuster against the sales tax which was to have financed the salary increases. Johnston at the time declared he was for the pay raise, but against the sales tax. His bill would meet the extra cost of local government through a Federal loan.

Johnston's bill is similar to that of Representative Everett Dirksen (R., Ill.), who would give local teachers a $200-a-year increase, $330 to all other municipal employes, and finance the measure with a $5,800 000 noninterest loan by Uncle Sam.

Representative Dirksen, who is chairman of the House District Committee, had called a meeting of his group for this morning, but canceled the session without explanation. Instead Dirksen conferred with Senator Harry Cain (R., Wash.), who advocates the sales tax and is opposed to financing the pay raises with a Federal loan. Later, Cain conferred with Senator Robert Taft (R., Ohio) but there was no new word forthcoming on the possibilities of the Republican leadership taking positive action on the local pay bill.

Meanwhile, on the House side, Representative Aime J. Forand (D., R. I.) tossed a bill into the hopper granting all municipal employes $330 a year increase in pay retroactive to July 1. Similar bills have been introduced in the House by Representative Edward H. Rees (R., Kans.) and in the Senate by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor (D., Md.).

2 Senators Plan to Seek Postal Pay Increases

Legislation to increase the pay of most postoffice workers $350 a year and to set up a 35-hour work week was introduced yesterday by Senators Langer (R., N. D.) and Johnston (D., S. C.).

Langer said in a statement he hopes the measures will be studied with the view of action early next year.

He said recent salary legislation did not provide adequate raises for postal employes.

The bill would provide 20 per cent extra, instead of the present 10 per cent, for night work. It also would provide an annual uniform allowance for letter carriers, who now buy their own uniforms.

Heavy Safe Stolen From Second Floor

A 500-pound safe was stolen sometime during the weekend by thieves, who dropped it from a second floor window of the McCarthy Decorating Co., 1109 K st. nw., and carried it away.

The safe contained about $800 in cash and gold leaf, being used for decorating at the Mayflower Hotel, valued at $600, Daniel McCarthy, owner of the company, told police.

Entry was gained by breaking a window in the rear door, police said. The sill of a window, through which the safe was apparently dropped, was scarred and the concrete in the alley below was cracked, McCarthy told police.

A small safe, containing about $100 in cash, was forced open with kitchen tools in the Merryland Club, 1405 L st. nw., early yesterday. Owner of the Club, Olivia Davis, told police thieves entered the club through a skylight.

Charles Cherry, a sexton of the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 1225 R st. nw., reported an attempt was made to open a safe in the office of the church early yesterday. Thieves entered through a skylight and ransacked the entire office but got nothing, police said.

County School Planner To Address Citizens

The District Heights Citizens Association, faced with a problem of crowded schools and the lack of any building plans, will hear Thomas S. Gwynn, director of school planning for Prince Georges County, discuss plans for the District Heights schools at its regular meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The association will meet in the firehouse.

District Man's Body Recovered in Bay

Maryland State police yesterday recovered the body of Thomas Mackall, 28, of 208 54th st. se., who was drowned Saturday in St. Clement's Bay off Twilight Beach, St. Mary's County, Md.

Mackall was a World War II veteran and an employe of St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Board Favors New Oxon Run School Plans

The District Recreation Board yesterday concurred in a Board of Education proposal to build a new elementary school at the site of the Oxon Run Recreation Center.

The action was taken at a meeting of the board yesterday at 3149 16th st. nw.

In addition, the board voted to authorize the National Capital Parks office to advertise for bids for the construction of shelter buildings at Kalorama playground, Fort Greble playground, Watts Branch playground and Ridge playground.

In another action, the board decided to ask the recreation division of United Community Services to survey the area near the Dennison School, S st., between 13th and 14th sts. nw., to determine recreational needs. The board will also seek to determine if buildings adjacent to the school are fit for habitation. On the basis of the reports, the board may ask the District Commissioners to reconsider a past refusal to grant certain District properties in the area to the board for recreational purposes, a spokesman said.

In a closed session, board members took under consideration a request from District Commissioners to revise 1950 budget estimates.

Death of Baby, Father in Fire Held Accidental

Prince Georges County Medical Examiner John T. Maloney yesterday ruled as accidental the deaths of Sylvester Hester, 51, of Glen Arden, Md., and his infant son, Cephus, who were burned to death when fire razed the Hester bungalow early Sunday.

Hester, who saved his wife and five other children from the blaze about 4:30 a. m., died of burns at Gallinger Hospital about six hours later.

The 9-month-old boy apparently was overlooked as the father repeatedly ran back into the flames to save his family. The fire was started by lightning.

His wife, Mrs. Marian Hester, 42, and a daughter, Elizabeth Hester, 2, were treated for burns at Gallinger.

Funeral services for father and son will be held Thursday at 1 p. m., at the L. E. Murray & Sons funeral home, 1337 10th st. nw. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Farm Boys and Girls Gather For Maryland 4-H Club Week

It's no problem these days keeping 'em down on the farm, judging from 4-H Clubbers like 14-year-old Mary Louise Young of Middletown, Md.

"I am a farmer's daughter and for 13 years of my life I lived on a 260-acre farm," says Mary Louise. "Last fall my family moved to town, but even though I live in the town I still love the farm," she continues in an autobiography that accompanies her entry in the girls' sewing competition at Maryland University.

"Last summer when we lived on the farm, my two sisters and I kept house the whole summer. We cooked for 15 harvest hands, helped milk 40 cows, and worked in the fields."

"We canned 100 quarts of vegetables, 80 quarts of fruit, and filled 18 cubic feet of locker space with fruits and vegetables. It was a great experience," says Mary Louise who won a 1947 food-freezing demonstration contest.

A 4-H Clubber for 5½ years, Mary Louise also is a Grange member, assistant organist in the Evangelical Brethren Church, and a Sunday school teacher.

Mary Louise, who has finished eight dresses this year, entered a blue and white polka-dot that cost $4.61 in the home sewing competition.

She is one of 1100 farm boys and girls, from 12 to 20-plus, participating in the State-wide Maryland 4-H Club Week, which began yesterday on the Maryland University campus.

The farm youngsters will be brought up to date on the latest advances in farming, home management, and food conservation techniques during the week-long meeting at College Park, sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service.

Girls will compete for State titles in food, sewing, and hobby exhibits. State winners will vie for Nation-wide championships at the National 4-H competition in Chicago next December.

The 4-H members were welcomed officially last night by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of Maryland University, and Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the College of Agriculture and head of the extension service.

Other events scheduled for the week include a "preview of progress," featuring miracles of science on Tuesday night; a tractor operators' contest Friday morning, and a 4-H fashion show Friday afternoon.

2 D. C. Men Jailed At Hyattsville

Two District men were charged with grand larceny of auto parts and held under $1000 bond each at the Hyattsville jail yesterday.

Turned over to Prince Georges County Police at Hyattsville yesterday by District police were James Jesse Smith, 27, of 1773 Stanton ter. se., and Alfred Brown, jr., 25, of 1537 9th st. nw.

The men were arrested after William A. Cleveland, owner of a lot at 905 Eastern ave., Fairmont Heights, Md., saw two men remove the parts from his property and chased them as far as he could before calling District police.

The men will appear in Hyattsville Police Court for a hearing Thursday.

Hyattsville Council Given Alternate Plan For Street Improvement; Opposes Press Gag

The Hyattsville City Council last night heard an alternate proposal to the plan for improvement of Hamilton st. and 40th pl.

The new plan was set forth by Nicholas Orem, jr., council attorney. He said it would cost considerably less than the estimated $1,300,000 cost of the original proposal.

The initial plan proposed by the advisory committee to the County Commissioners called for the improvement and extension of Hamilton st. and 40th pl. from Queens Chapel rd. to Rhode Island ave.

Orem's alternate route would leave Hamilton st. slightly east of 38th ave., bear south in a gradual curve along the old Washington-Gettysburg railroad right-of-way, pass to the west and south of the ball diamond in Magruder Park, Hyattsville, then skirt a residential section on Buchanan st., and meet Rhode Island ave. at a point between the Northwest Branch of the Anacostia and old Dewey st.

Orem proposed that the thoroughfare be an ordinary 2-lane highway, 30 feet wide. The attorney said his plan would not require acquiring rights of way since most of the land involved is owned by either Hyattsville or the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

At the conclusion of Orem's oral proposal, the councilmen decided to make an inspection tour of the proposed route Sunday shortly after noon.

In other moves, the council unanimously approved a resolution proposed by Councilman Frederick N. Coxen opposing the press "gag" in Rule 9 in proposed new rules for Maryland Courts. Among other restrictions, the rule would forbid newspapers to print statements of persons involved in criminal cases.

The council also heard a report from Orem that the old Hyatt mansion now occupied by some 40 roomers had been posted with notices that the place is not safe for habitation. Warrants will be issued for those who have not left the mansion within 10 days, Orem said.

The council will hold a special meeting August 9 to inspect samples of parking meters proposed for business area in the community.

4 New Polio Cases Hike Total to 33

Child and Woman Stricken in D. C.; Count of Virginia Victims Increases

Two new cases of polio in Washington and two in the Greater Washington area were reported to the Health Department yesterday.

The new cases bring the total of resident cases to 14, and the number of out-of-town cases to 19. Last year at this time there were three District cases and six from the area.

Cases which the Health Department reported yesterday were a 1-year-old girl who lives in the 3800 block of Porter st. nw. and is being treated at Children's Hospital; a 21-year-old woman who lives in the 1200 block of Mount Olivet rd. ne., at Gallinger Hospital; a 12-year-old girl who lives on Route 1, Alexandria, at Children's, and a 14-year-old boy from Rockville, Md., at Gallinger.

Virginia's 1948 polio total jumped to 113 yesterday with 11 additional cases reported to the State Health Department. The new cases were one in Pittsylvania, one in Northumberland, two in Culpeper, one in Chesterfield, one in Buckingham, one in Patrick, one in Roanoke, one in Grayson, one in Stafford and one in Hanover Counties.

In North Carolina, the epidemic reached 1124 cases yesterday, with 29 new victims reported to the State Board of Health. They brought the State total for July to 709. Sixty-one deaths have occurred in North Carolina's second major outbreak in five years, already the worst on record.

District Reports Two Tick Fever Victims

Two cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever among residents of the District of Columbia were reported by the Health Department yesterday.

One is that of a 56-year-old man, resident in the 3000 block of Cleveland ave. nw., under treatment at Doctors Hospital. The other is that of a 30-year-old woman who lives in the 3300 block of Tenth st. se. She was treated at her home when she became ill with the fever on July 12. Health Department officials say she since has recovered.

Last year at this time there were seven cases of the fever reported from Washington, and nine from the surrounding Maryland and Virginia area. This year there have been 11 out-of-town residents who have been reported ill with the fever.

27 Beauties To Compete In Semi-Finals

Twenty-seven out of 44 beauties competing in the Miss Greater Washington contest sponsored by Radio Station WWDC were chosen last night to enter the semifinals.

The semifinalists are: Doris Jean Armstrong, Sally Banks, Audrey Berry, Marijo Biondi, Barbara Browning, Dorothy Jane Burks, Frances R. Cameron, Mariam Carle, Jeanette Cunningham, Gloria Mae Doman, Marilyn Douglas, Mary Anne Farrior, Jacque Jacoby, Jeanne MacDonald, Eleanor M. Maddox, Betty Levia Madigan, Jo Mettee, Doris Annette Miller, Joann V. Miller, Joan Marie Nelson, Patricia A. Shadle, Betty Shinn, Delores C. Slade, Lois E. Slusser, Mary Ann Spiro, Marie O. Sweeney and Bobbie Jean Taylor.

The girls are to be divided in groups of nine for appearance at three local theaters, August 5, 12 and 19, before the finals at the Capitol Theater on August 23.

Miss Greater Washington will receive more than $4000 worth of prizes and will be sent to Atlantic City for the Miss America contest.

Woman, 35, Slain In Hotel Shooting; Another Is Held

A 35-year-old woman was shot to death in the Dunbar Hotel, 2015 15th st. nw., shortly after 5 p. m. yesterday.

A second woman, seized in the room holding a .38 caliber revolver from which five shots had been fired, was held by police pending action of the coroner.

The dead woman, registered as Hattie Hutchison Lavender, was found lying face down on the bedroom floor by Special Officer George W. Smith, who raced into the room after he heard a series of pistol shots. She was pronounced dead of two bullet wounds at Emergency Hospital.

Smith seized the second woman, Cloteil Cox, 37, and held her until arrival of police.

Parley to Air Montgomery School Dispute

Modern teaching methods versus the three R's will be fought out by Montgomery County parents and school officials at a series of conferences beginning today at 1:30 p. m. in Richard Montgomery High School at Rockville.

Slated to be well represented is an indignant parent group in Bethesda which has protested lack of emphasis on the fundamentals of education.

All parents who wish to air a grievance or make suggestions have been urged by the County Board of Education to attend. A similar session will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Rockville High School. Other conferences are scheduled for August 12, 13, 24 and 25.

The "W- -iop" this year will study pos- curriculum revisions and has been planned since last May, school officials said.

Virginians Pick 4 Congressional Nominees Today

Arlington County Board Candidate To Be Selected By Democrats

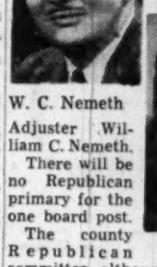
H. L. Schilz



W. C. Nemeth

A. E. Frisbie

There will be no Republican primary for the one board post.

The county Republican committee, although it backed the movement for today's GOP congressional primary, did not call for one at a county level this summer.

Frisbie is serving on the county board by appointment to the unexpired term of the late Lee Lloyd, who died last November 3. He is 37 years old and lives at 636 25th st. S., Arlington.

Schilz, active in Arlington civic circles, organized the "Progressive Democrats of Arlington" before the 1947 county primary and backed a slate of candidates for local and State office. He lives at 1504 S. Pollard st., is 42 years old.

Candidate Nemeth, 32, of 1419 N. Cleveland st., has no previous political experience.

In recent statements to the Arlington League of Women Voters, all three candidates agreed that the greatest problem facing the County Board in 1949 will be one of finances.

Incumbent Frisbie believes enactment of proposed Arlington business and auto license taxes is of paramount importance. Nemeth thinks it necessary to appoint a permanent tax assessor to reach "hitherto untapped sources of revenue."

Schilz feels a long-range financial plan, worked out by experts and submitted by referendum to Arlington voters, is necessary.

On Arlington's politically hot school issue, incumbent Frisbie, one of three board members to vote a $225,000 cut in the school budget this year, said the board is "obligated to constantly keep in mind the ability of the taxpayer to pay."

Nemeth feels the school budget should be supported "100 per cent" by the County Board, and Schilz thinks controversial school budgets should be referred to voters in a referendum.

Republican Contest In Eighth District; Robertson-Hart Fight Featured

Virginia voters will go to the polls in a State-wide primary today to pick a nominee for the Senate and three for the House.

An unprecedented two-party affair is scheduled for the Eighth District in Northern Virginia. Charles O. Pratt, of Arlington, and Tyrell Krum, of Vienna, House candidates, are pitted in the State Republican Party's first primary in history.

In the Democratic contest there, Representative Howard W. Smith, incumbent, of Alexandria, opposes Arthur F. Souther of Arlington.

Hart Opposes Robertson

Of State-wide interest is the selection of a Democratic nominee for the Senate seat now held by A. Willis Robertson, of Lexington. His opponent is James P. Hart, jr., Roanoke attorney.

Robert H. Woods of Pearisburg, State chairman of the Republican Party, was nominated April 10 in the convention at Roanoke as GOP candidate for the Senate.

In the Third District, Representative J. Vaughan Gary and State Senator James E. Gardner, both of Richmond, are candidates for the Democratic nomination.

A three-way race for the Democratic nomination for the House is posed in the Sixth District. Contestants are Mayor Clarence G. Burton, of Lynchburg, Delegate Ernest Robertson, of Salem, and Robert W. Menefee, of Roanoke.

Polls Open 13 Hours

The unusual Republican primary in the Eighth replacing the convention system which has prevailed since the GOP was formed in Virginia, is the result of a novel party decision last Spring.

Voting hours in the Arlington, Alexandria and Fairfax area will be 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Polling places will be the same for both parties in the Eighth, and a voter must request the ballot with the party label he desires.

In the Democratic race there, Souther has expressed his support of the national ticket and has attacked the State organization at length. Smith, one of the top men in the "machine's" inner circle, has kept his views to himself on the national picture.

Pratt to Provide Baby Sitters

Arlington Republican voters who may be saddled with family problems will find a baby-sitting service available today at the headquarters of Pratt.

Officials in charge of his campaign announced last night that six baby-sitters will be on hand at 4713 Lee hwy. all day to care for children of mothers who wish to vote. A registered nurse also will be on duty.

The Pratt-for-Congress group also said it will provide transportation to and from the polls Voters who want to use it are asked to call Oxford 3602 or 3603.

The Sixth District may offer some reflection of the political importance of the Truman-anti-Truman division in the Democratic ranks. Delegate Robertson has plugged hard on a State's rights campaign and is the only one of the three to have said he wouldn't vote the Truman-Barkley ticket. Both Burton and Menefee have announced their support of the national party ticket.

Opera at Watergate Starts on Wednesday

The Watergate Opera Festival opens Wednesday night with Verdi's "Aida." Florence Kirk of the Metropolitan will sing the title role. Bette Dubro, formerly known as "Gloria," with Phil Spatalny's all-girl show, will sing Amneris.

Pietro Cimara, conductor of the San Francisco and Metropolitan Opera Companies, will conduct the opening performance as well as three other operas to be presented during the week. Tickets are on sale at the Hayes Ticket Office in the Raleigh Hotel lobby.

$5 Monthly Rental Good Until 1974

Rents may be soaring everywhere else, but the rent on a certain stall in the new Center Market, 5th and K sts. nw., was $5 a month in 1875 and it looks like it will remain $5 until 1974.

Tenant of a poultry and vegetable stall at the $5 rental is Michele Fiore, 32, who began working there under his grandfather 20 years ago. The grandfather, Michele DiStasio, took over the stand in 1919.

In Municipal Court yesterday, the landlord, Second Realty Corp., said the 99-year lease signed in 1875 had been breached by the occupancy of Fiore. The corporation claimed that the lease couldn't be transferred, and demanded possession.

But Attorney Herman Miller contended it was not technically a transfer since, in effect, it came to Fiore by descendance from his ancestor. Chief Judge George P. Barse ruled for Fiore.

Scouts' Cruise Canceled

Skipper Robert Schnabel, 17, of the Sea Scout boat Wild Cat had his sailing orders promptly canceled yesterday when his father decided the mariner had had enough sea duty for the summer.

The skipper, who lives at 1605 Kennedy pl. nw., and his crew were ready to shove off at 6 a. m. this morning for a 200-mile trip to the mouth of the Chesapeake and back when the change in orders came through.

Skipper Schnabel and his three mates, Lorenz Schenk, 16, of 2618 32d st. se.; Robert Morrison, 15, of 1616 S. Lynn st., Arlington, and Joseph Abel, 16, of 4517 Warren st. nw., have sailed over a thousand miles in their 23-foot boat, and were confident of making a successful trip. They are well versed in navigation, map reading, sailing and rowing.

The skipper, however, has already made a three-week cruise this summer to Coan River, and his father ruled that every sailor must spenud some time in port.

Schnabel's mates gloomily agreed that since competent skippers are scarce, it looks like the trip is definitely off.

Novel Excuse Fails

A man should know how to find his own pockets, Judge Armond Scott of Municipal Court reasoned yesterday.

He used this logic to find probable cause to hold Roy Hatfield, 52, of 1004 Massachusetts ave. nw., for the grand jury on a charge of attempted robbery.

James DeShields of 120 S. Henry st., Alexandria, testified he awakened Saturday night at the Greyhound Terminal to find Hatfield poised over him. He said Hatfield dropped a wallet belonging to DeShields, who gave chase and captured the defendant.

Hatfield's attorney tried to prove that his client was reaching into his own pocket to get at a tobacco tin and landed by mistake in DeShields' pocket.

"That's a novel excuse," commented Judge Scott. "A man knows where his pockets are."

Hackers Held in Theft

A District cab driver was in the Hyattsville (Md.) jail yesterday on charges of stealing sheets, pillow cases and towels from the Q & S Laundry in Bladensburg, Md., at 1 a. m.

Roger A. Russell, 28, of 379 37th pl. se., was arrested by H. J. Neble, Bladensburg chief of police, after Neble inspected the cab parked in front of the laundry.

Russell, who is under $1000 bond pending hearing in Hyattsville Police Court on August 9, had taken a passenger to the laundry to visit the night watchman there, Chief Neble said.

May Run in Arlington

If no "acceptable independent candidate" for the Arlington County Board appears by August 5, H. Herbert Howe, Better Government League secretary, will run for the post, he said yesterday.

He said he may announce the step at a meeting at 8:15 p. m. August 5 on the Citizens Committee for School Improvement in the Arlington Forest Methodist Church, Lee blvd. and N. Henderson rd.

According to Howe, who lives at 1313 N. Wayne st., the only present independant candidate, I. Lee Potter, builder, is being jointly backed in a "deal" between Republicans and certain independents. Potter, although he filed for the board as an independent, is a member of the County Republican Committee.

Fight Locates Watch

James N. Hobbs, 40, of 1030 Fairmont st. nw., was placed under $6000 bond yesterday on robbery and felonious assault charges.

Police testified in Municipal Court that Hobbs was arrested Saturday after Jacob Coleman, 37, of 1007 23d st. nw., was dangerously wounded by a scissors. At the time, they said, they found a stolen wrist watch on Hobbs. The watch was found to belong to H. Elmo Taylor, a postmaster in the Capitol. Taylor was yoked and beaten by two men Friday at 9th st. and Independence ave. nw., according to testimony.

Mason Back on Job

District Commissioner Guy Mason returned from his month's vacation yesterday in time to shake hands with Commissioner J. Russell Young and wish him a good time on his vacation.

Young was in the office briefly before leaving for a month's vacation, which he is expected to spend at a nearby Maryland beach.

Historic Old Fire Engine ★★★ Hail to the Chiefs . . .

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

BUYS FIRST TICKET—Emillie Hubbard, 8714 Ga. ave., Silver Spring, Md., buys first ticket as they go on sale for New York-D. C. Fire Departments' ball game at Griffith Stadium Wednesday night. With her, left to right are Ed Sonneborn and "Chief" Lester Steinim, both of the Friendship Fire Association, local organization which volunteered to do duty as "old time firemen" to sell tickets. The engine was on display yesterday at 13th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. Profits of the game will go to the Metropolitan Police Boys Club. The old engine, a steam pumper, covered every major fire in the District from 1905 until 1929 when it was retired from service

KIDS WELCOME LEADERS—Hundreds from the Metropolitan Police Boys Camp at Scotland, Md., gathered around Police Supt. Robert Barrett (right) and Robert C. Simmons, president of the board of directors, in royal welcome at the annual directors' visit over the weekend. The police chief reported he had invited 70,000 adult members to the camp next Sunday and the following Sunday to see exactly how their dollars were being spent on the citizens of tomorrow

Olive Bendle, 62, Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Olive E. Bendle, 62, of 1509 Highland dr., Silver Spring, Md., a registered Washington pharmacist for 18 years, died yesterday at the Washington Sanitarium in Takoma Park after a long illness.

A resident of Greater Washington for 22 years, Mrs. Bendle and her husband, John H. Bendle, owned the O'Donnell Pharmacy at 3rd and Pennsylvania ave. se., for 18 years. They sold the business and retired five years ago.

Born in Sandusky, Mich., Mrs. Bendle came to Washington in 1926 where she lived until moving to Silver Spring two years ago. She was a member of the Eastern Star.

Besides her husband, she leaves two sisters and two brothers, Miss Delma Hart and Edwin Hart, both of Sandusky, and Mrs. Florence Smith of St. Clair, Mich., and Russell Hart of Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services will be in Holly, Mich.

Son of Guatemalan Embassy Aide, 11, Succumbs at Play

Ignor Mendez-Zebadua, the 11-year-old son of the first secretary of the Guatemalan Embassy here, collapsed and died of a heart ailment yesterday.

The boy was playing with his 8-year-old sister, Luba, and several other children near the Mendez-Zebadua home at 1715 Varnum st. nw. about noon, when he suddenly complained of a severe headache, police said.

He immediately went inside and collapsed on couch in the living room. He was pronounced dead at 1 p. m. by Dr. James E. Fitzgerald, of the Gallinger Hospital staff.

A spokesman for the family said that Igor had had a malformed heart since birth. He had undergone a heart operation in Boston just six months ago, police said.

The child's father, Senor Don Ismael Mendez-Zebadua, is in Guatemala at present, while the mother, Senora Bianka de Mendez-Zebadua, remained here with the children. The family has been in this country about a year, the spokesman said.

IGOR MENDEZ-ZEBADUA
Collapsed and Died

The child's body will be returned to Guatemala for burial.

MacNaughton Funeral Rites Set Today

Mrs. Clara W. MacNaughton, former Washington resident for many years, died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Powell Davis, in Oakland, Calif.

Death was attributed to heart failure following an illness of about two or three months.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. MacNaughton moved to Washington about 1890. She had completed her education in Michigan where she was born, and was a graduate of the University of Michigan.

A friend of Miss Susan B. Anthony, famed leader of the suffrage-for-women movement, Mrs. MacNaughton was also a suffragette during her residence here.

Mrs. MacNaughton lived in Paris during World War I, where her daughter was serving in the United State's Consul's office. Following her daughter's marriage to the former chief of the Department of Interior's Reclamation Service, Mrs. MacNaughton lived with Mr. and Mrs. Davis in Russia and California.

Mrs. MacNaughton leaves only her daughter.

Funeral services and burial will be held today in Oakland, Calif.

Lloyd Church

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—New York State Supreme Court Justice Lloyd Church, 59, died today aboard a liner en route to Shanghai, according to word received here.

Officials of the American President Lines said the jurist was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage aboard the President Cleveland.

Church sailed from San Francisco on a vacation trip July 17.

Born in Norfolk, Va., Church was graduated from the University of Virginia in 1912 and received his law degree there in 1915.

He was elected justice of the Supreme Court in 1934 for a 14-year term. In 1941 he resigned to run for New York City comptroller on the Democratic ticket but was defeated.

He was reelected to the Supreme Court in 1942, on the American Labor Party ticket. He would have served until 1956.

Surviving are his wife, Effie Helen Church; a daughter and three grandchildren.

Charles A. Hess

Charles Acker Hess, 47, a Federal Works Agency employe, died yesterday at Mount Alto Hospital after a 10-week illness.

Mr. Hess, a veteran of World War I, was born in Parksburg, Pa., and was a member of the Haubert Paul American Legion Post in that city. He came to Washington in 1939 to work in the Government. He lived at 2406 18th st. nw., and attended the Metropolitan Baptist Church.

He leaves him wife, Mabel Hoskins Hess, and two stepsons, Donald and Kenneth Steen, all of the 18th st. address.

John McHugh

Chappaqua, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—John McHugh, 83, former president of the Chase National Bank of New York, died yesterday at his home here after a heart attack.

He retired in January, 1934, as chairman of the executive committee of the Chase National, but continued active in Wall Street as chairman of the Discount Corporation.

McHugh began his career as an apprentice telegrapher with the Grand Trunk Railway in Belleville, Ont., where he was born. When he was 26 he left railroading and took a minor position with the First National Bank, of Carroll, Iowa, one of a chain of banks in that State. He was moved from one to another over a period of seven years, and then was made cashier of a branch at Sioux City. He soon became president of the Iowa State National Bank in Sioux City.

He came to New York in 1915 as assistant to Gates McGarrah, president of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank. When McGarrah became chairman of the board, McHugh was elected president.

When the Mechanics and Metals Bank merged wit hthe Chase National in 1926 to become the second largest bank in the country, McHugh became its president.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary McHugh, and a daughter, Mrs. Gerald Beal.

Dr. Rea Parker

Sleep Tablet Death of Girl Ruled Suicide

Miss Allyn G. Doyle, 24, of 4801 Montgomery la., Bethesda, died yesterday in Suburban Hospital, where she was admitted last Thursday after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets.

A certificate of suicide was issued by Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County medical examiner.

Police said Miss Doyle, a former member of the office staff at the hospital where she died, had suffered a spinal injury last May which paralyzed both legs. She was described as being "quite depressed" since then, but her family would not comment on her condition.

She leaves her parents, C. Eugene Doyle and Mrs. Ruth Cartwright Doyle; a brother, R. Cartwright Doyle, and a sister, Mrs. John C. Stoddard, all of Bethesda.

Private funeral services will be held Wednesday, with burial in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Miss A. M. F. Peterson

Miss Antoinette Mary Frances Peterson 81, a retired Post Office Department employee, died Saturday at Leland Memorial Hospital in Riverdale, Md. She had been ill for three months.

Miss Peterson was born in New York, and came to Washington with her mother in 1883. She worked in the Post Office Department for 44 years and retired as cashier at the dead letter office in 1930.

Miss Peterson was a member of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church and a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She lived at 815 Webster st. nw.

She is survived by a cousin, Miss Inez Gardner of 1451 Chapin st. nw.

Funeral services will be held today at 11 a. m. in the St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Inmate Flees Workhouse in Stolen Truck

A 21-year-old inmate of the District Workhouse at Occoquan escaped yesterday in a workhouse pickup truck, and was still at large last night.

Hawes

He was identified as Herbert Hawes, whose mother lives at 6606 H st. ne. He was sentenced July 5 to serve 360 days for auto theft, according to Donald Clemmer, director of the Department of Corrections.

Clemmer said that Hawes was awakened at 4:30 a. m. yesterday, along with 30 other inmates. En route from the dormitory to the dining room, Hawes slipped away from the group and went to a nearby parking lot, Clemmer said.

The prisoner started the truck by crossing wires, according to Clemmer. The abandoned truck was recovered shortly before 9 a. m. by Alexandria police in the 700 block of Montgomery st., Alexandria.

Clemmer said he believed Hawes had returned to the District, and Metropolitan police were alerted to look for him.

Summer Budget Diet Keeps Your Energy Up —Your Weight Down

By IDA JEAN KAIN

A SWELTERING day, a torrid night, a wink of sleep—and another sultry morning. Summer simmers on . . .

Relax . . . I'm not going to suggest that you hop nimbly out of bed and romp through setting-up calisthenics, of all things. I just want to tell you how to get up on the right side of the bed. With no exercise, the body loses tone and you bog down more quickly with the heat.

All you have to do is stretch. A few minutes of easy stretching can make all the difference in the way you start the day. This is not something I dreamed up as an August special. It's a scientific fact . . .

Ida Jean Kain

When we wake up in the morning, the circulation is slow, and the only move we feel like making is a lazy stretch. Fine—that's nature's way of stirring the circulation into gentle action. A natural stretch, with the mild twist and pull that are part of it, contracts the muscles, squeezes out the old blood and lets new blood flow in. A follow-up stretch raises the ribs and lets air into the lungs. Then the old blood is carried away, and the next big stretch brings in a fresh supply. Stretching is a natural—it tones and refreshes the body.

DON'T get up—for a few minutes. Just push your pillow aside, yawn and s-t-r-e-t-c-h. Arms straight back overhead, legs straight down, pull slim through the midriff . . . Now stretch right arm back on mattress, cross right leg over left, touching toes to bed beyond, and s-t-r-e-t-c-h through the middle muscles. Then reverse, crossing left leg over. Still flat on back, stretch right leg straight down, flex left knee with foot on bed, and twist gently at the waist until knee point touches bed at far side of right leg . . . And so on, giving it your own twist.

A cool shower and a good breakfast, and off to work you go—maybe even whistling "In the Good Old Summertime."

Three-Year-Olds Can Start Swim Lessons

Your children can't swim? If they're three or older, start teaching them today, advises an August American Home article, "Better Late than Sorry." Among the many helpful suggestions given are to first inspire confidence by demonstrating your ability and lack of fear. Don't permit the use of tubes or other such playthings until the child can swim without them. Go slowly and gradually. Don't ever force, command, threaten or scare. Be patient, patient, patient.

Back-to-School Fashions in Felt

THE teen-ager and college miss alike need a sturdy, well made felt hat for fall and winter weather. These classic perennials, made by Knox, will fill the bill nicely. For the 19-year-old, entering her freshman or sophomore year of college, Cruise and Travel II (right) will be smart with all her campus suits and dresses. With a Renoir bonnet tilt to the brim, it is finished with an elegant chou of satiny ribbon

LITTLE SISTER likes to perch her sailor, with the rolled up brim, far back on her head and let the loop of grosgrain ribbon fall below her coat collar. This one is called Cruise and Travel I. Both are available at Raleigh Haberdasher

Paris Showings Begin

By Florence Mills

Paris, Aug. 2 (AP).—The first Paris fall show was launched today by Marcel Rocha. He is the designer who started the "back to feminity" trend in 1945 by launching his now famous "Guepere" (wasp) corset.

He is still following the ultra feminine line, and is still using his waist restricting corselet. Length in his collection was dropped slightly to 10 inches from the ground for day wear, and as low as 6 inches from the ground for cocktail dresses. Evening wear is ankle length in front dipping to ground level at the back.

The shoulder line remains padless, rounded, and the bustline well defined. Waistlines are curved and generally dropped. Waist-yokes, darted to accentuate the waist, and widish corselet belts, are shown for daywear.

Most skirts are moderately full, usually bias-cut and often with an unpressed pleat falling from a dropped back waistline. Others have hip drapery and fullness pulled to the back. Jackets are dressy, very waisted, hippy and short, with peplums stiffened but not padded. No classic tailor mades appeared in the show.

Full-length velour capes and swingback topcoats that look snug enough to keep the cold out on the dreariest winter day were a feature of the collection. They came in neutral, oatmeal, sand and gray shades.

gray plaid. A few shorter capes with voluminous back fullness had a very gay facing of black, red, and grey plaid. A few shorter capes were also shown, topping pannelled coats or wool dresses.

Evening wear had a Spanish flavor. The basic silhouette was a very tight fitting sheath, usually strapless, which reached low enough to encase the knees. Here it was attached to a very full flounce of the same material—usually heavy satin or taffeta—or of tulle.

Put It Back the Same Way

After using a paper pattern in dressmaking, try to fold it in the exact folds in which it was originally before putting it back in the envelope. Then it will be in good condition when next used.

Society Anglers Report The Fishing's Fine at Montauk Point This Year

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Learning that the Secretary of Agriculture had a Tuesday fishing date with C. J. Conn, that Miss Charlotte Noland, headmistress of Middleburg's Foxcroft School, had rung up the women's division season record hauling in a 65-pound white marlin, we decided to delve into the rod and reel situation at the Montauk Yacht Club.

This summer everything's on the up and up in deep sea fishing circles. Fish are skipping about like mad 20 miles or less off shore. There never have been more or handsomer tuna—nobody has the faintest notion why.

The yacht club, sheltered in an inlet of Montauk, Long Island's skinny tip, has 83 members. Some maintain their own fishing craft, others use the charter fleet. Some 10 boats which have room for six anglers cost $65 weekdays, $70 weekends, with tackle, bait, crew included. Most of the sport fishing boats, as they are called, are 48 feet long, cost around $45,000 completely equipped with harpoon, pulpit and other exciting gadgets. Niftiest in these parts is the Wee Dashgon, owned by Charles Campbell of Greenwich, who is yacht club fleet captain. Most eye-compelling of larger craft is oil tycoon Arthur Pew's 120-foot motor sailer, Mercury Fifth.

Club Commodore

CLUB commodore is Dan Topping of marrying Topping brothers, with Ralph Pulitzer of the newspaper owning family as vice commodore, and Richard Fowler as rear commodore. Most skilled fishermen are Kip Farrington, who's cast a line in dozens of countries; Nugo Rutherford, Norman Windsor, who back in 1940 stunned Izaak Walton devotees by landing two broad bills each weighing over 250 pounds in a single day.

Other whizzes include Nans Ninricas and Faith Farrington, Kip's wife, who is rated most expert among the ladies.

The fishing season hereabouts opens May 15, ends October 1. First to be caught are pollock, which seldom weigh more than 20 pounds, then yellow fin tunas, which hit the scale up to 118. Then come the tough, sporty white marlin and broad bill, both swordfish cousins, which can weigh up to 700 pounds and be very mean customers.

Every now and again some freak variety is caught. Last week a basking shark was caught. Some 14 feet in length, weighing around 1000 pounds, the beast was obligingly equipped with a 63-pound liver which sells at $7.50 per pound—it's used medicinally and as perfume base. Other shark livers aren't worth a dime. The basking shark, second seen in these waters in 20 years, has another endearing feature—no teeth—just five rows of gills to strain the food it surface skims.

Ranching Too

WHILE yacht club members go out to sea, Montauk land-lubbers have a pleasant time. Former Ambassador to Germany and Mrs. James Gerard are ensconsed in Montauk Manor. Commander Stevenson, who piloted McArthur back to the Philippines, has one of Mrs. Marion Aubert's houses. Meanwhile Deep Hollow Ranch is attracting those who like to mix cowboys, long horned cattle, rodeo riding and barbecues with their fishing.

In Summer Bridal Procession

Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church chapel was scene of the wedding July 30 of Miss Sara Ruth Grimes and Roderick B. Linger. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Willard Grimes and the late Mr. Grimes of Martinsburg, W. Va., and her husband is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Linger of Buchhannon, W. Va. The Rev. A. N. Warner officiated.

Willard Hunter Grimes gave his sister in marriage. She wore a white wedding gown with a bodice of lace and a full skirt of marquisette. Her short veil was held in place by a halo of net and she carried white gladioli and orchids.

Mrs. Ronald Michael was matron of honor and James E. Ansel of Moorefield, W. Va., was bst man.

A reception for the wedding party and immediate family was held in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wake. After a Northern trip the couple will reside in Martinsburg, W. Va.

The bride was graduated from Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va., and the bridegroom has degrees from West Virginia University and University of Michigan.

Giles—Winters

Miss Margaret Theresa Winters, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Winters, of Andover, Mass., and the late John F. Winters, became the bride of Ernest E. Giles, son of W. E. Giles of Salisbury, Mo., on July 23.

The bride wore a dress of powder blue linen with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. She was attended by Mrs. Alice Klepac. Edward Klepac served as best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the Willard Hotel. The bride is a graduate of St. Augustine's School in Andover. Her husband is serving with the United States Marine Corps in Washington, where the couple will reside.

WHEE-E-E-E, four-thirty is a nice time of the day, 'cause that's when Daddy comes. With outstretched arms, little Wayne runs to meet his Daddy, William O'Brien, after spending the day with his foster mother, Mrs. Andrew Johnson (right). Daddy was busy all day working as a machinist, but the time from now on belongs to Wayne, and the O'Briens will go marketing, have dinner and wash dishes together

Red Feather Foster Care

Community Chest Agency Helps Machinist To Be Both Mother and Father to 4-Year-Old

By Ruth Allison Hudnut

IF A mother must work at a paid job — and plenty of mothers must these days—it means a lot to know there's a Red Feather service which can find the best possible day home for the baby. Foster Day Care and Counseling Association exists for just that purpose. And its workers don't stop with working mothers, though they are by far the most numerous. They help working fathers, too.

William O'Brien, machinist, can testify to that. He and his little boy lost the mother of the family some time back.

He tried a good many ways of caring for the child at first. He experimented with private nurseries, day foster homes, friends. His own mother came from Cincinnati for a time to help him out. Through it all, he kept his boy and was both father and mother to him.

Finally with the help of Foster Day Care and Counseling Association, he found a day foster home which seems just right for his son. It is the job of the skilled workers of this Red Feather agency to match children with homes. For instance, one child may need careful supervision. He may require individual attention and flourish only when he has it. Another child may do better with other children and the planned program provided by a nursery school.

You and the worker decide together what is best for your child. Your pocketbook may have something to do with your decision. There are public day care nurseries and Red Feather nurseries which charge according to the amount a parent can afford. It is well to note Foster Day Care and Counseling finds day care only. More complete 'round-the-clock care must be obtained through other Red Feather agencies.

The foster home found for Mr. O'Brien had an understanding foster mother with three children of her own, one about Wayne's age with whom he can play.

Every day Wayne's father leaves him at the foster home at 7:30 a. m. The day is already well along for them both because daddy has gotten up, dressed his boy, fed him breakfast and taken him to the home.

And, by the way, a home's location is of great importance to a working parent. Foster Day Care and Counseling has foster homes scattered all over the District so that no working parent need go too far afield in taking his child there. The homes are licensed, meeting all sanitary requirements. They are clean, have plenty of air space and places where children can safely play. A room is provided for naps and an isolation room in case a child comes down with a rash or temperature before his parent calls for him at night.

MOST important, foster mothers are investigated carefully. They must be emotionally stable. They must love children and be financially independent of the amount they receive for foster care. This amount isn't very large for these inflationary times. The average fee ranges from $8 to $12 a week. Infants cost the most because they require more care. The agency has about 132 children under care in foster homes. And care means supervision of all homes approved by the agency.

But to come back to Wayne and his father. Wayne plays all day with his foster brother in a shady fenced yard. Other children come there also to play. He has a substantial lunch, an afternoon nap, and is ready to greet his daddy when he calls for him around 4:30 p. m. Then home they go together, perhaps marketing on the way and daddy gets dinner.

Mr. O'Brien admits things were tough at first. He found earning a living, keeping a home and caring for a baby almost more than one man could accomplish. But now he has things organized. His physician has advised him about Wayne's food. His breakfast consists of fruit, milk, an egg, cereal, perhaps a piece of bread. His dinner is meat or chicken, vegetables, fruit for dessert, plenty of milk and maybe ice cream these hot nights. At four years of age, Wayne was about the weight and height of a 6-year-old, so daddy's cooking certainly agrees with him.

In winter Wayne goes to bed between 7 and 8 p. m. But in summer—well—9 o'clock seems time enough and even then he practically "goes to bed by day." Before bedtime there are dishes to wash and Wayne helps the best he knows how, games to play, a walk perhaps and nightly bath. Weekends there are clothes to wash, the inevitable round of meals, dishes, housecleaning. There are swims in the Chevy Chase pool, too. His father is teaching Wayne to swim. There are picnics to Marshall Hall or nearby parks and a vacation at grandma's in Cincinnati.

Daddy has one night out a week. He takes Wayne along. They visit friends, and Wayne goes to bed while daddy plays cards and discusses the problems of the universe. Wayne and his daddy are always together. Daddy says if he can't take Wayne, he doesn't go, because, after all, he is two parents in one—and that's a responsibility which consumes most of one person's time.

Envoy Honored At Birthday Fete

Ambassador of the Philippines Joaquin M. Elizalde was surprised yesterday evening with a birthday party given by members of the embassy staff at his home.

The birthday cake was decorated with a replica of the Philippine flag and the Ambassador's boat and had 12 candles, one for each year he has spent in government office. The party program included Philippine dances in costume, given by staff members.

Among the guests at the fete were U. S. Ambassador to the Philippines Emmet O'Neal and Mrs. O'Neal, Philippine Secretary of Finance Miguel Cuaderno, Philippine Senator Vicente Madrigal and members of the Burning Tree Club, of which Ambassador Elizalde is a member.

Some of the well-wishers from the Philippine Embassy were Minister Counselor Narciso Ramos and Mrs. Ramos, Military Attache Col. Jaime C. Velasquez and Mrs. Velasquez, and Attache Abelardo L. Valencia and Mrs. Valencia.

TUNA CLUB SALAD—Accented with sharp cheddar cheese and chopped parsley, this salad makes an appetizing main dish for mid-summer meals. Here's the way to make it!

|---|---|
| 2 teaspoons chili powder | ½ cup chopped celery |
| 3 tablespoons lemon juice | 1 cup chopped celery |
| 1 6½-ounce can tuna | 1 cup diced sharp cheddar cheese |
| 2 cups cooked salad macaroni | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 2 tablespoons chopped onion | 1/3 cup mayonnaise |
| 2 tablespoons chopped parsley | Lettuce |

Blend chili powder into lemon juice and mix thoroughly with tuna. Combine salad macaroni with remaining ingredients and add to tuna mixture. Serve in lettuce garnished salad bowls. This recipe serves six persons.

Cooking Cues

For a festive dessert, top lemon pie with moist canned or fresh shredded coconut.

Leftover chicken will go a long way if diced and added to a mixture of rice and tomato sauce. Bake in a casserole topped with buttered crumbs, or heat on top of the range.

Hamburgers are delicious topped with onion rings that have been sauteed and seasoned with salt, freshly ground pepper, a dash of sugar and a little soy sauce.

To make the dessert called Trifle, put stale white cake cubes in the bottom of a dessert bowl; dot with a few tablespoons of current or grape jelly or strawberry or raspberry preserves. Now add another layer of the cake cubes and pour custard sauce over the top. Chill well and serve garnished with some of the jelly or jam used.

Do not use water from the hot-water tap in brewing coffee; the water should be freshly heated to obtain the best tasting coffee infusion.

Muffins for breakfast can be made quickly if the dry ingredients are measured and sifted the night before.

Chopped fresh or canned mushrooms are an excellent addition to condensed tomato soup. The combination may be used as a soup or a sauce.

Add a small amount of chopped apple to a tuna fish and celery salad; moisten with mayonnaise and serve on leaves of romaine. Garnish with thin slices of scored cucumber.

How to Vary the Routine of Housework

Almost every housewife has a tired, let-down feeling sometime in her busy day and there is some way for each of us to bring back the pep with which the day started. It may not be the same method with each woman but here are a few ways to get back to normal: A short nap, time out for a half hour's reading in warm, scented water; or just lying down flat on the davenport for a half hour listening to a favorite radio program.

Yippee! It's crispy!

What a target Corn-Soya makes at the breakfast table! The kids dig in . . . and love it. This tempting, tasty down-right delicious cereal is really nourishing, too . . . and the cost per serving, with milk and sugar, is small. Get some today.

Ask Anne

About Home Wedding Etiquette

I am being married in the very near future and would appreciate an early answer in your column to the following questions. Incidentally, the marriage is to be a home wedding.

1. If the bride wears a long dress and the bridegroom wears a tuxedo, is it necessary for guests who have been asked to preside at the punch bowl and cut wedding cake to wear long dresses?

It is very nice, but not necessary, for the guests who assist at the reception to wear long dresses.

2. Who stands in the receiving line during the reception and in what order?

The only persons in the receiving line are the groom, bride, maid or matron of honor and bridesmaids. They stand in that order, with the bride always standing on the groom's right. The receiving line stands before the improvised altar or in some other suitable place where there is a pleasing background.

The bride's mother, as hostess, stands at the door of the room in which the reception is being held to greet her guests. Also, the groom's mother and father may stand with the bride's mother. The bride's father usually circulates around, performing his duties as host, but he may stand with the bride's mother if he prefers.

(3) Is it necessary to have a hostess to introduce guests to the first person in the receiving line as they arrive?

At a small home wedding, it is not necessary to have a person at the beginning of the receiving line to introduce guests. Any guest who is not known to the first person in the line (it will be either bride or groom, depending upon which way the guests approach the line) will simply give his own name.

(4) Since I don't know, should I ask the minister about the performance of the double ring ceremony, and does he attend the rehearsal?

H. R. D.

By all means discuss the entire ceremony in advance with the minister. Many couples make an appointment with him in his study for this purpose well in advance of the ceremony. And, of course, it would be well for him to attend the rehearsal since his part in the ceremony is such an important one. You will find him extremely helpful in arranging all details of the ceremony.

Where can I sell two Japanese kimonos? Both are heirlooms and very lovely. One is a wedding kimono and the other a honeymoon kimono. L. M.

There is a shop on South Royal Street in Alexandria (telephone Alexandria 0649) that sells a wide variety of "not-new" articles. This store would probably place the articles on sale for you if your price is not too high. With any item, the proprietors ask to examine the article before saying positively whether they will handle it.

Cab Driving Veterinarian Delivers Baby

A 26-year-old mother and her infant son who was delivered by a cab driver Sunday night en route to Providence Hospital were reported in "fine" condition yesterday.

Still connected by the umbilical cord, but entered as separate patients, were Mrs. Peter J. Ghisi, 5606 L st., Hillside, Md., and her 7-pound-5-ounce boy, Antony.

Antony was delivered by Alfred A. Laughery, 38, a former Army veterinarian and a weekend cab driver for the Local Cab Co. Another woman passenger, not identified, was the "nurse."

Laughery, who is an employe at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oaks, Md., lives at 102 66th st., Maryland Park, with his wife and four "doctor-delivered" children.

Ex-Wac Bears 3d Twin Pair In 27 Months

Akron, Ohio, August 2 (U.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Summers, 29, a former Army Wac, gave birth to her third set of twins in 27 months early today in Peoples Hospital here.

Mrs. Summers, who married her GI sweetheart, Charles, 31, on New Guinea in the South Pacific 3½ years ago, said she was "flabbergasted" but "happy."

The twins are boys, as are her second set. The first pair were girls, born in May, 1946.

2 Czech Quadruplets Die Soon After Birth

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 2 (U.P.).—Two of the quadruplets born Friday to a Czech laborer's wife died over the weekend, it was reported from Brno. Mrs. Adele N. Nemcova, 33, bore the first child at her home, and rode to a hospital where the other three were delivered.

Manila Wife, 36, Loses All 4 New-Born Infants

Manila, Aug. 2 (AP).—Quadruplets were born last night to Mrs. Avelfa Corpus Castillo, 36, wife of an army civilian employe. The quads—three girls and a boy—lived only four hours.

Borax First

Any white article that is very soiled such as curtains, blankets, spreads, etc., will be benefited by soaking over night in cold water to which a handful of borax has been added. It will loosen the dirt so that it will wash out readily the next day and give a beautiful color to the material.

Hunch Leads District Woman To Real Mother, Twin Brother

MILTON H. GUNN

EDNA-EARLE ROSENHEIM

U. S. Worker Learns She Has a Brother

A routine telephone call on a "hunch" led Miss Edna-Earle Rosenheim, 1437 Rhode Island ave. nw., to uncover a new world—including a new name, a mother she had never known, a twin brother and a variety of other kinfolk.

The 43-year-old Securities and Exchange Commission secretary yesterday outlined incidents leading to her "amazing" discovery—incidents beginning with the death long ago of a baby girl and culminating in a tear-splashed reunion with relatives last Saturday in Baltimore.

Final phase of the poignant story began last Thursday when Miss Rosenheim arose as usual to report to her job in the public utilities branch and suddenly she felt that she could not.

"Something" Influenced Her

"Something," she recalled, "drew me to Baltimore."

The buxom, graying brunette, believing herself "alone" in the world save for an 82-year-old invalid "mother," now hospitalized, felt she must try to look up a "cousin" whom she'd heard discussed many years ago. The "cousin" had been described as a "twin" because their birthdays were the same.

"I'd always meant to look him up but never got around to it," Miss Rosenheim explained. She's lived here 12 years.

But that day, Miss Rosenheim went over to Baltimore and did some research in the Pratt Library. She found a name that rang a bell—Milton Gunn, the man she believed to be her "twin" cousin. That was the name of Miss Rosenheim's now-deceased "uncle"—in actuality her father.

Soon Learns the Truth

She telephoned Gunn. Soon, she said, they both realized she must be his sister for he knew he didn't have a twin cousin but did remember having a twin sister who died many years ago." Gunn confessed, she related, "he never really felt I was dead."

A family reunion was arranged and Miss Rosenheim spent the whole day in Baltimore Saturday meeting her real mother "who cried and couldn't talk much," her brothers and sisters and a score or more of newfound dear ones.

There Miss Rosenheim, who, incidentally, plans to use the name Gunn, learned that the woman she's always called mother—and still does—is in reality an aunt; that she had been turned over to the aunt when she was 10 days old; that her foster father, now dead, didn't know she was not his own child.

Aunt Kept Mouth Closed

Of her aged foster mother, Mrs. Lula Rosenheim, Miss Rosenheim said:

"No one will ever take her place with me . . ."

Mrs. Rosenheim, it seems, had lost her own baby girl in infancy and her sister, mother of twins, was prevailed upon to turn over one of her own children to take the place of the dead baby. The whole family was then living in Memphis, Tenn.

So seriously did Mrs. Rosenheim take the matter that she "went to bed" when the infant girl was given her—and her husband, a traveling man, never knew the baby was not his. Subsequently, the Rosenheim family moved and kept only haphazardly in touch with their relatives. By 1920, after the death of Rosenheim, contact between the two branches was virtually nil.

Miss Rosenheim said her foster mother seemed on the point of breaking "something big" to her several times when she was very ill. "But she couldn't bring herself to tell me . . . I was all she had in the world . . ."

But for Miss Rosenheim the world has expanded by leaps and bounds and her joy with it.

"Now I have someone," she murmured, "now I'm not alone . . ."

Farewell to Terrapin

Another symbol of the "good old days" is passing. Waning demand for rich terrapin stew, the high point of expensive dining in the gay nineties, has resulted in the closing of the world's largest diamondback hatchery at Beaufort, N. C.

3½ Million Settlement Reported in Divorce

Reno, Nev., Aug. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Evelyn Lehman today obtained a divorce from Allan S. Lehman, New York banker, in proceedings reported to involve the largest settlement in Reno divorce history.

Reliable reports placed the settlement at $3,500,000. Mrs. Lehman refused to deny or confirm the figure, and the complainant said simply it was "fair, just and equitable."

Mrs. Lehman divorced her husband, newphew of Herbert H. Lehman, former Governor of New York, on grounds of separation. They were married in 1912 and have been separated 17 years.

Lehman did not contest the suit.

Dance Masters Take Cruise

The Dancing Masters of America, attending their annual convention here, last night took a moonlight boat ride down the Potomac. Nearly 400 dancing teachers convened Sunday for the week-long session at the Shoreham Hotel to hear of last-minute techniques in ballroom, tap, ballet, modern and acrobatic steps.

Virginia Should Trust Somebody

NEW YORK—The first of the Regional Fellowships offered by MGM Studios and Farrar, Straus & Co. will go to a 26-year-old writer, John Brick of Yonkers, N. Y., for a novel dealing with the post-Civil War period. He's been writing fiction for only two years, and his prize-winning novel will be his first published work . . . There'll be a creditors' meeting to take drastic action against a recent dance promotion. Anton Dolin and Alicia Markova were among those who were unpaid.

Virginia Bruce devoted the past two years to a vain fight for the return of her husband, Ali Apar, a citizen of Turkey, who was ordered home in 1946. This was reported in a press association story, and was read by the young daughter of an influential Californian. "I like Virginia Bruce in pictures," the little girl told her father. "Help her" . . . The father obtained an appointment with Miss Bruce. "I'll get it done," he promised the actress, who shrugged: "Oh, sure." The man told her, "I'll get in touch with George and Alben," and then identified them as Marshall and Barkley. "Oh, sure," Miss Bruce continued . . . Two weeks later Ali Apar had his visa and was back in California.

Gen. Bill Donovan is in Greece, observing the warfare. He's making a tour of several countries in the trouble zone . . . Gertrude Lawrence has notified John Van Druten that she'll appear in his play only if he agrees to open it in London first. If Van Druten persists in demanding a New York premiere, he'll have to find another star for the role . . . John Royal went to Madrid, in behalf of RCA, to introduce television there. The men who will distribute the sets in Spain won't sell them outright, but will lease them to customers, whose payments will support the television program.

Royal stopped at the Avis Hotel in Lisbon, where he saw some porcelain ashtrays which bore the stamp: "This has been honorably pinched from the Avis Hotel." Royal sought out the manager and berated him. "This is an insult directed at Americans. It's printed only in English and therefore suggests that only Americans would steal them. As an American, I resent it" . . . The hotel manager apologized and said: "I'm sorry. If there's anything I could do . . . " Royal told him: "There is something you could do. I would never dream, of course, of pinching one of these. So give me two."

Andre Kostelanetz, now on a concert tour of Europe, was invited by Pablo Picasso to see the ceramics he made and which will be exhibited this winter. Picasso devoted the past year to making these ceramics, which he calls his new art form. "It's music set to clay," said the painter . . . Daniel Bell, one of the leading Socialists in the country, has been signed to an important post with Henry Luce's Fortune magazine . . . Governor Dewey's advisers have persuaded him to make a statement urging bipartisan support for price and wage controls, perhaps with a rollback to June.

On Bastile Day Ingrid Bergman, Charles Boyer, Hedy Lamarr, Rita Hayworth and other screen stars went to Paris to participate in a party given in the Eiffel Tower. The Paris Soir, which sponsored the celebration, reserved the entire second floor of the Tower for the party . . . One man, however, started to bring a lawsuit for an injunction. His point was that for 10 years he had had a rendezvous with a lady who always joined him on the second floor. He didn't want these meetings interrupted. The Paris Soir conceded the justness of his claims, gave him two tickets to the party, with the sole stipulation that when the stars were called upon he must join them in taking a bow.

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

The Welcome Mat

Many a parent has asked the question: "Why do all the youngsters in the neighborhood hang out at the Smiths (or the Browns)?"

Some of us are happy that our house and yard aren't cluttered up with assorted children. Others wish that they knew the secret.

If one listens to the youngsters themselves, some of the answers are clear. It may be "There's a swell back yard at Jimmy's. You can do all sorts of things there." Or, "Mrs. Brown is swell. She's not always crabbing about too much noise." Still again, "Nancy's mother makes you feel right at home. And it's a lot of fun to talk with her."

It's fine for a child to know that his friends are always welcome and that they like to come to his home. There's a sense of pride and satisfaction in one's family that helps a great deal in social adjustment. It is of such experiences that emotional security—confidence in one's self—is built.

If you want your home to be one of the gathering places for the neighborhood kids, try to find out why they like to go to other houses, take a little self-inventory and begin to provide the understanding atmosphere that means so much to the young.

LOSING Your HAIR ...and Your LOOKS

ENJOY MORE VIRILE HAIR in 30 DAYS or WE PAY THE FEE!

R. W. FARRELL, Trichologist

Give your scalp a chance to grow hair! Don't let simple deterrents like clogged follicles or sluggish circulation stifle your scalp's natural urge to grow strong, healthy hair! Our intensive trichological treatments scientifically combine ultraviolet therapy, professional stimulation and exclusive laboratory-created formulae; they penetrate clogged hair passages, attack subscalp bacteria, eliminate itchiness and irritation, normalize the blood circulation which "feeds" the hair roots, and revitalizes the entire cycle of hair-growing activity. Delay is deadly and may lead to fatal follicle shrinkage. Come in today or tonight for a free comprehensive examination and consultation. Hopeless cases are never accepted. Yes, enjoy your hair's new virile look within 30 days or we'll pay your fee!

Predictions Failed to Hold True

By Drew Pearson

Here are some predictions some people would like to forget—this time from barons of business who lobbied so hard in the summer of 1948 to kill OPA:

Wason

Wesley Hardenberg, president, the American Meat Institute:

"What is needed is for Congress to do away entirely with all OPA meat and livestock price regulations of every description so that consumers again may get the kind of meat they want, when they want it, at a fair competitive market."

John E. Jaeger, president, National Association of Retail Grocers, told the American Wholesale Grocers Association:

"We (retail grocers) feel that the time has arrived when . . . actions must be taken . . . to prevent renewal of the Price Control Act. Competition will benefit the consumer by making available ample food at reasonable prices."

Arthur Bruce, president, National Lumber Manufacturers Association:

"I am personally of the opinion that we would be better off if the Office of Price Administration were to die a natural death June 30."

Robert R. Wason, president, National Association of Manufacturers:

"If OPA is finally dead, women . . . will now use the canned meats and other goods they have on their shelves to see them through any temporary period of price rises. If OPA is eliminated entirely, prices of automobiles may be expected to reach normal within six months, while rents might take at least a year."

Al Guckenberger, executive secretary, New York State Food Merchants Association:

"Prices . . . will level off shortly as they had begun to do last August before controls were reimposed."

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president, National Association of Real Estate Boards:

"We've got a gang in power who thinks solely of the consumer, and usually in terms of 'protecting' him."

Cabinet Pains Truman

Visitors who called on President Truman at the White House after Congress opened found the Chief Executive hopping mad at some of his top executives. He was particularly irate with Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall, Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper and the Army's Chief of Staff Gen. Omar Bradley.

Truman said he was fed up with Royall and Draper for their sabotage of White House policies. Draper's policy of rebuilding Germany at the expense of her neighbors and Secretary Royall's inept handling of Army racial discrimination had got under his skin.

The President was more hurt than angry at the way his fellow Missourian, General Bradley, had reaffirmed segregation and the Army caste system 24 hours after his Commander in Chief had issued an executive order curbing segregation. Truman remarked to close friends that he might have expected trouble from many others, but not from Bradley.

Bradley's Statement

Later, however, the President learned the real facts about General Bradley's statement and he felt better. The Chief of Staff had left for Fort Knox, Ky., without seeing the afternoon papers in which Truman issued his segregation order. Next day Bradley got up at 6 a. m., and at 7:30 went into the conference at which he made his segregation remark—again without reading the papers.

Actually, Bradley's remark about segregation was taken out of context, since most of the conference dealt with improving human relationships in the Army between all groups. One of the most interesting speeches was made by Texas-born Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen, who told about the excellent relations between white and colored troops in his Third Armored Division.

General Allen gave credit for that cooperation to his Negro chaplain, Capt. Osborne E. Scott, and to his Negro hostess, Margaret Collier, the daughter of a Regular Army sergeant in the Twenty-fourth Infantry, a famous Negro regiment.

Hershey's Draft Plans

Not all the details have been released officially yet, but Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey gave a brief report on draft plans to a closed-door session of the Senate-House Armed Services Committee the other day.

He told the solons that the Selective Service machinery would be ready to process the first batch of draftees by October 15, but estimated the second call would not come before January 1.

Hershey told the Senators and Congressmen there was strong pressure—at that time—to start drafting 19-year-olds first, since they were not ready to settle down and would be less likely to be upset by Army service.

The two Armed Services Committees, however, argued the opposite. Unanimously they agreed that the 24 and 25-year-olds should be taken before they passed the eligible age. This was later decided.

The Selective Service boss estimated that nine million youths were available for the draft, but only 1,386,000 would be eligible under the loophole-riddled plan for deferments. Of those who will be caught, the bulk are under 22 since many of those over 22 served in the recent war.

The number eligible for the draft in each age group was broken down by Hershey as follows: 25-year-olds, 8000; 24-year-olds, 15,000; 23-year-olds, 19,000; 22-year-olds, 22,000; 21-year-olds, 222,000; 20-year-olds, 475,000; 19-year-olds, 525,000.

D. C. Families Top Nation In Insurance

District residents have more life insurance per family than any State in the Union, the District Department of Insurance reported yesterday.

This and other statistics were cited by the department in its annual report as evidence of the growth of the department since its establishment in 1902.

The department reported it collected $1,547,302.01 in taxes, fees, penalties and fines during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1948, largest such figure ever collected by the department, and $144,000 more than the previous year's total.

Average Is $6400

The insurance carried by the average District family is $6400, the report shows, and the per capita average is $1670. New York, with $1720 per capita, is the only State to show a higher figure for per capita insurance.

Pointing to the increase in the department's responsibilities since 1902, and particularly since 1934 because of congressional legislation, Albert F. Jordan, District Insurance Superintendent, stated that "although the department has need of additional personnel, the greater need for rigid economy in the District Government is so apparent, that the superintendent will not during the current fiscal year seek any enlargement of the departmental staff."

Provide Standards

Primary function of the department is to administer insurance laws designed to protect the public against insolvency and fraud in insurance companies; provide reasonable standards for insurance contracts; provide for regulation of rates for fire and casualty insurance and for establishment and maintenance of life insurance reserves.

Jordan said yesterday legislation probably will be recommended to the Commissioners this year for forwarding to Congress to permit wider writing of group insurance and to institute standard provisions in industrial policies in the District.

Tickets Fixed For 85 Drivers Low in 1948

Traffic tickets were "fixed" last week for 85 motorists, marking the lowest number of adjustments granted in one week by police since the first of the year.

Throughout the first five months of 1948, ticket adjustments ran mainly between 120 and 145 a week. During the vacation months of June and July the total dropped to a little over 100 a week.

Among those motorists who were given warnings last week for traffic violations was Aaron Miller, a photographer for The Washington Daily News, who received a ticket for parking in an alley. The ticket was adjusted because he was on business for his employer, according to police.

Traffic tickets were cancelled for four persons because of diplomatic immunity. They were:

Istvan Elsasser, Embassy of Iraq, parking in a "no parking from 4 to 6 p. m." zone; Youssof B. Rahka, Embassy of Egypt, parked less than 40 feet from an intersection; Dusan Marusic, Yugoslavian Embassy, obstructing a driveway, and Alberto E. Battaini, Argentine Embassy, parking in a "no parking anytime" zone.

Head-On Crash Injures Three Only Slightly

A 38-year-old District man died yesterday in a Fredericksburg (Va.) hospital of injuries he received when his car crashed into a bridge Sunday.

He was Walter Lawson, of 38 T st. nw. The car he was driving struck the Po River bridge on Route 51 near Snell, in Spotsylvania County, at about 3:45 p. m. Sunday, State Police reported.

In the District, three persons were injured yesterday, none seriously, in the head-on collision of two automobiles at 16th st. and Alaska ave. nw.

Police said a car, operated by Staff Sergt. Harold G. Fulp, 27, of Walter Reed Hospital, making a left-hand turn north on 16th st. crashed into a car, driven west on Alaska ave. by Rhees E. Burkett, 49, an architect, of 9520 Riley rd., Silver Spring, Md.

Fulp suffered bruises and face lacerations and Burkett cuts and bruises to the legs. Leon Frazier, 26, of 1227 7th st. nw., a passenger in Fulp's car, received possible internal injuries. All three were admitted to Walter Reed Hospital for observation and X-rays. A hearing on the accident will be held later at the corporation counsel's office, police said.

Admission Asked For Balts Who Sailed Atlantic

Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat, of New York, yesterday introduced a bill in the House which would permit 29 Balts who arrived in Boston last week after crossing the Atlantic in a small sailing vessel to remain here. The bill, which would waive quota and visa requirements, went to the House Judiciary Committee.

There have been reports that President Truman has shown considerable interest in the plight of the party of Balts and contemplated taking some action to aid them. Mr. Truman will return here today from Missouri-
